Dressed in Woman's Clothes Attacks Lady on the Street.

St. Thomas Journal: Mrs. George Armitage was assaulted last (Tuesday) dence of her father, Mr. I. Deyell, corner of Hincks and Elizabeth streets. The assaulter was most persistent in his efforts, and it was only after some rough treatment that the lady succeeded in getting into her father's house and making her escape.

Mrs. Armitage some time about 8 o'clock took a walk down Hincks street to her mother's. As she reached the corner of Elizabeth street, a man, who had been concealed behind a tele-graph pole, stepped out and confronte? her. He wore a black slouch hat a veil, and was dressed in woman's ciothes, concealing his features. He grabbed hold of the lady and tried to choke her. She wore a boa, and tak-ing hold of the ends the rufflan pulled it as tight as he could. Mrs. Armitage broke away and ran to get in the back door of her mother's residence. The man followed her, and again attempted to catch hold of her, but she hit him a blow in the face with a purse with a managed to open the door and get inside, when the fellow ran off.
