

WARD NO. 2.

To answer enquiries from electors of Ward No. 2 who so generously supported me at the last aldermanic election, I now declare that I have a desire to represent them next year in the City Council. I should be lacking in gratitude to the unexpected number of electors who voted for me in my first candidature were I not again to seek their suffrages. When elected I will faithfully attend to the interests of the city at large and of Ward No. 2 in particular.

I solicit the votes of the electors on Monday, the first day of January, A.D. 1900.

officer, whose name I will obtain. Of the 15 horses 13 were killed, and as several drivers were wounded, I would not allow another attempt, as it seemed that they would be a shell mark, sacrificing life to a gallant attempt to force the passage.

Unsurprisingly by artillery, I directed the troops to withdraw, which they did in good order. Throughout the day a considerable force of the enemy was pressing on my right flank, but was kept back by mounted men under Lord Darnley and part of Gen. Barton's brigade.

The day was intensely hot and most trying to the troops, whose conduct was excellent. "We have abandoned 10 guns and lost by shell fire one. The losses in Gen. Hart's brigade are, I fear, heavy, although the proportion of severely wounded is, I hope, not large.

The 14th and 66th field batteries also suffered severe losses. We have retired to our camp at Chieveley.

FIGHTING NEAR ORANGE RIVER.

Mounted Infantry Find a Strong Detachment of the Enemy at Zoutspan Drift.

London, Dec. 15.—The War Office has received the following despatch: From the officer commanding at Orange River, Thursday, Dec. 14: "Yesterday part of the mounted infantry, under Capt. Bradshaw, and the Yorkshires and Lancshires Guides, under Lieut. McFarlane, patrolled in the direction of Ramah and Zoutspan Drift, about ten miles east of the Orange River, to reconnoitre and report the strength of the enemy reported to be holding the Drift. The mounted infantry found a strong detachment of the enemy camped at the Drift and a sharp engagement ensued. The enemy ultimately retreated to Coomansburg.

"Capt. Bradshaw and three men were killed, Lieut. Gregson of the East Kent's and seven men were wounded. "The Boers had five men killed and several wounded."

More Fighting Reported.—A special despatch from the Orange River says the firing reported by a telegraph operator was a resumption of the fighting between General Methuen's forces and those of the Boers.

THIS FROM BOER SOURCES.—Cronje says the Scandinavians suffered severely—British Lost 2000.

Pretoria, Tuesday, Dec. 12.—The following official announcement has been made: "General Cronje reports that yesterday there was desultory fighting till 6 p.m. day there was no action. The Boers and Scandinavians stormed a difficult position, but it became untenable and they withdrew. The British were in overwhelming force, but must have had at least 2000 men put out of action either killed or wounded."

Another official report from Captain Plimhart says: "There were no signs of surrender, the burghers fighting with conspicuous bravery and maintaining their positions under heavy British fire. Our casualties were of very little use."

The British were greatly assisted by balloons. Twenty-four ambulances were working backward and forward between the fighting line and the enemy's camp. "Our loss is not definitely known. I estimate it at 100 killed and wounded."

TUNNEL UNDER GIBRALTAR.

The Scheme to Connect Spain and Morocco, Berlier Says, is Feasible.

New York, Dec. 15.—The Herald's Paris correspondent cables that M. Joan Berlier, when civil engineer, has just published a book in which he studies the project of tunneling of the Straits of Gibraltar. From soundings he proves to his own satisfaction that the plan is feasible to connect Spain and Morocco, and would be no more difficult than the piercing of Mont Denis. He estimates the cost at $24,000,000, and the time required to build as seven years. Spain has already consented to the project.

BRITISH MUST HUSTLE

And Show the World That They Are Still Entitled to Their Prestige.

London, Dec. 15.—The necessity of England being on guard against the machinations of some of the continental powers is the lesson of the recent setback by the British in the Transvaal, as seen by the military expert of The London Post in its issue of today. The expert says: "The Boer success has exhibited the British Empire in a very vulnerable position. The British cause has no friends in Europe. Ought not the Government in a crisis of this kind to commission every ship in the Queen's navy? Foreign intervention is not expected, but suppose it comes."

THAT STOCK FAKE RUMOR

About the Relief of Ladysmith Was Worked by a Clique in London.

London, Dec. 15.—The War Office received this afternoon a despatch from General Buller, under today's date, which indirectly gives a quietus to the Ladysmith relief rumors. The despatch was otherwise unimportant. "It was worked by Brokers."

New York, Dec. 15.—London advices concerning yesterday's report that Ladysmith had been relieved say that the report was gotten up by a clique who were trying to stop a slump in South African shares. Until an official denial came from the War Office, however, the stock exchange went wild. Brokers sang, cheered and threw their hats in the air and altogether acted like crazy men.

A FAKE PURE AND SIMPLE.—The Story That the Royal Irish Regiment Cheered for the Boers While Embarking.

