

Alice, hear the old clock say,
'Something good do every day;
Hear our wise old darling clock
Talk away—tick-tock, tick-tock.

"Hours four-and-twenty make a day," cries
little Dick;
"Thus the hours haste away, quick, quick,
quick;
But one minute more, and then
The clock will tell us it is ten;
'Go to work,' says dear old clock;
'Work away'—tick-tock, tick-tock.

"Seven days will make a week," cries little Dick;
"Children must their lessons learn—quick,
quick, quick;
Great or little, old or young,
All must hate a lying tongue
As I do,' says the dear old clock;
Alice, hear it—tock, tick-tock."
