

LONDON STREET RAILWAY WILL DECLARE SURPLUS

STREET RAILWAY SHAREHOLDERS TO GET DIVIDEND

Ivey Points to Improvements Made During the Past Year.

DECISION AWAITED

When the shareholders of the London Street Railway Corporation gather in annual session Wednesday they will hear the gratifying report that the road has shown a surplus during 1923.

In fact it is reported today by company authorities that it has been possible to pay the 5 per cent dividend to the shareholders and then have a substantial amount to go on with.

"We made a little during the past year," R. G. Ivey, vice-president of the company stated. "We paid our dividends of course at 5 per cent and then we have a few thousands over." The company stresses the fact also that considerable improvements were made during the past 12 months, new cars, rails, etc., all of which naturally necessitated additional expenditure. And in addition to this the city received the final payment for the Hamilton road track allowance, in accordance with the 1921 agreement and the first payment for its share of the Richmond, Epsom and Stanley street payments laid during 1923.

In the meanwhile the street railway issue, as far as the city is involved, remains "in statu quo" until the Ontario legislature considers the request from the city council to allow the company to pay its full share in ten annual installments.

FATHER-AND-SON WEEK IN CITY OPENS TODAY

Y. M. C. A. and Churches Co-operate To Bring Boy Closer to His Dad.

Today is the first day of Father and Son Week, a week considered by the churches of the city and the Y. M. C. A. as having the greatest influence in furthering the development of the boy in the direction of a good citizen and in consummating a closer friendship between the boy and his dad.

One of the features will be a confidential talk. This is being the greatest and most important of all the decisions included in the day's work. It is the golden opportunity for the fathers who are responsible for the welfare of their boys to explain to them all those conflicting facts and theories which have to do with sex education, for the lack of which so many fine boys are handicapped under the burden of a great handicap.

PUPILS ACTIVE.

A projection lantern has been secured for Talbot Street School through the activities of the pupils and teachers, and will be used for educational and recreational purposes.

An argument ensued at a meeting of the fire and light committee last night relative to the naming of the new steam fire engine. It was suggested that it be called "John A. Roe," in tribute to the late chief. Others held that as "Phoenix" was already painted thereon, it should be left, and the new chemical have the dead chief's name.

Ald. Pritchard, at a meeting of the fire, light and market committee, announced that he considered the street cars moved too fast, and that their speed should be restrained.

Principals' salaries were placed at $800, with increases of $20 per annum up to $1,000 for those in charge of six rooms or more, and $600 with increases to $700 for those in charge of less than a six-roomed school.

A woman, travelling from Hamilton to London, heard the conductor on the train pass through and state that London was the next stop. She picked up her valise and walking to the door jumped out, landing in a snowdrift. When the train stopped and she was found, she stated that she had never ridden in a train before, and that she thought the train was at London when she jumped.

The Bell Telephone Company offered the city $2,500 a year for a five-year exclusive franchise. There were 500 business subscribers and 550 dwellings.

GIRL IS CHARGED WITH OBTAINING MONEY BY FRAUD

Magistrate Adjourns Case of Violet Wimperis To Permit Further Inquiries.

PLEA IS CHANGED

A recommendation for adjournment, remand, suspended sentence, and a plea of guilty which was immediately changed to not guilty, featured the case of Violet Wimperis, 21, charged with receiving money under false pretences in police court this morning.

The affair was one of the most complex in recent police court history. J. M. McEvoy, K.C., appeared for the defendant. After a conference with his client he told the court the case had taken on an entirely new aspect. He volunteered to defend her because she told a different story to the one outlined at the court.

"I think probably this girl is guilty," Mr. McEvoy said. "She received $6 from two men. I paid one of them back, but if my client has made a practice of accepting money from men I may have to pay several of them. I would ask that she be discharged."

The court declared it couldn't discharge anyone on a criminal charge unless it were proven that the defendant were innocent or that she was mentally unbalanced.

Crown Attorney Albert Judd suggested she be examined by a physician, but Mr. McEvoy said Miss Wimperis wasn't bad enough for that. After much cogitation he asked that the girl be let out on suspended sentence.

When this was denied, the girl's counsel, after conferring again, pleaded guilty.

"I am satisfied she is not responsible," Mr. McEvoy said. "She does not appear to be mentally capable in some respects. She comes from respectable parents."

Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon said he would remand her for a week, but Mr. McEvoy interjected with the observation that he pleaded guilty for her because he understood the court would let her out on suspended sentence.

"I never said that at all," the court declared.

"Then, I'll change to plea of not guilty, with your permission," Mr. McEvoy said.

