Amatite Roofing!

You'll Never Need a Paint Brush.

When you lay Amatite on the roof you're through with it. You don't have to paint it every year to keep it from leaking. It has a real mineral surface which does not need painting. Most of the old-fashioned, 'smooth surfaced' or Rubber Roofing, which requires painting, costs more than Amatite and you have all the extra cost of paint. It looks as if you were giving your roof an occasional coating in the future. But do you realize that in 1913 you must paint it, and in 1915 you must paint it, and in 1917 you must paint it, and in 1919—that far-away year—you must still be painting that confounded old Rubber Roof. Why, a new Amatite Roof will cost less than the paint alone. Send us for free samples and booklet explaining all about it. Ask your dealer for Amatite Roofing.

Heligoland Good Lobster Fishing Centre

Heligoland, under whose fortifications the German fleet is sheltering, says the Fishing News, was once the religious centre of the Frisian race. Heligoland, or Heligoland, as the Germans call it, means the Holy Isle. From 1803 to 1890 it was a possession of Great Britain. In the latter year it was ceded to Germany in exchange for a portion of German East Africa. It is questionable nowadays whether John Bull got the best of the deal. The island is quite small, being only three-quarters of a mile square, with a high rocky cliff on one side, sloping down to a sandy beach. It is very sparsely populated—at least it was so when I visited it in its second year under German rule. Times have changed since these days, and the island has become one of the Kaiser's many strongly fortified islands. The fortress will likely be an important factor in the present war, as the great range of its powerful guns dominates the approach to the mouth of the Elbe, from whose entrance it is 40 miles distant. It is the "key to the Kiel Canal," 50 miles off, and a defence for the great shipping port of Hamburg, 125 miles away. By the way, the islanders carry on a large and lucrative lobster fishery, or rather I should say did, for on the outbreak of hostilities all the civil population of the island were promptly transported to Hamburg, where, I understand, they arrived on August 4. The lobster fishery of Heligoland are therefore enjoying an unexpected rest cure. Thanks to the efforts of the British Navy, they are having what may be termed a "close time," in which German Drednoughts are evidently thankfully participating.—Canadian Fisherman.

Price of Fish

The fish prices have weakened during the week and quotations are lower this morning. When we last wrote good salmagundi and Madeira was worth $8.00 a quintal; to-day the highest price that will be paid is $5.75, and some buyers are offering only $5.50. The men who have been holding back their share fish for a month or more at the suggestion of people who assume to know everything realize that they have been fooled, and, accordingly, they are not very thankful to the people who misled them. They will probably be wiser in future.

Slop Labrador
The most of the outport schooners, arriving in port the last few days, are bringing what is now known to the trade as slop Labrador, i.e. a fish which has been given only one or two days drying. Owing to the lateness of the Labrador season, this had to be brought home instead of shipped from the coast, and thus there is much more of it than usual in the market. Ten days ago fishermen who brought this class of fish along got $4.25 to $4.40 for it. The men who foolishly listened to bad advice and held on their fish cannot get more than $3.75 for it in the market to-day.

Good Advice
Those who are the real friends of the fishermen have been asking them for some time to dispose of their voyage as early as possible, as under the extraordinary market conditions at present prevailing, high prices could not be maintained all through the season. And we are not the only fishing people affected; a few days ago a fishing firm in Iceland wired a local concern offering seventeen thousand quintals of fish at much lower prices than it could be bought for in the Newfoundland market. The local concern declined to deal at any figure knowing that it will take us all our time to market our own goods this season.—Trade Review, Oct. 17.

Naval Recruits for Active Service in Europe

We direct the attention of our readers to an advertisement by the naval authorities. It sets forth that five hundred men are required immediately for active service in Europe. This is a call of recruits who must be either seamen or fishermen, and it is made clear that their services are required immediately. The Admiralty knows its business, and we must take it that they have an immediate use for 500 young men from Newfoundland who are used to the sea, and that the services to be performed will be of an active kind. We hope that the response will be prompt and sufficient. The Admiralty has done excellent service in winning the silent victory by keeping the sea-way open, by conveying troops from India and Canada to Europe, by assisting the and forces along the Channel and by keeping a watch and holding themselves in readiness for the German fleet in the Kiel Canal. The position however is that the Admiralty is trading for 500 naval recruits immediately and an opportunity is afforded to our fishermen and sailors to emulate the five hundred young men of Newfoundland, mostly landsmen, who are getting on Salisbury Plain, to do their duty at the front when Kitchener sends them there.

