British and American Labor Conditions Compared.

Statement of Mr. Barnes, Who Has Just Returned From the U.S.

London, Jan. 12.-Mr. Barnes, secretary of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers and one of the British labor commissioners, who recently returned from the United States, has made public some of his impressions. Mr. Barnes says of the labor conditions of the two countries that, as far as wages are concerned, England lags considerably, but that in every other respect the comparison favors this country. DRAWBACKS IN AMERICA. "The most noticeable drawbacks in America." he says, "are the congested character of the workshops, disregard for the comfort of the workers, and the bad sanitation. I am persuaded that on the whole the workmanship of the American me-chanic is inferior to that of his English cousin. This, however, is not so observable in the engineering industry as in others. With regard to orking hours, as a rule, they are longer than in England, especially in the engineering trade, but, as I have indicated, wages are higher.

"I do not think the American works harder than the English mechanic, but there is a great difference in the point of view. The Americans' point of view dominated by the one central idea of labor-saving machinery. That being so, it follows that production is on a large scale. But, man for man, I do not think the output of the American exceeds that of his English com-

SOCIAL CONDITIONS. "With regard to the social condiof the American workman, I think they are considerably lass pleasant than those prevailing in this country. There is also less sense of civic responsibility, and as a consequence, the streets are less cleanly and the buildings more uneven and unsightly than here. That may sound incredible, but it is the impression I formed. I have no hesitation in affirming that the English workmanship is more thorough than the American, and that our mechanics are on the whole much better trained."

A CLASH. Toronto, Jan. 12.-At the last meeting of the local trades and labor council, the label committee resented the action of what they term the "labor fakirs styled the National Trades and Labor Congress of Canada," in issuing a union label, and in their report warned members of international organiza-

A COMMISSIONER'S VIEWS The committee recommended an amendment to the constitution of the council in order to make it harmonize with the amended constitutions of the Dominion Trades Congress. The effect would be to debar Knights of Labor assemblies, and also all local unions, not affiliated with the international organizations or chartered by the American Federation of Labor or Dominion Trades Congress, from continued representation in the council. The report was adopted.

WALKING AT WATERBURY. Waterbury, Conn., Jan. 12.-All the motormen and conductors employed by the Connecticut Lighting and Power Company, in this city, numbering about gone on strike. The discharge of three men for violation of rules was the cause of the strike. The employes demand their reinstatement and a new wage scale. Trolley con-nection with Naugatuck, Waterville and Oakville is cut off. STRIKE AT ST. CATHARINES.

St. Catharines, Jan. 12. - About 250 employes of the McKinnon Dash and Metal Work Company went on strike Saturday, and the company's works are closed down. The trouble centers in the moulding and annealing rooms, where the men ask for a better scale of wages and better regulations. The moulders ask that a schedule of prices for piece work be arranged, so a firstclass moulder will not average les than $2 a day. The annealers complain of the work they have to do in the moulding room, shifting weights, and object to going cold from annealing room into the hot moulding room and vice versa, but are willing to do this provided their demand for 15 cents per hour is granted.

The moulding department ask for a new schedule and increased prices. ask that the wage for any day work be not less than $1 50 per day. Supt. McKinnon came over from Buffalo and met the men and asked a week's time to consider the demands made. This, however, the men refused and the strike resulted. The men working in the other departments went out on strike in sympathy with

The Original Foot Remedy.

When "Foot Elm" was placed on the market some years ago, inquiry at the wholesale houses in Canada elicited the information that there was not at that time any preparation being sold for the feet. Now everybody tries to trade on the wonderful success "Foot Elm" has achieved. There are plenty of spurious foot remedies, but the person who wants real comfort with his feet will use only "Foot-Elm." bd & w

SENSATIONAL EXPLOSION. Quebec, Jan. 12.-A very sensational scene was witnessed Saturday morning at the home of J. A. Auger, at 41 Avenue St. Genevieve, when two stoves exploded and the servant girl leaped through the window in order to save herself. The kitchen stove was close to a gas stove, and the pipes froze up during the night. The girl commenced to light the fire, when with two loud reports both stoves exploded, and portions of them struck the ceiling with force. The terrifled girl drove hand through the glass close by and leaped through it. The alarm was given and the fire soon overcome. Damage, about $3,000.

