ed the meeting with a few happy remarks. Dr. Niven also spoke briefly. He referred to the benefit that those who were in the classes last spring had received. Classes are now being formed for "First Aid" course, and the names of applicants should be sent to Mrs. C. F. Com-plin, Albert street. For nursing course applications should be forward ed to Miss W. Smith, Wolseley Barracks. The following is a list of the candidates who were successful in obtaining certificates, and to whom they were presented: Misses Auld, Dillon, M. Moore, M. Hodson, E. Complin, Gwen Smith, H. Vidal, W. Smith, E. Magee and I. Fox, and Mesdames Cameron, Taylor, Bartlett, A. W. White, Yarker, McIntyre, Hemming and Inglis. The certificates are very handsome, and are issued direct from the headquarters of the association, St. John's Gate, London, England. They are valued throughout the British Empire as evidence of proficiency in rendering first aid in cases of sudden illness or accident.

The proceedings at the convocation of the Provincial University were

The after-proceedings, in which the freshmen, were scarcely creditable to the participants. Pale and trembling, the report says, the first freshman appeared at the door through which all had to pass. "He was promptly seized and forced to run the gauntlet through about 50 big, burly sophonores, who hustled and jollied him along, and finally left him, torn and bleeding, lying in the mud." Similar treatment was meted out to other freshmen. "From one of these melees. one poor freshman was dragged out with a dislocated arm and a pale and badly disfigured face." Then, "when the rumpus was over, scarcely a man walked off the field without bearing some mark in the shape of a black eye, a torn shirt, or other disfigurement by which to remember the day." To some this may appear "sport." and they tell us that similar assaults on new students have been made at universities from time immemorial. Such an excuse can scarcely palliate what appears to savor very much of rowdyism, and decidedly dangerous rowdyism at that.

WEST END COURTS.

The Cases Disposed of by R. F. Lacey and the County Judges. Squire Lacey yesterday gave judgment in the case of John Quinnell vs. Mr. Hyslop, a market gardener of the Hamilton road. It was stated that Quinnell had hired with Hyslop for six months at $12 50 per month, and telegram to resume his duties at the six months at $12 50 per month, and Merchants' Bank, Gananoque, owing had agreed to take his money when the six months had expired. Quinnell denied this, and left, because his money was not paid monthly, and brought an action for the recovery of the same. The case was tried on Oct. 1, and adjourned until yesterday. The decision of the magistrate was that there was no proof that Hyslop had agreed to pay Quinnell monthly, and dismissed the case, each party to pay half the costs. He gave an order that Quinnell be paid his wages on Nov. 4, less one-half the costs. O'Neil, for plaintiff; Love, for defendant. The case of Charles Barfitt was again before Judge Wm. Elliot today, and was settled, the crown offering no evidence, as Mr. Magee thought there was no case. Mr. Barfitt had a written agreement with Mr. Moore for gravel from the river bed, the course had been changed, and Mr. Barfitt, thinking he had the right, took the gravel from the other side of the river. Robert Fitzsimmon then brought an action against Barfitt but the judge thought there was no willful intent and discharged him. Graydon & Graydon, for Barfitt.

WHO STOLE THE COLLARS?

Mr. Moore Can Only Surmise-Looks Like Misplaced Charity.

James McKenna, an old harnessmaker, is from all accounts a man without friends or domicile. He frequented several of the hotels vesterday afternoon to get out of the rain and cold. Thoroughly intoxicated, he wandered around to the workshop of Mr. Frank Moore, collar-maker, in places until a settlement is arrived at. rear of Jerry McDonld's hotel. Having once been a collar-maker himself, he asked permission to remain inside. Mr. Moore took compassion on his visitor, and granted the request. He lay down on the straw and went to sleep. At 6 o'clock Mr. Moore woke him and said he was going home, tell--The death took place this morning ing McKenna that he would have to to her marriage to Mr. Bartlett, was but Mr. Moore was afraid that Mcnow a produce merchant in Toronto, his factory and found the window wears, and then married Mr. Bartlett.
