"One of the ablest of living thinkers, who, at the same time, is a master of expression."

Mr. Morley's chief work is what may be called an intellectual history of the eighteenth century in France.

This epoch of unassisted intellectual activity is the subject of Mr. Morley's work, and he has treated himself master of all the knowledge that must go to its full comprehension.

All the important questions and issues of this age, all the influences by which it was moved, all of its life and shadows—in ethical, social, political—are embraced by Mr. Morley's science, and are discussed with an ability, a candour, and a eloquence which have not often been united in a work of this nature.

It is this that places these books of Mr. Morley, considered as a single consecutive work, among the most notable historical writings in the English language."—Chicago Daily News.

THE PORTRAIT OF A HUMAN SOUL.

AMIEL'S JOURNAL.

The Journal Intime of Henri-Frédéric Amiel. Translated, with an Introduction and Notes, by Miss HUMPHRY WARD. Crown 8vo. $2.50.

"A record of his intellectual attitudes—a minute and marvellous though unostentatious chronicle of mental impressions, the publication of which was an event in the history of modern literature, and has secured his name an immortality that might have escaped the most finished conscious performance within the limit of his power."

"This marvellous and fascinating production."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

"In this volume Mrs. Ward has executed admirably a very difficult task. If there were no other reason to wish it wide circulation, its technical merit as a model of translation would in this age of school globe translation be sufficient."

"It is not fair to add that, in having for itself, and that Amiel is worth means has increased the literary wealth of her two languages."

"Mrs. Ward has, we hope, secured him plenty of English readers."—Athenaeum.

NEW NOVELS! Othmar.

Authorized edition. A Novel. By "Ouida," author of "Princess Narzissa," "Wanda," "Under Two Flags," etc. 12mo. Extra cloth. $1. Paper cover, 40 cents.

"Whatever may have been said of the morality of 'Ouida's' books, none have ever disputed their beauty, nor the fact that she is an incomparable analyst of character. In nothing is her subtle insight of a woman's heart more plainly seen than in the closing scenes of this book. Whereas novelists usually portray a woman in extreme excitement as having suddenly lost every hair in her head, and, standing pale, distracted, with miraculously dishevelled tresses, this woman, before a mirror to place fresh roses at her breast. It is an unequal stroke of naturalness."—Boston Globe.

On Both Sides.

By Miss FANNY COURTENAY BAYLOR.

Containing "The Perfect Treasure" and "On This Side," the whole forming a complete story. 12mo. Extra cloth. $1.25.

"No such faithful, candid, kindly, brilliant and incisive presentation of English and American types has before been achieved. The wit of the story is considerable. It is the best international novel that either side has ever written. It is written by an American who really knows both countries, which ought to put her in the front rank of fiction."—New York Tribune.

Aurora.

A Novel. By MARY AGNES TINKER, author of "The Jewel in the Lotus," etc. Illustrated. 12mo. Extra cloth. $1.25.

"It is a story so delicately wrought, so delightfully perfect, that one reads it with a delight that deepens into fervor an enthusiasm. It is a story of Italian life—of love, of intrigue, of despair, of aspiration. It is full of dramatic situations, and of subtle, pervasive power."—Boston Evening Traveller.
