

COURT LOG CABIN CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Happy Dinner Party of Foresters in White's Monday Night

GOOD ROUND OF SPEECHES

Healthy Condition of the Court and the Order Told Off-Boasts Bring Out Humorous Remarks

The dinner in honor of the tenth anniversary of Court Log Cabin, 1. O. F., held at White's Monday evening, was a pleasant affair. Some forty-five members were present. J. V. Russell, chairman of the committee of entertainment, presided, and had on his right D. G. Lingley, the high chief ranger for New Brunswick.

Letters of regret were read from Judge Woodworth, P. S. Q. R.; Judge Benson, H. S.; M. N. Quiburn, H. C.; Dr. Daniel, M. P., who is physician of the court, and Rev. R. Mathers, who is a member, and regret at inability to be present were also expressed on behalf of B. R. Chapman, P. H. C. R., and LeBaron Coleman, P. H. C. R.

After the toasts to the king and the superior general, that of the supreme court was briefly responded to by A. M. Belding. D. G. Lingley responded for the high court. He pointed out that the membership of the order had increased in ten years in New Brunswick from 105 courts with 3,800 members to 192 courts with at least 8,000 members. In the year 1895 the order paid out to widows and orphans and on old age and disability accounts $1,000,000, or nearly $6,000 for every working day; while during the same period about $4,000 for each working day was added to the surplus. Only the most willful mismanagement or waste could have brought about such a result.

The Navy was the next toast, coupled with the name of "Admiral Pratt," who is a member of Court Log Cabin. Capt. Pratt served in the battles of the Chesapeake, and in the manner in which he and others shed blood and walked the bridge at midnight at the mouth of the Bay of Fundy, especially assisting the British, in order that the people of St. John might sleep in peace. He told of the flow of language at command of naval officers, but declined to give a sample of the gallant captain's highly humorous address was interrupted by frequent applause.

John Maxwell, M. P. P. elect, responded to the toast of Court Log Cabin. Taking his cue from the "Admiral," he made a racy and humorous address, but also dwelt upon the serious side of fraternal organization. He was glad to note that very few indeed of the charter members of Court Log Cabin had passed away, and recalled pleasant memories of the period of his membership. Aid. Maxwell assured his hearers that he was not James Joyce, although he had a ball on his neck. Neither was he the "Hans" who reported to the world that he had been shot, and was now recovering in a hospital. He warmly welcomed Messrs. Paul, Russell, Lingley and other active foresters, and commended the members of the court to take more interest in the fraternal side of the order. He was glad to see that the members responded with hearty approval. He also recalled that Mr. Paul had not a member of his court on the supreme court's delegation at the first high court meeting after Log Cabin was organized.

Dr. W. Jenkins, for four years financial secretary of the court, also responded to this toast. He recalled the twelve of February, ten years ago, when 138 members were initiated to form this court. Since then the membership had declined to 100 and again, owing to 100,000 additional members proposed for next meeting, he referred to the visit of the fraternal side of the order, complimented the court on having a membership of good men, and described Mr. Paul as a father to this fraternal family, expressing the hope that he might long be spared to care for them. The toast to the officers of the court brought a brief speech from James B. Arthur, high chief ranger; J. V. Russell, treasurer; and W. D. Belding, vice-chief ranger. Mr. Russell said the court was in an excellent financial position, and gave an instance to show the great benefit the membership of one who had died had been to his family.

James Stetson was cordially greeted as a valued member of the court and spoke briefly. J. C. Henderson and John McEachern responded for the ladies. A. M. Belding spoke for the Times and Mr. Gough for the Sun, the latter telling a couple of amusing stories in good style.

Joseph Weatherhead varied the program with excellent music from a phonograph, and a song was sung by Harry Cochran. The exceedingly pleasant affair ended before midnight, with Auld Lang Syne.

The happy party will linger in the memory of those present, and also will be otherwise remembered for Lamont Thorne took two flashlight photographs of the guests as table.

Angus Deigo, of Chatham, who has been spending a few days in the city, has returned home.

CORONER BERRYMAN AND THE RAILWAY ORGANIZATIONS. To the Editor of The Telegraph: Sir—After many weeks deliberation on the Galbath case, a verdict was rendered finding the C. P. R. guilty of negligence. That such a verdict is given does not surprise me after reading the address of the coroner to the jury. That one of the jury dissented from the finding shows that he was convinced that the verdict was not proper. In the face of the evidence of practical men whose statements went to show that the only damage that could be done by the rolling stock of the railway is to the rolling stock of the railway.

Under no circumstances was it necessary for an employee to go between the cars when moving as they were all fitted with automatic appliances necessary for the protection of the moving stock. The C. P. R. railway has done everything that was possible to insure the safety of the public and the employees. They cannot control impulse, and it is not the responsibility of the railway to the public to provide such appliances. It is the responsibility of the employees to use them. The railway is not responsible for the negligence of its employees. It is the responsibility of the employees to use the appliances provided such accidents will happen while operating with care and extended to unforeseen, why hold the railway responsible for the negligence of its employees? Everything possible has been done to safeguard their interests. Railways have in the past been the cause of many deaths and injuries. The railway is not responsible for the negligence of its employees.
