REAL BARGAINS.

Prince London Times in Botts, is the Cornel of Roman glass, pottery and lection of Roman glass, pottery and other objects discovered in January in the parish of Radnage in Bucking-hamshire. This is the generous gift of W. Gordon Ross, the owner of the W. Gordon Ross, the owner of the W. Gordon Ross, the owner of the less, $2.98 up; child's white and brown Oxfords, 98c.: ledies' white Oxproperty in which the discovery was made. It was fully described in "The Times" recently in the report of a lecture by Clement O. Skilbeck, local (Open every evening.)

ture by Clement O. Skilbeek, local 105.00 secretary for Buckinghamshire of the 154-50 Society of Antiquaries of London, at 103.50 a meeting of that society. Perhaps the finest piece of this collection is a shallow glass bowl, a superb example of 1,434.00 what is commonly known as "pillar nolded." The color is a rich blue variegated with white ornamentation. It is the only perfect example of this variegated with white ornamentation. It is the only perfect example of this thind of bowl known to have been found in this country, although fragments have occurred. This is the sumfuous kind of glass which some have though trepresents the "Murrhine" glass mentioned by Pliny. It was prohably made in Alexandria or perhaps in Rome. Its possession evidently in 182.00 dicates that its owner was a person of some substance, for such bowls were expensive even in Roman times.
