THE GIANTS OF LILLIPUTANIA

OPPOSITION TO NEW PREMIER BY SOME OF LIBERAL PARTY
 Conservatives Will Give More Aid, Says London.

COUNTRY FAVORS HIM
 Willing To Give Lloyd George a Fair Trial With Loyal Aid.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Events today emphasized the fact that David Lloyd George, the new prime minister, has split the Liberal party into two factions. The new cabinet will command more support from the Conservatives in Parliament than from the Liberals. The Liberal conference today pledged itself to support the new Government, as, indeed, any party must do in such a crisis as Great Britain has to meet, but the old party leaders will occupy in the House of Commons a place of friendly opposition and criticism. This position is not unusual in the British Parliament.

One reason advanced for the failure of Premier Asquith's coalition government is that there was no strong opposition and criticism in Parliament, because opposition was considered disloyalty to the nation.

Howls From Northcliffe.
 Need all the antagonism the new Government is meeting comes from members of the Liberal party and from Liberal newspapers, although Lord Northcliffe, who has been one of Premier Lloyd George's strongest advocates, made a strong protest today in the Evening News, when the appointment of A. H. Balfour and Lord Robert Cecil to the foreign office was reported. His newspapers have been listing Balfour as one of the "senile statesmen," and the Evening News attacks Lord Robert Cecil on the ground that his management of the blockade has shown more consideration for the interests of neutrals than for British interests.

Denounce Methods.
 A large section of the Liberal party remains faithful to Premier Asquith, and looks upon Lloyd George as a power-wracker, and denounces the methods by which he achieved power. Many of the younger progressive members of the Liberal party support him, but the strength of the support may depend somewhat on how many and what cabinet positions the younger Liberals will get. Criticism is freely made of the old cabinet members that they had become an oligarchy and were too important to listen to their followers.

The chief comment on today's Liberal conference is that Mr. Asquith consented to meet the rank and file and discuss party interests only when he was leaving office. The newspapers complain that he had been deaf to former appeals, particularly when he formed the coalition government, to take his followers into his confidence and explain the situation and his plans to them.

Country Favors New Leader.
 The opposition to Premier Lloyd George seems to be centred largely in London political and newspaper articles. Public opinion throughout the country appears to have crystallized in favor of Lloyd George's program, and on the point that the people should give his government a fair trial with loyal support, and the hardest work to help it carry out its measures.

LIBERAL WEEKLY DERIDES PREMIER.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The chief Liberal weekly, the Nation, prints a leading article on the cabinet situation, entitled "A Leap in the Dark."
 "The war," says the article, "which has changed the world, has brought about an innovation in our Government which seems to have been derived from the practice of France under the early Jacobins. When one of these gentlemen desired power or office with which the state had omitted to endow him, he occasionally nominated himself for the position. To this French precedent Mr. Lloyd George has added an English example."
 "Last week he proposed to divide the cabinet into two parts: the first and unimportant to consist of a prime minister and his colleagues, and the second and vital part to consist of himself and three inconspicuous civil associates, who was to be charged with the sole direction of the war."
 The article then adds:
 "Mr. Lloyd George's brilliant vigor and adroitness have impressed themselves upon the popular mind, in contrast to Lord Northcliffe's hourly presentation of his colleagues as a mass of senility and incompetence."
 No Party Behind.
 Declaring that the new ministry has no party behind it, the Nation continues:
 "The sensational press from which it draws its breath will foster its child, or disown it, as interest dictates."
 Its chief possesses in a peculiar degree the confidence of men of all classes who talk about the war but do not fight it."
 The article says the new Government has not been brought in to make peace. It credits Mr. Lloyd George with the genius of improvisation, but says that all of Germany's greater strokes in the war have been the fruit of long calculation, and warns him not to interfere with the plans of the military and naval chiefs.

"The press which made him an unmake him," says the article. "There is not, therefore, one irresponsible, but two irresponsible, while over the light-minded union hovers an assembly of such problems and difficulties as Napoleon himself never met."

Manipulation of Press.
 The New Statesman describes Mr. Lloyd George as devoting most of his time to a skillful manipulation of the press, while it asserts that Mr. Asquith professed rather exaggerated contempt for it, and favored no paper except his chief detractor. The New Statesman accuses Mr. Lloyd George of becoming nervous over the success of his coup Tuesday, and with circulating a false story that Mr. Asquith, after accepting all his demands, had repudiated the essential one. Two columns of the New Statesman are blank, containing the explanation that the announcement of Mr. Lloyd George's appointment was made after it had gone to press.
 "In the face of that accomplished fact," says the New Statesman, "we consider it undesirable in the national interest, that the matters dealt with in the latter part of this article should be publicly discussed."

DOCILE UNCLE SAM.
 [Edmonton Bulletin.]
 The inference is that our neighbors want their Government to continue to keep them out of the war, regardless of what Germany may do, so long as it does not actually land an army in the United States. Short of that, it is not conceivable that Berlin could do anything it has not already done to give offence of the kind likely to provoke hostilities.

TO STOP IMPORTATION OF PRINTING PAPER

Paris, Dec. 8.—The Government has decided to prohibit the importation of printing paper, according to a semi-official announcement. The object of the step is two-fold, to help raise the exchange and to encourage the French paper industry which, in view of the local resources in lumber, is considered ought to be independent of foreign supplies.

HYDE PARK LADY INJURED.
 Hyde Park, Dec. 8.—Mrs. William Guest, of the 5th concession of London Township, had a narrow escape the other evening. The trap-door of the cellar had been left open and Mrs. Guest, going into the pantry, did not notice the opening and fell to the floor below. When picked up she was in an unconscious condition. She was hurried to the hospital. The X-ray showed that no bones were broken, but she was severely bruised.

TO HOLD MEMORIAL FOR PALMYRA MAN

HIGHGATE, Dec. 8.—A memorial service will be held in the Palmyra Methodist Church, Sunday, December 10, in honor of Pte. Albert Sewell, who was recently killed in action in France.
