EATON'S DAILY STORE NEWS

Then Why Not House Them in a Globe-Wernicke Bookcase-a Dust-proof Case of Simple Design, to Which You May Aiways Add a Section as Your Books Accumulate HRISTMAS and New Year's Day have gone and the average house has added to its store of books. They have doubtless found a temporary resting place on tables and chairs-or if it be a very bookish house, even on the floor! But, so that it may return to its ordinary state of tidiness, there is nothing for it but a new bookcase! And, here a word to the wise-let it be a Globe-Wernicke, for next time your books overflow their shelves all you have to do is to add a section.

If you are not familiar with this elastic bookcase, the sketch will show you how it's done. In the centre is a single section with a top and base, and by adding two more sections you obtain the Standard Globe-Wernicke—like the two cases on either side—and these can be added to indefinitely, either vertically or horizontally.

One of the principal advantages of these new style Globe-Wernickes is that the sections are joined invisibly-there is no band of metal work at the sides, as in the old style bookcases.

The "Standard" case aforementioned is 34 in. long, consists of three sections, with top and base, and is obtainable in golden or fumed oak and in birch mahogany at $18.50.