Alberta Ericksson, a Swedish domestic, jumped from the fourth story of the house during the fire, receiving injuries from which she died soon afterwards. The fire had evidently gained considerable headway before it was discovered. Mrs. Henry's two infant children were saved by Mary Rudge, a nurse girl, who ran with them to the street. Mr. Henry, who was slightly burned, was rescued by a policeman. It was then supposed that his wife had already made her escape. After the fire had been extinguished Mrs. Henry's charred body was found in her bedroom on the second floor. Apparently she had succumbed to the smoke while attempting to reach a window. She was 25 years of age. Financial loss, about $20,000.

WINTER GAMBOL IN SURF

Two Men Took a Dip on Saturday for a Supper.

St. Lawrence River.

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 12. - To win a champagne supper, a wager of $500, and to show that one could bathe in Atlantic City at all times of the year, winter or summer, as they had boldly asserted to some of their friends, William Peissinger, of the firm of J. A. treme in their nature—six months of Kramer & Co., and S. J. E. Dickson, excessive rains and six months of exboth of New York City, donned their bathing suits today and took a dip in the surf at the foot of Kentucky avenue. It was the coldest day of the year here, but the men stayed in the water for five minutes.

A BOLD SWIMMER. Brockville, Ont., Jan. 12.-The story of a boating accident between Rockport and Pine Island in the St. Lawrence. reveals a daring rescue. Two men named Dano and Kelly were upset. They were returning from Alexandria Bay in a skilf, and when near Uine Island, became surrounded with floatway and the boat capsized, throwing both men into the river. Dano told Kelly, who could not swim, to cling to the boat, while he himself would try to swim to Pine Island, a little distance off, and see if he could get aid. WENT BACK FOR HIS FRIEND. Dano reached shore after an exhausting swim through the chilling water and broken ice. He shouted for help erately, but before his cries were heard on the mainland, he heard Kelly. chilled and exhausted by exposure in the upturned boat, desperately cry cut that he could hold on but a short time longer, and appealed to him for help. Dano, benumbed and half paralyzed as he was by his swim from the boat to the island, could not resist the call for help, but plunged unhesitatingly once more into the icy St. Lawrence. He reached the boat and brought the old man safely through the water across the fring of ice surro Pine Island, to the shore. There the men called for aid, and their cries at-There the tracted the attention of rescuers, who went to their assistance. When help reached them both men were unconscious. Kelly remained in this condition for several hours. Dano being a younger man, did not sustain serious

AN OBJECT LESSON

In a Restaurant.

A physician puts the query: Have you never noticed in any large restaurant at lunch or dinner time the large numer of hearty, vigorous, old men at the tables; men whose ages run from 60 to 80 years; many of them bald and all perhaps gray; but none of them feeble or senile? Perhaps the spectacle is so common as to have escaped your observation or comment, but nevertheless it is an object lesson which means something.

If you will notice that these hearty old fellows are eating you will observe that they are not munching bran crackers nor gingerly picking their way through a menu card of new-fangled health foods; on the contrary they seem to prefer a juicy roast of beef, a pro-perly turned loin of mutton, and even the deadly broiled lobster is not altogether ignored.

The point of all this is that a vigorous old age depends upon good digestion and plenty of wholesome food and not upon dieting and an endeavor to live upon bran crackers.

There is a certain class of food cranks who seem to believe that meat, coffee and many other things are rank poisons, but these cadaverous sickly-looking individuals are a walking condemnation of their own theories. The matter in a nutshell is that if the stomach secretes the natural digestive juices in sufficient quantity any wholesome food will be promptly gested; if the stomach does not do so, and certain foods cause distress one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal will remove all difficulty, because they supply just what every weak stomach lacks, pepsin, hy-drochoric acid, diastase and nux. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do not act upon the bowels, and in fact are not strictly a medicine, as they act almost tirely upon the food eaten, digesting it thoroughly, and thus give a muchneeded rest and giving an appetite for the next meal. Of people who travel nine out of ten use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, knowing them to be perfectly safe to use at any time and also having found out by experience that they are a safeguard against indigestion in any and eating as they have to, at all hours and all kinds of food, the traveling publice for years have pinned their faith to Stuart's Tablets.

