

THE old-time miller did not concern himself much about the quality or purity of his flour. He simply ground the wheat. You would refuse to use his product to-day. The results would not satisfy you. You have advanced.

Yet it is possible that your advance has not kept pace with the advance in milling methods.

You may demand a better flour than your mother did and yet be satisfied with something inferior to what it is possible for you to get.

If you are not using

Royal Household Flour

you are not getting the best that improved milling has to offer.

Ogilvie's Royal Household is as much superior to ordinary flours as they are superior to the crude, coarse product of olden times.

Royal Household is made entirely from hard, spring wheat, ground by the latest and most improved method, and purified and vitalized by electricity—a process that is conceded by all millers to be the only method of producing absolute purity, and one that is used by no other mill in Canada.

Points to Facts Which go to Show For Better Administration

Premier Makes a Strong Speech in Interests of Mr. McIntyre at Kingston

Kingston, Jan. 29.—Donald McIntyre's meeting Saturday night was a great gathering, with no interruptions and no unpleasantness at all. The presence of three members of the Government was an attraction, and great respect and attention was shown to the Ministers. Premier Whitney came out broadfooted on several matters of policy, and Mr. Foy launched a sensation as to the methods in the Crown Lands Department of the old administration.

Mr. Whitney made some caustic remarks upon Mr. Pense's recent admission that the Liberals were "suffering for the sin of being found out." He emphasized that the Government now had a very large majority, which would not be affected by Mr. Pense's defeat. He wanted Kingston to just do its duty and act according to the dictates of its conscience on Monday.

The speeches of Hon. Dr. Reaume and Hon. Mr. Foy pointed out the bad ways of the old Government. Mr. Foy broached a case of stolen timber lands which promises to develop into a sensation.

Premier Whitney's critics agree with his admirers that his speech before the big gathering was one of brilliance and grasp, with a thought to the text all the time, couched in pretty language, scintillating at times with wit, sawing a little toward sarcasm now and then, and framed in bitter good-nature, and it was a great speech, before a great audience, wrapped in attention, all the time with no dissenting voice.

The City Hall is a place of no mean proportions. Perhaps 1,300 people crowded into it. There were some clergymen and many ladies, with their escorts, about 50 of them on the platform.

H. W. Richardson was the chairman. Dr. Reaume's Address.

Hon. Dr. Reaume is more of a heart-to-heart talker than an orator. His game is to get every man in the audience to think that he is being spoken to personally. Perhaps he doesn't mean it, but it counts just the same. He told the electors of Kingston that Dan McIntyre could have all the help at his disposal to secure his election. He had come from the west to take a squint at the asylum and learn of its wants. He intimated that there would soon be something doing in the way of improvements there, and further that the Kingston paper of Mr. Pense had a one-sided proposition when charges were printed instead of being proclaimed in a many way before an audience of the electors.

Carloads of cheers greeted his reference to Candidate McIntyre, which was clever and covered for the Government.

Solid For the Candidate.
McIntyre seems to be pretty solid. There was not a grunt of disapproval when he stepped forward. Mr. McIntyre said the mistake made in Kingston last January must be righted. He sailed into the secret ballot situation, and was cheered when he charged that a man could vote for who he liked now without fear, as the numbered ballot was a thing of the past. He repudiated the vindictiveness charged to him through Mr. Pense's paper.

Mr. Foy's Speech.
Hon. J. J. Foy compared the actions of the present Government, which Mr. McIntyre represents, and the old one, which had been so signally defeated a year ago.

There have been things done in the Parliament buildings that the people of this province ought to know, and in the course of time they will know," said Hon. Mr. Foy as he gave the audience interested to the hear a pin drop point.

"Things that will make Mr. Pense and the reform press sorry," he continued, and he related that only very recently and accidentally the facts came out that outside of the members of the Legislature, no passes had been issued.

Great stress had been placed by the Conservative party when in opposition upon the reprehensible practice of disposing of immense areas of pulpwood lands by secret bargains. The Government had taken steps to cancel all these agreements, the provisions of which had not been carried out. A measure of success had attended the Government's administration of the Department of Agriculture. At present there are nearly 300 more students at the Guelph Agricultural College than there had been during the previous year.

While, on this subject, said Mr. Whitney, he desired to mention the case of Dr. Mills, who had been for so many years the head of the Guelph Agricultural College, who had gone to Europe on at least one occasion in the interests of the college, and had paid his own expenses, but, on his leaving the service of the province to take up his position as a member of the Dominion Railway Commission, no gratuity or allowance had been made to him, nor even any compensation. Mr. Whitney spoke for a couple of hours. He would not do away with manhood franchise; no thought of it. He had not adopted the spoils system. Many charges against the old Government were proven before the Conservative Government came into power. Documentary evidence had been removed. He said Mr. Pense was not even endorsed by his party.

Mr. Whitney drew attention to one instance of inquiry which had been carried so far that it was impossible to right the wrong which had been done. The Ontario Government had granted to the Grand Trunk Pacific a subsidy of $2,000 a mile in cash and 6,000 acres of land per mile, including the minerals, simply for their connecting line between Port Arthur and the main line of the G. T. P., a distance of 200 miles. The company would have had to build the line anyway, and Mr. Whitney did not believe they had ever asked for what they received.

"A public official who performs his duty and does not interfere in election matters will be supported and backed up by the Government," said Mr. Whitney, referring to the "spoils system." One department in Ottawa had in eight months dismissed more employees than all those dismissed for good reason by the Ontario Government.

The election feeling is quiet, with Conservative confidence.

Wilkinson, who died in Windsor last October, left to the Public Library a valuable collection of ancient documents of special historical interest to the people of Kent, Lambton and Essex counties. SPLENDID SERVICE

The pulpit of Christ Church was occupied last evening by Rev. Mr. Nowell, of Wallaceburg, who in an eloquent manner gave a most interesting sermon on "Reading the Scriptures." He set forth various reasons why the Bible should be more generally read, and pointed out the effect which would be produced if the young generation were more given to studying the word of God, and using it as their guide through life. He also gave some valuable suggestions as to how the Scriptures should be read and interpreted. The music rendered at both services by the splendid vested choir was of a very fine order and assisted much in making the services bright and interesting. This choir has undergone some changes during the past week. New choir boys have been added, thus increasing the volume of the chorus singing.

RIVER OF YOUTH

The following poem, which appeared in yesterday's Detroit News-Tribune, was written by Arthur Stringer, an old Chatham boy:

From all the golden hills of Dream,
Dew-cool and rainbow-kissed,
It twines and curls, a silver stream
Through valleys hung with mist.

Down past Enchanted Woods to where
Romance walks ever young,
Where Kings ride forth to take the air
On steeds with velvet hung—

Where Secret Stairways tempt the bold,
Where Pirate Caves abound,
And many a chest of Spanish gold
May solemnly be found!

Through magic years it twines and creeps,
Past towers of peacock blue,
Where still some captive Princess sleeps,
And dreams come always true!

Then gleam by gleam the light goes out,
Then darkened, grief by grief,
It sighs into our sea of Doubt
And Manhood's Unbelief!