Waterford, Ireland, Dec. 15.—The story printed in The Freeman's Journal to the effect that the reserves of the Royal Irish Regiment, while embarking on their way to South Africa at this port Wednesday, sang "God Save Ireland," cheered the Boers and President Kruger, and threw their rifles into the river is absolutely unfounded. Nothing whatever occurred among the men, beyond the pathetic leave-taking which have been witnessed at all similar embarkations.

SIX MORE OFFICERS DEAD.—After the Battle of Magerfontein, Making the Total Killed.

London, Dec. 15.—The following named officers of the Highland brigade, who were reported missing after the battle of Magerfontein, were killed: Captain the Hon. Cunningham-Bruce, Captain MacFarlane, Lieutenant Ramsay, Captain Brodie.

The following subsequently died of their wounds: Colonel Downman, Lieutenant Campbell.

AGAIN THE BOERS ARE REPULSED.

Re-Attacked Kuruman, and Were Driven Back by Loyalists and Bechuannas.

London, Dec. 15.—The War Office has a despatch from Col. Kekewich, dated Kimberley, Sunday, Dec. 10, saying: "The Boers have re-attacked Kuruman and have again been repulsed by loyalists and Bechuannas."

Sortie From Kimberley.—"The Kimberley forces made a demonstration northward on Dec. 9, and drew 600 Boers and three guns. Fighting ensued for several hours. The British casualties were one man killed and seven wounded."

The two additional failures announced on the stock exchange to-day were found to be of little importance.

THE DUTCHMEN OF GUIANA.—Are Annoying British Residents and Moving to Help South African Dutch.

Kingston, Jamaica, Dec. 15.—Mail advices from Surinam (Dutch Guiana) report a widely organized movement for the purpose of aiding the South African Dutch and annoying the residents. British subjects, in which high officials and consular representatives are implicated. The British consular officers are vigorously opposing the movement, being virtually a breach of neutrality, and diplomatic representations on the subject have gone forward.

BOERS ATTACKED MAFKENG.—After Severe Fighting the Enemy Were Repulsed and Retired to Suymann's Fort.

Pretoria, Monday, Dec. 11.—It is officially announced that Mafkeng, west of Mafeking, was bombarded Dec. 11. Sharp fighting occurred. The Boers attacked a British post at Mafkeng during the night of Dec. 10. After several hours' fighting the Boers were repulsed and retired to Suymann's Fort.

Buying All the Mules They Can Get.—Austin, Tex., Dec. 15.—The representatives of the British Government who have been buying mules in Missouri, Texas and other Southern States and shipping them to South Africa for use in the campaign against the Boers, have received instructions to purchase 10,000 good animals. A prominent mule dealer of Austin to-day received a telegram from one of the representatives now in New Orleans, offering good prices for as many animals as could be furnished him. The shipment of 2000 mules from Austin to South Africa by way of New Orleans began to-day.

BOERS IGNORED UNCLE SAM.—Would Not Even Reply to Macrum's Arguments in Favor of Friendly Service.

New York, Dec. 15.—The Washington correspondent of The Sun says: "The Boer Government has entirely ignored the representations of the United States, which amounted to a virtual protest against the ruling that Mr. Macrum, the United States consul at Pretoria, as the representative of British interests during the war, would not be permitted to perform friendly services to British prisoners in the Transvaal, such as the distribution among them of money and to purchase tobacco and other things classed as delicacies. Although the representatives of this Government were made several weeks ago, the Transvaal authorities have not even taken the trouble to acknowledge that they had been received. This attitude of ignoring the overtures of a neutral nation is naturally displeasing to the United States Government, and is testing its patience, but the administration is willing to be as considerate as possible of the Boers, in the belief, it is said, that they are not familiar with the diplomatic practices in such matters. The ways of diplomacy are not of delay in adjustment, a humanitarian object being involved, which should be attained quickly, as the comfort of sick and wounded men is in considerable measure dependent on it."

The ways of diplomacy are not of delay in adjustment, a humanitarian object being involved, which should be attained quickly, as the comfort of sick and wounded men is in considerable measure dependent on it."

The refusal of the Boers to permit Mr. Macrum to exercise charitable offices covers the care of the sick and wounded prisoners, whose sufferings would be made less through being able to secure dainties which the consul is willing to furnish. It was contended by the Boers that the care of prisoners was a military matter, with which a neutral nation had nothing to do. Stanley Holts, the United States Consul in the charge of the Pretoria consular in the interim between the departure of Mr. Macrum and the arrival of Adelbert S. Hay, the new American consul there, has the reputation of being a good fighter for the interests of his country, and will, it is believed here, vigorously press the Transvaal authorities for a reversal of their ruling when the State Department decides that the time has elapsed within which an answer to its representations are necessary, and so instructed Mr. Holts.

Methuen's Casualties.—London, Dec. 16.—The list of casualties among the non-commissioned officers and men in the night at Magerfontein, just issued, shows 55 killed, 238 wounded (21 severely), and 76 missing. This, however, is apparently not a complete list.