All druggists sell them at 50 cents for full-sized packages and any drug-gist from Maine to California, if his opinion were asked, will say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the most popular and successful remedy for any stomach trouble. 91c zxv

PANAMA CANAL IS IMPOSSIBLE

What an English Journal Says About the Ditch.

CAN NEVER BE BUILT BY U. S.

A Number of "Insuperable Obstacles" Which Bar the Way Are

New York, Jan. 10 .- The Herald's London correspondent cables: The Westminster Gazette publishes an article on the Isthmian Canal, which is of distinct interest at the present juncture. It is written by Tankerville Chamberlayne, whose practical ex-perience with the Panama project gives the weight of authority to his views. Americans are at present expecting their session of Congress to pass a bill approving the construction of a canal across the Isthmus of Panama. It seems to persons of common sense who have followed with keen interest and observation for seven years the work undertaken by the French company that the selection of the Panama route is most difficult and presents' obstacles of an insuperable characters There are other isthmuses, such as Darien, Port Blas, Nicaragua and Tehuantepec, which do not offer the complicated physical and climatic impediments as does Panama. First and foremost, the climate of Panama is unhealthy. The seasons, although only two in number, are excessive aridity. Fevers are prevalent, in many cases mortal, such as yellow fever and malignant fever. The region is volcanic. So are the countries in proximity to the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, which are visited frequently by seismic disturbances. Revolutions are of common occurrence. They can be relied on nearly every alternate year. Colombia and Venezuela are in a chronic state of revolution. Labor is another intricate question Colombians hate hard work. They will not face a navvy's work.

Justice is in an elementary state. Disputes and quarrels are frequently settled by lead or cold steel. Now, the ordinary difficulties are summed up as follows: Climate, disease, seismic disturbances, revolutions, scarcity and dearness of labor Climate impedes proper work for five months of the year. During six months rains do not cease to pour. During the middle of the dry season there is a complete lack of water, and at Panama it is sold at exorbitant prices, although it is of a turbid

All the labor is imported, as natives do not consent and are not able to do the work. West Indians are the only suitable laborers, and are paid $1 to $1 50 per day.

PROBLEMS OF EXCAVATION. The problems of the excavation of Culebra mountain and damming the derivation of the Chagres River have not been solved.

The damming of the derivation of the Charges is a mighty work. The plan suggested by M. Boyer, a great French engineer, was to tap the river near its source and build an artificial bed or derivation, starting in proximity to Gamboa and terminating east of Colon, near Porto Bello, a distance of about 30 miles, with an approximate width of 60 feet and a depth of 15 feet. This represents a cube of more than 5,000,000 yards for this artificial bed.

At a consultation held by some of the most distinguished engineers of France it was resolved that no other scheme than an artificial conduit could master this problem, owing to freshets during the wet season, which cause the River Chagres to rise to a height of from 25 to 30 feet in a single

The Culebra Mountain, which is 312 feet from its summit to the bed of the canal—and of which not 40 feet has been excavated, has a peculiar freak of closing when earth is re-moved by cutting; i. e., the sides of the gap made by excavating have a tendency to come together, similar to the process of healing in an open wound. How is this peculiarity to be remedied.

In conclusion, supposing Americans were to take over the French con-cession they would be saddled before any expenditure was undertaken with the sum of $40,000,000, which is the price the French company demands its concession. The excavation of dry earth, dredging and blasting, with cost of the ports of Panama and Colon, will amount to $160,000,000, in accordance with a rough estimate made by practiced engineers. This represents a sum of $200,000,000. Labor alone, on a large scale, will amount to the sum of $3.500,000 per annum when the works all along the line are in full progress. Under these circumstances will the Americans build the canal of Pana.ma?

They can, however, be restored and strengthened by assimilated food. The marvelous action of Ferrozone arises from its action over the digestive and assimilative processes.
