FUNERAL OF MRS. DORSAY.

a Well-Liked Woman.

Large Number Pay Last Respects to

The funeral of Mrs. Chlos Dorsay, restaurant proprietress at 152 Yorkstreet for mar years, and a life-long resident of the locality, took place yesterday afternoon and was attended by a large number of friends, representing many walks in life. For 75 years she was a resident of York-street.

Rev. Mr. Vance, rector of the Church of the Ascension, who conducted the services at the house and the grave, paid a tribute to the faithful and earnest attendance of Mrs. Dorsay at the church, and to her estimable Christian qualities.

Among those present were: Controller Hubbard, representing the city connect, and other well-known citizens, whose acquaintance with the decease. mourners were John and George Dor-say, sons, of St. Catharines; Mrs. Redding and Mrs. Bush, daughters, and Miss Eva Reid, a foster-daughter, of this city. There were a number of this city. There were a number of beautiful floral offerings. The inter-ment took place at the Necropolis. Mrs. Dorsay, who was perhaps the best-known of Toronto's colored residents, was 76 years of age. Her parents came to Toronto from Virginia when she was an infant and settled on York-street, in the spot upon which the restaurant now stands. Mrs. Dorsay conducted a furniture business there for many years, and while the two cottages which occupied the present site were being removed to be replaced by a substantial brick structure the business was gone on with in a store on the opposite side of the street. In 1889 Mrs. Dorsay became restaurant proprietress, and her culinary skill was such as to bring her wide repute. Personally Mrs. Dorsay was generally liked for her bright, whole-souled disposition. She had hundreds of friends, all in all, "The Genius" is a farce-comedy, and being such is outside the limits of dramatic criticism.

"The Genius" may be taken as a skit of the prevailing art crazes, and in the Philistine hero Mr. Goodwin finds a part exactly fitted to him, He takes the part of Jack Spencer, who, in order to win the girl he thinks he loves, arranges with a trio of artists to assume him as a universal genius. Thus he gains fame, but in the end all conventionalities are overcome, and despite his voluntary confession, he wins the girl he really loves.

Mr. Goodwin has an excellent opportunity to display his Philistine humor and takes advantage of it to the utemost. His dialog is witty without being unpleasant; and the admirable support he receives enables him to make the story doubly entertaining. The first act put the large audience into entire good feeling, and the many heterodox art judgments evidently caught the fancy of the audience.

The play is in three acts, the first going off with remarkable ectal, and the others arresting immediate attention. Mr. Goodwin is well-supported, Miss Edna Goodrich taking the part of the prevailing art crazes, and in the philistine hero Mr. Goodwin has a factor of the prevailing art crazes, and in the Philistine hero Mr. Goodwin has a factor of the prevailing art crazes, and in the Philistine hero Mr. Goodwin has a factor of the prevailing art crazes tion. ## season. Vaudeville-Shen's.

One of the best features which have yet appeared at Shea's is given in "The Gems," an English novelty, which introduces five real artists. They are Miss Elsie Jones, a soprano; Miss Alice Mortimer, contralto; Wallace Kennedy, tenor; Kenneth Lawson, a humorist, and Edgar Stevens, who, in addition to a rich baritone voice, is also a clever dancer. The "turn" is a medley of song and story, and made a great hit with yesterday's audiences. The Kaufman Troups, another headliner, are well known, but their daring and skilful work on bicycles is as entertaining as ever. Conn and Conrad have an amusing acrobatic specialty; Alf Grant and Ethel Hoag give a little of everything in a way that won well-merited ap-plause; the Adelmanns are xylophone adepts of the highest order; Lucy and

The Gift Problem

The problem of choosing a Christmas gift is satisfactorily solved by giving a Diamond. No pleasure is more lasting than that conveyed by a Ryrie Diamond.

Ryrie Diamonds

Through its buying office in Amsterdam, Diamond Hall is able to obtain the finest productions of the European cutters. Every Diamond is personally selected, and all purchases are "cash," which assures the customer of getting gems of the very finest quality at attractive prices.

Ryrie Settings

Special attention is given to the manufacture of all settings, which are 18k and made by hand. Every setting must pass a critical examination - before leaving our factory-to assure its worthiness to bear the stamp of the house.

Exclusive Designs

Among the many exclusive designs which Diamond Hall is showing is one deserving of special mention. This beautiful octagon-shaped Dinner Ring is composed of an exceptionally fine Emerald surrounded by two rows of the whitest Diamonds, artistically arranged, and set in platinum.

Our Range

T No adequate idea of the immensity and variety of our stock can be formed without visiting Diamond Hall. As only three weeks remain before Christmas we would advise you to inspect our stock while it is complete.

AMUSEMENTS FOR CHRISTIANS

According to Rev. Mr. Hobbs, There Are None Organized,

Rev. Richard Hobbs of Gerrard-street Church addressed the Metho-dist Ministerial Association yesterday on the relation of the church toward amusements, and maintained that the attitude of the church is separation from worldly amusements. All the sugar-coated adjectives employed to-day, such as charity ball, calico ball, St. Andrew's, St. George's, and St. Patrick's ball, could never make such events, conducted under their auspices, saintly. No Christian could attend any of these events without compro-mising his true religious life.
