HOW TO DRESS AND SHIP POULTRY

The following article from the Daily Trade Builetin of Chicago is reproduced at the request of a leading poultry house, as it covers many facts that apply quite as much to the Edmonton as the Chicago market: In the first place, poultry should be well led and well watered, and then kept from 18 to 24 hours without food before killing. Stock dressed out brighter when well watered and adds to the appearance. Full crops injure the appearance and are liable to sour, and when this does occur, correspondingly lower prices must be accepted than obtained for choice. Never kill by wringing neck.

Dressing Chickens. Kill by bleeding in mouth or opening of veins of the neck; hang by the feet until properly bled. How to Dress Capons. First be sure and not kill them until crops are empty, and that they are fat. A thin capen is not as good as an ordinary chicken, because if not large or a proper capon they are not wanted as capons or chickens either. CALIFORNIA HAS COLD SNAP. Orange Districts Are Saved Only by Continuous Smudging. Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 29-In many of the orange-growing districts of southern California last night's weather was the coldest registered in many years. In one part of Los Angeles county the mercury fell to 16 above zero, while in San Bernardino the thermometer registered 22 and in Riverside 20 degrees above.

Persistent smudging for the last three nights probably has saved the growing crops from serious injury, but in many districts tonight's temperature is awaited with anxiety. What damage has already been done is not considered sufficient to bring the crop below the average. In the Pomona, Rialto and Highland districts orange growers went without sleep last night, attending to their smudge pots. In the larger part it was reported today that this smudging had brought the crop through unscathed. Early today there was a rise in emperature that encouraged growers to believe that tonight's frost would not be as severe as that of last night. Forecaster Alexander G. McAdie said that the damage to fruit had

of the San Bernardino Valley range

Ample warning from the government weather men and up-to-date methods for the protection of trees had prevented great frost blight. In most sections of the state there has been little rainfall in the last few months, and the precipitation for the season is far below the normal. Crisp, fogless weather and cloudless skies have prevailed almost continuously for four months.

BROKE SPINAL CHORD.

Remarkable Operation Prolonged Life Many Months.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Dec. 29—Policeman J. L. Ruffalo, of the local force, whose spinal chord was shattered in a street brawl last summer, and then sealed together with the result that he began to improve immediately, is dying today at his home, here.

The operation whereby the policemans cord was mended was regarded by urgeons as one of the most re-markable ever performed. Though paralyzed from the shoulders by his injury, Ruffalo gradually recovered the use of his various muscles, until two months ago he was declared com-pletely cured. His relapse began a week ago.