Grand Excursion via Lehigh Valley Railroad.—Saturday, Dec. 23. Tickets only $10 from Suspension Bridge to Washington and back, Good for stop-off at Philadelphia and Baltimore. Good for return until Jan. 30 and 3 p.m. Spend your Christmas in Washington. For tickets, sleepers or first-class, apply to the Lehigh Valley Railroad, Passenger Agent, 33 Yonge-street, Board of Trade Building, Toronto.

Wolfe is Still Living.—Dr. O'Reilly, superintendent of the General Hospital, received a letter yesterday from the wife of Louis Wolfe, the man who was found lying dangerously ill in a restaurant at 150 York-street, about two weeks ago. Wolfe refused to disclose his identity until a week after his admittance to the hospital. He then refused to tell the whereabouts of his relatives. Enquiries were made and as a result his wife was located, living in Frankburg, Maryland. Wolfe is still ill, and is now a semi-conscious condition. Rabbi Wittenberg is looking after him.

Vanity of Canary Birds.—"Do you know," said an observant gentleman, "that with the exception of a peacock I believe a canary bird is the vainest of all creatures? Both my wife and myself are very fond of pets, and we keep several of these little songsters always in the house."

"One of the cages was very old, having been in the family for years, and was used as much for tradition's sake as for economy's sake. I had frequently remarked that it was a pity that I believed the occupant of this cage was somewhat lacking in intelligence of my belief in the vanity of these little songsters."

"It became necessary to purchase a new one. In order to test my belief in the vanity of my feathered friend I made it a point to get him the prettiest little brass house I could find. The new cage was never more than he began to sing as he had never completely before, completely drowning out the music of the other birds, and behaving otherwise in a manner altogether becoming his sudden rise in life."

"No proud pauper coming unexpectedly into an inheritance of great riches is not being considered a necessary remark of degree of vanity."—Pearson's Weekly.

A Dinner in a Seraglio.—From Good Words. We seated ourselves round it on cushions, and each took possession of the place of some which supplied the place of a plate during the meal. The articles not being considered a necessary luxury. In the centre of the table stood a large bowl full of white soup, from which everybody ate, taking as many spoonfuls as they chose.

Broke Her Wrist.—Mrs. Betts, 69 East Bloor-street, fell on the slippery pavement at the corner of Queen and Yonge-streets yesterday, and fractured her wrist. She was removed to St. Michael's Hospital.

Church of England S. S. Association.—The next meeting of the above will be held in St. Philip's school house on Monday, Dec. 18, 1899, at 8 p.m. when Rev. T. W. Powell will read a paper on "The Ideal Parish Sunday School," and Miss Jennie Osler will open a discussion on "The Church's Purpose to Make Good Scholars."

The Value Of Shorthand.

Whilst there are many students engaged in the study of shorthand, it is worth emphasizing that the young man or woman who has thoroughly mastered this subject and has behind it a reasonably good English education has a position waiting him.

Our methods of teaching shorthand are such as to graduate clever stenographers.

Rev. Morgan Wood, Toronto, says: "I cannot do less than to say that Miss Ida Wilson, whom we secured from your college, has much more than satisfied us in the capacity of office assistant and my private secretary. I would hardly know how to get along without her now. If you school turns out such graduates all the time you are certainly performing a real service to this city. I am under real obligations to you."

The new term, after the Christmas holidays, will open Jan. 3, 1900. Be ready for the business of a new century by a course in this college. Calendar and all particulars for the asking.

TIME—2 A.M.—"Late again," remarked Mrs. John Peterkin to her delinquent spouse. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself," said John. "I'm going to take a Dadd's Dyspepsia Tablet."

"Where have you been?" demanded Mrs. Peterkin. "I was working late at the office," ventured Mr. Peterkin, blandly. "Is that so?" remarked Mrs. Peterkin. "I don't look like it," said the lady. "I'm sure you're not," said Mr. Peterkin. "And where did you go after you left the office?"

"I'm going to take a Dadd's Dyspepsia Tablet," protested Peterkin. "Answer my question. Where did you go?"

"I thought so," said Mrs. Peterkin. "Don't you tell me you'll ruin your nerves and your brain and your constitution and your usefulness through life by giving way to that habit?"

"No, that's so," said Mr. Peterkin, with bland surprise. "I've no patience with you," said Mrs. Peterkin. "Don't you worry about me," said Mr. Peterkin. "I'm going to take a Dadd's Dyspepsia Tablet to-night."

"Of course it's nothing to me if you come down to breakfast in the morning like a bear with a sore head," said Mrs. Peterkin, bitterly. "But I won't," said Mr. Peterkin. "I'm going to take a Dadd's Dyspepsia Tablet."

"It is a beastly habit and Dadd's Dyspepsia Tablets don't make it excusable," said Mrs. Peterkin. "They're mighty convenient things to have in the house just the same," said the wicked Mr. John Peterkin.
