

ELIMINATE SELF FROM VIEWPOINT

Impersonal Outlook on Life is Best, Says Dr.
Clark.

NEW HOPE IS KINDLED

By Words of Paul in Face of Humiliating
Death.

The choice of a viewpoint upon life was laid before Varsity students by Rev. J. Clark, of Montreal, in a sermon which he delivered at Convocation Hall yesterday morning. After reading portions of Ecclesiastes and of 2 Timothy, the speaker went on to draw conclusions as to the best way of looking at life. In a very few words he had laid bare the spirit which dominated their lives, and it was that spirit which determined their ultimate happiness and unhappiness. "No more important choice awaits the individual," said Rev. Mr. Clark, "than how we shall use our lives. Up to that choice rests great significance for it concerns our whole life which we must some day lay down, and give an account for. We may find out what we are best fitted for by experiment, and we may also benefit by the experience of others. Such experiences are those offered by the unknown writer of Ecclesiastes and by the Apostle Paul. These experiences which are submitted for our perusal are directly opposed to each other in understanding and in interpretation of life.

The great principle which actuated the unknown writer of the Old Testament was as widely separated as the poles from that which was the guiding principle of the life of Paul. His words descriptive of life, "It is but a breath," are full of dramatic feeling. Sad indeed is the condition of a man who arrives at this gloomy outlook upon humanity. These words are indicative of a sigh of defeat, and of an aspect of unalterable gloom.

"It cannot be denied that a great deal of pleasure comes to us from bodily sensations, and this can hardly be over-estimated. Now, which exhilaration there comes to us from gazing at a beautiful picture or listening to a famous musician, or when we feel that infinity itself is blended with our little portion of life; the contemplation of some great ocean scene, all these tend to feelings of pleasure. But without the acre man have never been able to satisfy themselves with the pleasures which they are able to enjoy. Their spiritual beings are not satisfied. Nauseating feelings and a certain take possession of us, physically, mentally and spiritually as well.

"Not only did the writer of the Old Testament revel in the pleasures of his physical life, but he also placed himself as the centre of all things. A greater misconception was never made by a man than to set the rest of the universe in relation to himself. Surely the realization comes to every man of the greatness of the universe and of his total paucity. He must submit to it gracefully, or he shall be compelled to do so by his passions and tears.

Did Not Despair.
From that gloomy outlook on life which is advanced by the writer of Ecclesiastes we turn to one who brings his message sympathetically. As a result of the words of Paul hope is again kindled in our hearts. Here we have another man who looked upon life, whose experiences were many and strange. There is, however, no distress in his mind, although he knew that within a few hours of the time of writing he would be executed. It is impossible to read the words of Paul, who sought the good fight. I have kept the faith. I have finished the course. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, without fading. Who is there who does not prefer to think responsibly to that great trumpet blast rather than to the gloomy message given by the writer of Ecclesiastes, with his sated appetite.

"One of the great secrets of the success of Paul's life is that he kept his physical self in complete subordination to his spiritual nature. What an inconquerable spirit had Paul, when brought forward in the courts of kings and thrust into the dungeon of a Roman prison! Even in the face of death his message was a song of triumph."

CHURCH SITE CHOSEN IN SPIRIT OF UNITY

Committee of Three Denominations Decried Where Northern Congregational Would Go.

In the presence of a gathering from many parts of the city, the cornerstone of the Northern Congregational Church, North Rosedale, was "well and truly laid" Saturday afternoon.

The services were in charge of the pastor, Rev. Frank J. Day, M.A., B.D., and he was assisted by a number of representatives from members of the city churches.

The dedication was made by Rev. Daniel Strachan, D.D., and was followed by the singing of the hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." Rev. Byron H. Stuart, in the responses, and Rev. T. Bradley Hyde followed in prayer.

Greetings were then given from sister churches. President R. A. Falconer, C.M.G., L.L.D., while he could not speak for the Presbyterian Church, could speak for the committee of union, and as a member he was happy to offer congratulations on the ceremony of the day.

The ceremony of laying the stone was performed by Mr. Henry O'Hara, assisted by Mr. E. J. Joellin, his position, the usual documents in the stone.

The singing of a hymn and the benediction by Rev. A. Margaret concluded the ceremony.

BRANTFORD M. O. H. FOR

MUNICIPAL MILK DEPOT

Strong Comment on Infantile

Mortality—Suggestion That

Mothers Be Taught.

(Special to The Toronto World.)

BRANTFORD, Nov. 16.—The fact that in the past twelve months there were 46 deaths in Brantford from infantile intestinal trouble and cholera, is a fact that should be a warning to every mother. It is a fact that should be a warning to every mother.

Dr. P. G. E. Pearson, M.O.H., presented his annual report, which commented very strongly on the large number of deaths and recommended a municipal depot for milk, a trained nurse in charge to give instructions to mothers on how to feed the babies.

The milk question also was brought up. The premises and condition of many of the milkers called for strong condemnation, and it was urged that more work be done in an educative way, which, it was felt, would result in greater pride being taken by the producers in their dairy with a resultant better milk supply for the Brantford milk users.
