Blue Books That Cannot Be Trusted.

OTTAWA, MAY 12.

On Monday of this week the House by a straight party majority of forty-five, rejected the motion of Mr. Lennox, "Toat it is inexpedien that any member of the Government or deputy head of a department. should act or appear as barrister, counsel or advocate in any actior, sui or proceeding, except where the interests of the crown are involved, in any court presided over by a judge appointed by the Government of Canada."

Hop. A. B. Aylesworth, Postmaster General, who has conducted several suits in court since he took office, declared in the House that be has a right to do so. The Minister of Justice pleaded for his colleague, and the Premier spoke briefly

BRITISH PRECEDENT.

It was shown by Mr. Lannox, Mr. lovd and Mr. Stockton, that Mr. ylesworth was taking a course unnown in Canada since Confederaon. Members of the English bar t once drop their practice when hey are called to the Cabinet. Mr. tookton, of St. John, had a clear llustration in point. He was argung before the Privy Council when Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman was orming his government. Against im was Mr. Haldane, now Secretary f State for War. Mr. Haldane vas appointed when his argument vas half completed. He left off his ddress at that point and never apeared in court again.

The reasons against Mr. Aylesworth's conduct were ably presented. He is appearing before judges who owe their appointment to the Government of which he is a member, some of whom are eligible for promotion which he and his colleagues can give, all of whom have had their salaries recently raised by Government action, and all of whom Mr. A Lamp of bronze, antique and Aylesworth may reward by commissions and other outside employment.

> AYLESWORTH'S DEFENCE. These things do not move Mr. Aylesworth. With almost hysterical eloquence he denounced members who suggested that judges could be influenced by fear or favor. I "I cry shame upon such an argument, shame that it should ever have been heard in the Legislative Hall of this or any country," he shouted. And Mr. Aylesworth went on to say that he would continue to exercise his right to appear before these "pre-eminently independent" judges. He claimed the right after performing his duties to dispose of the rest of his time as he chose, and to earn as many thousands as he could in addition to the nine thousand five bundred that the people pay him. It is the unfortunate village postmaster, provided he is not a Liberal, who must be kept from touching any outside work or business. Mr. Fielding, the only minister to explain this inconsistency, said that the subordinate was sure of his posi-> declared that postmasters held office only at the will of the minister. ANOTHER MINISTER'S SENSE. While the Minister of Justice did not condemn his colleague, he had this different statement to make for himself. "I say it would be indecent in the last degree, if I were to go into the courts and practise there, and the very minute I became Minister of Justice I ceased to practise." After stating that the Premier had intimated that he would be expected to give up practice, Mr. Fitzpatrick added, "My own innate sense of decency would have prevented me doing such things." Mr. Firzpatrick said that the eason why it was allowable for Mr. Aylesworth to practice, while it would be indecent for him, was that the Minister of Justice advised the Governor General about the appointment and promotion of judges. Yet every body knows the Governor General merely assents to appointments after they are made, and that judges are selected by the ministers from their province. Mr. Aylesworth is a leading member of the Ontario bar. He is the man to whom Ontario judges look for promotion, if they look to any minister, and the one who will settle jadicial promo-

THE TEWEL OF INCONSIST-ENCY.

In voting down the Lennox reso. lution, the House adopted an amendment moved by Mr. Fitzpatrick. that "Public business should have the first claim on the time and attention of every member of the governmen', and permanent efficials should give to their duties their whole time and attention." The value of this decision may be judged by the fact that a few bours later the nearest permanent official to Mr. Fitzpat. rick, his own Deputy Minister, was engaged in a private suit before the Supreme Court of Canada, within a few hundred yards of the Commons

SALARIES, ANNUITIES AND INDEMNITIES.

The motion of the second reading of the bill concerning appuities to former Ministers, and indemnities to Senators and members of the Commous, was defeated on Wednesday by a vote of a bundred and sixtyseven to nine. This was a bill repealing the legislation of last year Discussion occupied a large part of one night and one afternoon. It is generally felt that this discussion should have taken place last year, so that the public would have thorough ly understood the whole matter People were naturally suspicious of measures of this character, when they are passed without debate in the last hours of the session. For this indefensible proceeding the government, which has a habit of deferring the most important measures to the last week of the session, is wholly responsible. Whatever attitude the country may now take upon the subject, there will be a better knowledge of the reasons for the legislation and of its true character. LEADER.

