His Honor Judge Harrison Applies the Law in the Case of Richards vs. Price.

The Defendant Held Not To Have Complied With the Provisions of the Act.

In the case of Richards vs. Price in the county court the following judgment has been handed down: The plaintiff in this action claims that she duly and lawfully on the 23rd February, 1897, located the Spero fractional mineral claim, situate on sec. 49, Metchosin district, and duly recorded the same, and that the defendant illegally located and recorded a mineral claim the same land and claims possession of the land, and that the defendant's record may be declared void and cancelled.

The defendant counterclaims that he only and lawfully located the Last "discovered" rock in place, on which that the defendant unlaw-shall be written "discovery post;" the to check the tendency on the part of Chance and that the defendant unlawfully entered his claim and illegally loafindavit he is required to make shows

The defendant a free miner entered on the plaintiff's lands, sec. 49, Metchosin district. He says he started at the Indian reserve post. This post, an old survey post, was at the intersection of sections 45, 46, 49 and 50. He tacked on this spot a paper on which the words following were written: "Last Chance mineral claim, east corner post, running west 260 feet. Henry Price, free miner's license 90805." West of this post he cut and squared a tree (a legal post) put on it a paper on which following words were written: "Last Chance mineral claim, north corner post running 260 feet east. Henry Price, free miner's license 90805."

He then went along the shore line and near an old mining shaft, which was sunk on a vein, and which shaft some men were then bailing out, and close to which he found rock in place. he placed a post. On this post he caused to be written the following words: "Last Chance mineral claim, west corner post running north 175 feet. Henry Price, free miner's license 90805."

A mineral claim owned by the defendant and others called the "Garibaldi" adjoins sec. 49. This claim the defendant had assisted in locating and marking out. He tacked on the initial post of the Garibali claim a paper on which the following words were written: "Last Chance mineral claim, south corner post running 175 feet west from this. Henry Price, free miner's license 90805." He did not mark any post as an inhe number any post as a number 1 or number 2, nor did he mark out any location line.

On the 25th day of January, 1897, he made an affidavit before the gold commissioner, in which, among other things. he swears that he had placed a No. 1 and No. 2 post and discovery post of the kgal dimensions on the said Last Chance fractional mineral claim. That he had written on No. 1 post the following words: "Henry Price, free miner's certificate No. 90805, Last Chance post, No. 1." That he had written on the No. post the following words: "Henry Price, free miner's certificate No. 90805, Last Chance post No. 2," and that he had marked the line between No. 1 and 2 posts as required by section 16 of the mineral act, 1896. On the back of the affidavit is a sketch plan referred to in the affidavit showing the boundaries of the claim marked by posts at each corner "Post No. 1?" "Post No. 2," "Post No. 3," and "Post No. 4."

On the 27th January, 1897, a record of the Fractional Last Chance mineral claim was issued to him in which it is stated that "the direction of the location line is east and west. The length of the claim is 260 feet." The defendant, after getting the record, went on the ground and found a man there named Atkins, who said he was going on working there. He showed Atkins his record and subsequently went there again with a hammer and drills, but Atkins would not allow him to work there. Atkins, had worked at the old shaft. and there was a post with his name on near the shaft, but he did not record a claim there nor does it appear that he was a free miner.

On the 23rd February, 1897, the plaintiff's agent, F. G. Richards, located, and on the 24th February, 1897, recorded on sec. 49 for the plaintiff the "fractional" Spero mineral claim, covering within a minute fraction the Last Chance. No tion and particulars of what has been person was then on the Last Chance done to be furnished to the recorder. and no work had been done by the defendant.

No question arises in this case as to there being a vein or lode or rock in place in the ground claimed by these parties. The plaintiff attacked the defendant's location and record on the the act as to locating and recording. The defendant's counsel admitted that it would be impossible to give judgment in his client's favor.

As to sub-sec. D the plaintiff's counsel contended that that sub-sec. did not apply to this case. That the sub-sec. was only intended to benefit discoverers covery post. And as regards both plaintiff and defendant the act must be strictly construed. I do not agree with the construction so sought to be placed on sub-section D, and it is not necessary to depart from the mineral act and resort to some otuer statute to ascertain the meaning of the words "actually discovered." The word locator as used in the act evidently includes free miner, and is used with reference to free miners gen-

of the section and the word "found" are this way to raise the standard of the used synonymously, and the words schools in this city, we your principals every free miner locating any claim is at the point where he has removed covered or found to place a discovery post, etc.

The only qualifying word used in conection with "discovered" in subsection D is "actually," that is, in fact, or in and suitable for public schools; faith, really, in truth, positively.

And whereas the idea prevails among

To support the construction advanced 16, a meaning which would be obviously different to the meaning it has in the earlier part of section 16. Neither the act requires this to be done.

A number of objections to the validity of the defendant's location and record based on his non-compliance with fer with the trustee wards of other matters specified in the preceding subcities in the province with a view to sesection of section 16 were raised and curing a change in the text books at the mining claims were decided to be invalid.

But it is not necessary in this case decide as to what non-observances in the daily work of their class. of section 16 are material or immaterial, as the question which first prosents itself upon the facts as they appear in evidence is: Does the defendant, having discovered mineral in place, itial post or as a discovery post, nor did come within the provisions of sub-section D so as to be entitled to any benefit it may confer? and I thank not. deals with failure to comply with and non-observance of the provisions of sec- pose. tion 16, but section 16 still remains part of the act and there must, I think, tor is not entitled to a record. Section 16 goes into particulars and states how the intention and general requirement of the act are to be carried out, but, without dwelling on the minutiae of the manner in which section 16 provides it is to be carried out, the provisions as to survey and the other references in that section to the location line and sections 18, 19, and 20 clearly show that the claim must be located in the way I have stated, and I do not think that sub-section D, in section 16, overrides the act and allows the locator in locating to disregard not only the details of section 16 but also the requirements of the statute. Here the defendant made no attempt to mark out his claim as required by the act.

But, further, sub-section D seems to me to only apply to cases of non-ob-servance or non-feasance. Section 16 provides that the claim shall not be recorded unless the application shall be accompanied by an affidavit, and sections 19 and 20 also require informa-The defendant did not fail to file an affidavit, but in it he swore that he had complied with the law and gave particulars which were false.

This was not merely a failure to comply or non-observance, but a mis-feasance, and one of the conditions of subgrounds of his want of compliance with section D, which he claims as sole support of his record, is that there should he a bona fide attempt to comply with if it were not for sub.-sec. D of sec. 16 the provisions of the act, but his record is not based on bona fide attempt to comply with, but on a violation of the act, and must fall. BIG STRIKE COMING.

London, April 14.—The dispute between the marine and shipbuilding engineers and their employers is rapidly approaching a crisis. A conference was held at the Westminster Palace hotel to-day, at which an attempt was made to reconcile the disputes relating to working machines, payment of trial trips, and the appointment of local committees for the settlemert of disputes. The employers rejected the proposals of the engineers in regard to working machines, and a great strike which will affect the Glasgow, Belfast, Manchester and Newcastle district now seems inevitable.
