My Lords and Gentlemen :

My Lords and Gentlemen:

The peace which had recently been broken in South Africa when last I addressed you has unhapply not oeen restored, but otherwise my relations with other states are friendly. In resiscing the invasion of my South African colonies by the South African kepublic and Orange Free State, my people have responded with devotion and enthusiasm to the appeal which I have made to them, and the heroism of my soldiers in the field, and my sailors and marines who were landed to co-operate with them, has not fallen short of the noblest traditions of our military history.

Confident of Victory.

I am deeply grieved that so many valuable lives should have fallen a sacrifice but I have witnessed with pride and with heartlest gratification the patriotic eagerness and spontaneous loyalty with which my subjects in all parts of my dominions have come forward to share in the common defence of their Imperial interests. I am confident I shall not look to them in valu when I exhort them to sustain and renew their exertions until they have brought this struggle for the maintenance of the Empire and the assertion of its supremacy in South Africa to a victorious conclusion.

Samoan Treaty.

A treaty has been concluded with the German Emperor for the adjustment of the rights caimed by the two countries in Samoa, Tonga and other Islands in the Pacific. To a portion of these stipulations the Government of the United States has also been a party.

Australian Federation.

A bill will be introduced at an early date to give effect to the scheme of federation which has been adopted after most careful consideration by five of my Australian colonies.

I have watched with cordial satisfaction the gradual development of my greater colonies into self-governing communities. I feel confident that the establishment of the great federation of Australia will prove advantageous not only to the colonies immediately concerned but also to the Empire at large.

THE SITUATION SIZED UP.

The Ministry may have definite knowledge that the feet may be mobilized as a general warming to other countries to keep their hands off the Transvatal question, or the Ministry may have definite knowledge that the neutral powers purpose to take some advantage elsewhere while England is busy in South Africa.

I regret that, owing to insufficient rainfail in the autumn over a great part of Western and Central India, the harvests and pasturage have failed to such an extent as to create a famine. Timely measures have been taken by my Government and by the rulers of the native states affected to relieve the suffering and prevent starvation.

I regret to add that the epidemic of plague continues, and that, altho its severity has not increased since last year, there is at present no prospect of its diminution.

The War Estimates.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:
The estimates for the public service of the year will be laid before you. The provision for military expenditure must be largely increased, on account of the charge for military operations in South Africa. The experience of a great war must necessarily afford lessons of the greatest importance to the military administrations of the country. You will not, I am convinced, shrink from any outlay that may be required to place our defensive preparations on a level with the responsibilities which the possession of so great an empire has laid upon us. At a time when several other nations are perfecting their naval preparations at a cost of increasing efforts and sacrifices, the solicitude with which you have provided for the efficiency of our navy and our coast defence will assuredly not be relaxed.

Such scraps of information as can be gathered regarding the movements of the number in the field seem to indicate that the relief of Ladysmith has been abandoned for the present, and that a concentration of the Egitish for an invasion of the Free State is in progress. In addition to Gen. Kelly-Kenny's movements, General French is the case, and that the last has been abandoned for the Cape Colonials, has arrived at Sterkstroom.

The natives report that three Boer guns The rest of the speech, recognizing that the time is not propitious for domestic reforms havolving large expenditure, recommends amendments to the agricultural, educational, company, railway and accident laws, and concludes: It appears that service in South Africa may have the effect of disfranchising those taking part in it, and you will be asked to sauction a measure by which this injustice will be prevented.

I commend your deliberations at this auxious time to the blessing and guidance of Almighty God.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

Once on a time a nation

Was beaten in every fray.

And the people, in consternation,

Turned from the fight to flee

And the face of Robert E. Lee!

Bludgeoned and battered and beat:

They left their guns on the hill sides,

From the front of old Stonewall Jackson

They dropped their colors to fice

and the face of Robert E. Lee!

Peace! cried the feminine-hearted:

Peace! e'er our nation is gone.

But the bulldog people just started

Another campaign, and held on.

And crumpled up Robert E. Lee.

It's plain as the sight on your rifle, So plain it no plainer can be.

The Boers have a Stonewall Jackson

But the time will come when the story

When the flag now tattered and gory,

When the day of our triumph cometh,

And rattled their Robert E. Lee.

The year of their jubilee,

The same fierce story is told,

For army and army defeated.

And also a Robert E. Lee.

In moving the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, Capt. Pretyman expressed the deepest sympathy, which he said was shared by both sides of the House, with the sufferers from the war, and the sufferings in Natal. He further referred to the feeling of admiration for the gallantry of the troops, which was felt by all parties, and remarked that additional common ground for pride was the gallantry and national spirit shown by both Great Britain and her colonies. He also expressed the hope that after the war all race antagonism in South Africa would be obliterated. Continuing, Capt. Pretyman, who is a retired captain of artillery, said an inquiry was necessary as to how the requirements of the war had been so underestimated. The captain then appealed for the union of all parties in support of the Government in its efforts to satisfactorily conclude a just war.

Mr. Herbert P. Pike-Pease, Liberal-Unionist, member for Darlington, seconded the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

The Liberal Leader's Reply.

The Liberal leader in the House of Commons, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, then rose to reply, amidst cheers from the Opposition benches. Sir Henry, commenting on the Queen's Speech, said he had seldom known so ilitie to be said in such a large

The Best Week for Furs at Dineens' Those were fortunate people who bought Alaska sealskin or Persian Lamb garments at Dineens' before the recent heavy rise in the market values of these furs. Now, another opportunity is offered at Dineens' for securing other styles of fur-wear at less than market values, before stock-taking. There are a number of ladies' electric seal, racepon, sable, Bokhara and Astrachan jackets, ladies' fur-lined wraps, hadies' caperines, collarettes and scarfs, and men's fur-lined overcoats, which have been singled out for sale at special prices. Only a few of each of these styles remain—not enough of either to warrant keeping them in stock. And Dineens' low prices this week furnish a better reason for buying furs now than even the good reason of colder weather.