ALLOWANCE TO OPPOSITION The large increase to the Premier's salary was hardly mentioned. The salary of the Leader of the Opposition seems to be generally regarded here as a fair return for public work thrust upon him, and a step in the general public interest. The Leader of the Opposition had a salary while the Conservatives were in power. Every Opposition leader in the future, unless he is a man of wealth, is absolutely necessary if he does his duty, that he shall give his whole time to it. Mr. Borden has abandoned a magnificent law practice and bas become practically an officer of the country, as Sir Wilfrid was before he became premier. It is therefore simply a question whether the salary shall be provided from the public treasury, as it now is, or by private gift. If the leader is mainembarrassed on taking office with these obligations. The country is now paying pretty heavily for past generosity of individuals to men now be paid, he had better be paid by the few who will be seeking favors in the future. Sir Wilfrid Laurier ment. claims that Canada is the first country to recognize that the Leader of the Opposition is part of the constitutional system. SESSIONAL INDEMNITIES. For the first time parliament had fair and public discussion of the question of sessional indemnity, or as state of affairs. Phis diagraceful Mr. Bourassa thinks it should be condition was further proved by her own way " called, the salary of members of parliament. In the first place it has made in the House by Mr. McCarthy been shown that there is not an in. of Calgary, Mr. Lake of Qu'Appelle, crease of a thopsand dollars a year. Parliament has swept away the charge for travelling expenses or mileage, which was a part of the indemnity disguised as travelling expenses. Railroads have always car-

This means a saving, which is small in some cases, but reaches to eight hundred dollars for the most distant vested interests-what we have spen representative. Again, larger we have kept our schools up-to prepenalties are imposed for absence, serve the religious life and faith of our and there is to be a strict accounting children. In a word it is, as it stands, of attendance in place of the free and an impossible Bill from the Catholic easy methods which have hitherto point of view." permitted those whose private affairs have demanded most attention to draw most of their indemnity. All this should have been explained last pass upon the efficiency of higher ed year. Whether the electors support the change or oppose it, they ought to know the circumstances.

The question of appulties to forme ministers, stands over for future discussion, as this measure is to be re-

WESTERN LAND SCANDALS. Mr. Amee, the member for the 8 . Antoine division of Montreal, gives his whole time to public service. That he wokes to good purpose was shown in the discussion which Indies is Montserrat, an English posbe introduced on Thursday. FAKE HOME STEADING.

Great opportunity for such plunder is afforded in homesteading. Over 15,000 homesteads, or 2,400,-000 acres, on which entries were made, have neither been patented por cancelled, though the law supcoses that the entry is cancelled where the man who makes it, does not become a settler. How the thing works out Mr. Ames discovered in a western tour. He drove fifty miles through a country almost unsettled, though all the land had been taken by supposed settlers. In one village Mr. Ames obtained names of twelve absent fake homesteaders. Those speculators got the land on false pretenses and held it for sale at a high price. Western people com- Lumbago or Neuralgia if they have plain bitterly of these fake entries, never tried these pills before. MUTILATED REPORTS. Having gone this far, Mr. Ames produced sensational evidence that these frauds were known to the government and concealed deliberately from the public. The member for St. Antoine has brought down on himself this session several lectures from the Minister of the Interior. who complains that Mr. Ames asks for more papers than the department can get ready for bim. Only this week the minister talked so long and unpleasantly, that Mr. Borden told him that he was becoming a common soold, all because Mr. Ames been printed in the blue books.

A FAKE BLUE BOOK. But on Thursday Mr. Oliver's face took on a scarlet bne when be Minard's Liniment for sale found that Mr. Ames knew what was in the blue-book and something more. Having asked the Minister whether he did not know of these land frauds, this "daring, cool-blooded hold-up and swindle," as describ. dishes as she was acquainted with. ed in a western Liberal paper, Mr. and being on one occasion pressed Ames received no answer. He pro to partake of a dish new to her, she duced the blue book with statements politely replied, thinking she was of the deputy minister and reports expressing herself in admirable of land agents. Then producing typewritten papers. Mr. Ames proceeded to read portions of the land agents' reports which had been out out before the papers were sent to the printer. These original papers which Mr. Ames had obtained by order of parliament, and which Mr. cis Leclare, one of the men employ-Oliver had scolded him for wanting, ed by me, working in the lumber were found to contain damaging woods, had a tree fall on him, crushdisclosures that had been suppressed in the volume given to the public, tained by private contributions, not One of these was the statement by home, where grave fears were enteronly he, but the whole party, will be the government officer that entries made two or three years ago by speculators were still improperly black from his ribs to his feet.