When the misunderstanding was finally corrected the case had made no headway whatever. Ultimately the court decided to adjourn it a week so a full inquiry could be instituted. Two men appeared to testify against the girl. A member of a local charitable organization was on hand in the young woman's behalf. She asked that Miss Wimperis be discharged, claiming her parents would look after her in the future, but the court could not admit this.

"If she is guilty she must be penalized," the magistrate stated, "but if she is found mentally incapable she must be protected."

The prisoner had been in jail all night, and appeared sick and ashen white in police court.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX FORMS REACH CITY

Inspector Tambling Points Out Forms Must Be Filled Out by April 30.

Federal income tax forms for individuals other than farmers and ranchers were received this morning at the local office of the department of income taxation, and are now available. The forms should be prepared in triplicate. One copy should be retained by the taxpayer and two copies must be delivered to the inspector of taxation, Carling Block, on or before April 30, to deliver the forms on or before April 30, explained this morning by Inspector George Tambling, calls for 5 per cent of the tax, payable with the annual return. The penalty for a false return is, upon summary conviction, a fine not exceeding $10,000 or six months imprisonment, or both fine and imprisonment. The income tax forms T-1A for farmers and ranchers are not yet available, but it is expected they will be on hand in a few days.

APEX BOYS CONTINUE DISCUSSION ON 'THRIFT'

Hold Session in "Y" Last Night Following Their Gym Class.

Last night the subject for discussion was "Shall a Boy Save His Money?" The following questions under this heading were discussed by the boys. First: What are the reasons you save your money? What other reasons do folks give for saving? Which of these reasons are the ones which cause folks to be miserly? Which are justifiable? Of what worth to a boy is the habit of saving? Shall a boy save his money just to be saving? Two boys are saving, one just to be saving and the other to buy some special object. For which boy is saving the most important?

Those present last night were: Carl Beale, Arthur Dear, La Verne Fisher, Kermit Fisher, Ed. Barnes, Charlie Brereton, Leslie Bousden, Maurice Hobbs and W. H. Spearman of the "Y."

SIR ADAM TO ACT IN CONFORMITY WITH GOVERNMENT

London Member Defines His Attitude With Respect to Street Railway Plan.

AWAITS APPROVAL

Apologies of the local street railway situation as it affects the city council and the Ontario legislature. Sir Adam Beck, M.L.A., stated today that he would be guided in his action by the general attitude of the government.

Through the medium of the city of London he is in a position to approve of their resolution, 1923, whereby the street railway company was to be allowed ten years in which to pay its share of the Richmond street and other paving projects of last year, and Sir Adam Beck was petitioned to lend his support on behalf of the city.

"I am a member of the government," Sir Adam stated today. "I am in a different position from an individual member of the House. I must be guided by the attitude of the government."

From this it can only be gathered that Sir Adam is willing to allow the company and the city to arrange their ten-year agreement. If it meets with the general approval of the House.

DIRECTORIES OF INDIAN EXPORTERS NOW IN CITY

A number of directories of Indian exporters of Indian goods and products have come to the London Chamber of Commerce and are ready for distribution to any merchant wanting one, free of cost. These directories contain a full list of all exporters of Indian goods, and include every Indian product from curry powder to sheep skins. It is thought they may be of use to dealers in the city, such as wholesale grocery houses, and so on.

MEASURES IMPROVE FLOW.

The above photo shows the device used in measuring the improved flow obtained in the Beck wells at Ridout and Horton streets. During his stay here in connection with the London water survey, Engineer Card asked the public utilities commission to try out a new theory which he had arrived at in the improvement of established wells. Although the process which was used at the time cannot be divulged at present, the results obtained are worth noting. In one well which had formerly produced only 40,000 gallons daily, the supply was doubled, while a second well, which had given only 60,000 gallons, is now flowing at the rate of 500,000 gallons per day. The device pictured above is known as the miner's inch, and derives its name from a one-inch slot in the division between the compartments, which can be increased or diminished by a sliding rule. It is the amount of water passing through this inch slot while the water in the first compartment holds a constant level, that gives the calculated flow of the well.

UNEMPLOYMENT JUMPS ONE HUNDRED IN WEEK

Increase Attributed to Slackening of Work at Local Factories.

Unemployment has increased in London in the last week by about one hundred men, according to J. C. Spencer, superintendent of the London branch of the government employment bureau. He says this increase in the numbers of unemployed is probably due to a slackening on the part of some of the factories. He adds, however, that he is placing a few men on farms.

The man experienced at farm work who knows the duties thoroughly and who is willing to stay with the farmer through the summer and harvest, can always be placed without any difficulty. He says there are a few men coming in for this work now. The general weekly report for the whole province issued by the Toronto headquarters says:
