PROFIT OF $10,000,000 ON U. S. PARCEL POST
Washington, Oct. 7.—The parcel post is earning a profit of $10,000,000 annually and rates have been constantly reduced since the beginning of the service seven years ago. Assistant Postmaster General Koons testified today before the house committee on postoffice department expenditure.

Mail-order houses send most of their packages by parcel post, Mr. Koons said, adding that deliveries had been so prompt that one big house asked for delivery in the service so that the packages would not arrive before invoices out at night after dispatch of the packages during the day.

JOAN BEAMISH IS DEAD

Aged Citizen, Long a Member of Postal Staff, and Holder of Imperial Service Medal, Has Passed Away

The news of the death of Joan Beamish which occurred last evening at his home, 44 Winter street, will be received with regret by a wide circle of friends but particularly by members of the Pythian order by whom he was regarded as the founder of the order in the British Empire. He had been ill for some time but up to the time of his taking sick had attended regularly at the meetings of his old lodge, New Brunswick Lodge, No. 12, the first instituted in Canada, largely through his efforts and his far-seeing vision that the bringing of the Order here from the United States would be helpful. The Knights of Pythias were established soon after the close of the American civil war to aid in the healing of the breach between north and south in the states. They grew to large numbers. The order flourished exceedingly and Mr. Beamish and some others here conceived the idea that it could do good work in Canada.

From the little band whom he succeeded in interesting in the idea, and of whom he was the first to be initiated, the membership in the order has increased under the British flag to a million but his home city, St. John will ever be known through his efforts as "the cradle of Pythianism" in the British Empire. He was familiarly known as "Uncle John" to all brother Knights. Not only was he an active figure in local Pythian circles but at Grand Lodge and at other centres in Canada he made many friends. In fact so well known a figure was he that he was called "Uncle John" by all who knew him. And it was true. He had been at the grand sessions even at times when he should not have gone because of health, but so attached was he to the order that he could not keep away.

Mr. Beamish also was deeply interested in the cause of temperance and was active in several temperance organizations in his younger days. He was also a member of the Foresters' order.

For fifty years Mr. Beamish was a member of the postal staff, serving as a letter carrier. As a result of an injury to his foot, he was forced to retire in 1908. Shortly after his retirement, he received from the Home Office in Whitehall, London, the Imperial Service Medal "for faithful service," accompanied by the usual command of presentation from the king.

Mr. Beamish was well known throughout the city and enjoyed the respect and esteem of all who knew him. Sincere sympathy will be extended to his wife and four daughters who survive.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon, A private service for the family will be held at the home at one o'clock and the body will be taken to Castle Hall, the Knights of Pythias headquarters, in German street, where the public service will be held. This is the first service of this nature to be held in the hall and this course has been decided upon as a mark of respect to the memory of the man who was responsible for establishing the order here.

DANCING MAKES GIRLS OF LONDON GRACEFUL

London, Sept. 8.—(By Mail)—London girls are graceful and generally walk better than their brothers because they are fond of dancing, according to the medical officer of the London County Council.

"Teaching of dancing in the public schools has no doubt greatly helped, if it has not saved the situation in regard to the physical development of London girls," said the medical officer. "Particularly noticeable is the much better arched instep of the girls in comparison with their own brothers and with country children generally."

"The relative absence of flat-foot thus brought about is the foundation of that grace of carriage which the typical London girl of the elementary schools exhibits. In the country schools no dancing is taught, nor do the children there enjoy those outside stimuli to an interest in dancing which are characteristic of London life."
