BOOKS, BOOKS AND MORE BOOKS—Sharon Beaumont, ed 2, seems overwhelmed with books as she helps prepare for the opening of the VCF book exchange. Books went on sale Monday.

Higher sales predicted at book exchange

The Varsity Christian Fellowship book exchange, located in 142 SUB, expects to handle 18,000 books this year, compared to 15,000 last fall.

Sept. 27 and Oct. 4, are brought in by students who wish to sell them. They will be resold between Oct. 2 and Oct. 6.

The sale of books is expected to net VCF, which takes a 20 per cent commission, more than $2000, an increase of $200 from 1966.

Five girls left in running for title of Miss Freshette

Five campus belles will again contest the U of A Miss Freshette titles. The finalists Shauna Lovelace, Lynda Gregory, Blythe Ward, Cathy Willetts and Barb Casault were selected by the Block A Club at an informal buffet at the Riviera Hotel Sunday evening.

Following an interview with the potential queens, a club coordinator reduced the number of contestants to fifteen semi-finalists.

The proceeds will be sent to David Aedney in Europe. Aedney is with the International Fellowship of Evangelical Students, an organization working to acquaint European students with the life and work of Christ.

Prior to, and during registration a committee from the club approached girls on campus whom they thought best qualified for the Miss Freshette title and acquainted them with the contest.

On two occasions this week, the finalists will appear before five judges from the faculty staff when they will be evaluated for poise, communication, maturity, appearance and manners.

Mr. Hubick, general manager, said "The exchange has been more organized and expanded than in previous years" and, the increased volunteer labour has boosted the handling capacity of the exchange.

The contest queen and heir to the title, last held by Coleen Dean, will be crowned Saturday night at the Miss Freshette Dance in the ed gym.

He expects the VCF membership, about 225 last year, to increase by nearly 25 per cent. The fellowship will continue to sponsor on an expanded basis, he added.