According to a message appearing in the Montreal Star on Trafalgar Day, twenty-two new fighting ships, from Dreadnought to mosquito craft have been put in commission for the sea since the war began.—Telegram.

The Codfish

Without it she could never stand. It is the upkeep of our land, Well known to both the poor and grand. The codfish. Although there's some may slight its fame, Because it bears a common name, It is our mainstay, all the same, The codfish. Some would-be ladies treat it shy, Their mothers in the days gone by, Were glad to spread it out to dry, The codfish. And let me tell the dykes as well Who 'turn their noses' at its smell Their fathers all were glad to sell, The codfish. What is it though not thought of much, By 'blue bloods' who would not it touch, Though the gold it brings they gladly clutch, The codfish. The deeds of our great men we toast But all would be an empty boast, It not for that which keeps us most, The codfish. It brings us wealth from o'er the main, Kid gloves, silk hat, and walking cane, Then why look at it with disdain, The codfish. It comes to cheer us in the fall, 'Tis talked of by the big and small, It is the thing which keeps us all, The codfish. JAMES MURPHY. October 23rd, 1914.

Lumber Contraband

London, Oct. 23—German warships yesterday captured four Swedish steamers in the Timber trade, bound for British ports. The German naval commander stated that Germany considers that all wood cargoes bound for Britain are contraband. A despatch from Helsingfors, Sweden, announces that one Norwegian and six Swedish steamers had been seized off Falstebot, a small seaport off the Swedish Coast on the Baltic Sea. The wood cargoes mentioned above, were chiefly pit props bound to Great Britain. This seizure ought to make the demand for pit props greater in Newfoundland.—Editor.

Shipping Men Make Protest

New York, Oct. 9.—Shipping men are not taking kindly to the activities of the former Cunard liner Caronia, which was converted into an auxiliary cruiser by the British government and which has been lying outside Sandy Hook for more than two weeks, carrying what shippers term a 'siege of New York.' Her officers have been boarding incoming and outgoing liners despite the fact that they were under neutral flag, coming from or going to neutral ports without contraband of war. The Englishmen simply said they were searching for Germans among the passengers or crews. The delays occasioned by these holdups have not only inconvenienced travellers, but have cost the steamship owners a large amount, the latter assert. No preference has been shown in the selection of vessels to be boarded. In fact, most of those stopped have been British ships. If an approaching vessel has carried wireless she has been ordered by wireless to stop. If not, she has been signalled to do so. If the command has not been obeyed instantly a blank charge has been fired as a warning. As far as is known, that has been sufficient inducement for all to heed her command. When a vessel steps a cutter is put overboard from the Caronia, with a British flag in its stern and their crew wearing life-preservers. British naval officers are then rowed to the vessel that is to be searched. The captain is ordered to show his papers, the passengers are locked overhead and the crew is lined up for inspection, then the ship is searched for contraband.

WOMAN WOULD NOT GIVE UP

Though Sick and Suffering; At Last Found Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Richmond, Pa.—"When I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was in a dreadfully rundown state of health, had internal troubles, and was so extremely nervous and prostrated that if I had given in to my feelings I would have been in bed. As it was I had hardly strength at times to be on my feet and what I did do was by a great effort. I could not sleep at night and of course felt very bad in the morning, and had a steady headache. "After taking the second bottle I noticed that the headache was not so bad, I rested better, and my nerves were stronger. I continued its use until it made a new woman of me, and now I can hardly realize that I am able to do so much as I do. Whenever I know any woman in need of a good medicine, I highly praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. FRANK CLARK, 3146 N. Tulip St., Richmond, Pa.

Women Have Been Telling Women for forty years how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health when suffering with female ills. This accounts for the enormous demand for it from coast to coast. If you are troubled with any ailment peculiar to women why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? It will pay you to do so. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.
