Shaft at Lorrain Consolidated Sunk to One Hundred and Seventy Feet.

By Special Correspondent.

Cobalt, Oct. 6.—Your correspondent has just returned from South Lorrain, where he found more work proceeding than at any time since the first couple of years after discovery, and considerable high-grade silver ore being exposed and tagged. This tho only four properties are working. There are at least another four which could be opened up to advantage if the owners were so minded and moneyed.

H. B. Wills, in his market letter, says:

Since the famous Hollinger Consolidated has developed into the largest quartz gold mines of the horridand with its phenomenally rich vein system running in a northeasterly southwesterly direction, several attempts have been made to purchase the 120 agree, directly adjoining on the south, owned by Robert T. Shillington and Charles Richardson, but without avail. Offers running into the six figures were received but the owners declared they intended to develop By Special Correspondent.
Cobalt, Oct. 6.—Your correspondent perties are working. There are at least another four which could be opened up to advantage if the owners were so minded and moneyed. Notwithstanding that there is not life of the early boom days in the district, there is today being expended in South Lorrain as much intelligent, gorous development ore-producing and by far more work than any other date in the last three years. he following paragraphs will amarize the work going on: At the Pittsburg Lorrain (Curry) miles and more of underground age has been accomplished, all with a power and shaft equipment some people would consider inadeand the one claim of the company has been something more than half looked into. Two good ore shoots and some small ore bodies have been exposed and measured out by this two miles of drifts, crosscuts, etc. The property is close to the mill stage. The owner is a Pittsburg man of abounding wealth; some people confess that with him the mine is more or less of a plaything. If so, he has in all likelihood played it toward a great big mine, a rich producer. Not a pound of ore has been brought above the shaft cellar; lots were broken down and cut thru; it has been piled up in disused drifts. The contact comes to the surface on this property. It is the experience here that values exist sides of the contact, as far away as 70 feet in one place. This is more or less borne out by the words of men who have been in the Lorrain mines from the first and who know the situation well. They say that the zone of enrichment usually spreads 40 feet each side of the contact. This the ore where first caught was 2000 conce stuff. Drifting in this vein had been continued for 16 feet at date of writing, and samples were certainly higher than 2000 ounce. This vein, which is eight inches and better wide, looks like a splendid thing. The first crosscutting ever done ere was started in the past week. At feet in the cut the mine captain was rewarded with a two-inch vein of solid cobalt. In this specks of silver can be seen with a glass. With a little more work assaying should show this to be also a good strike. By further crosscutting it is hoped that the vein from which former owners took out a great amount of ore will be located. On the Bollellen, so records and old-timers tell, were surface showings, silver sidewalks and such, that rivalled the displays of Cobalt. On this property the contact has never been encountered and its place at depth is not known, nevertheless the keewatin has been and is higher productive, leading one to believe that on the adjoining property, Lorrain Consolidated, which owns a very strong and determined directorate of mining men, values will be got without relation to contacts.

On the Lorrain Consolidated, under the direction of Mr. Julius Cohen, of the Croesus and Porcupine Crown, the shaft has been continued from 100 to 170 feet. Whether the shaft will be sunk clear thru to contact without halt depends on curiosity. At 200 feet it may be decided to crosscut back in for a few feet to see how the vein that the shaft more or less follows. looks. At the 100-foot level this vein was drifted in roughly 200 feet each way, and was highly encouraging. This property has five or six other veins on surface, and the rich finds made on the adjoining Bellellen property strike toward it. Fifteen men are employed. Mr. T. G. Harkness, who is in charge of the men, probably knows as much about South Lorrain as any-body in the north country, he has

is going along well and satisfactorily. In South Lorrain the present activity is not in the nature of a "come back" for some work and some shipments have been made more or less censtantly. Higher price of silver and the general improvements in the price of the pric general improvements in the mining situation encouraged Beaver to take up properties in the district. Sizing it up, with some respect for past results, South Lorrain looks all to the good.

A NEW MINING COMPANY H. B. Wills, in his market lette

ers declared they intended to develop the property for themselves. Both gentlemen at one time owned a large portion of the Hollinger section of Porcupine, but disposed of all except the 120 acres lying immediately to the south and southwest of Hollinger Consolidated After negotiations with Consolidated. After negotiations, with a group of men whose success as mine operators in Cobalt and Purcupine has been second to none, a deal was finally made and a company incorporated to be known at Inspiration Gold Mines.

The new company is capitalized at $2,000,000, divided into 2,000,000 shares te for a 200-foot hole. None of a par value of $1,00 each of which work is below the 300-foot level, the one claim of the company has a something more than half looked. ing operations and begin work with no indebtedness whatever. Already sufficient surface development has been completed to show an important.

been completed to show an important vein system highly mineralized and with a trend identical with that on the Hollinger.

Over this 120 acres so ideally located, there are several high outcroppings of quartz from which assays run fairly high. The rock formation is porphyry, basale and schist, wherein the richest values through the formation. Porcupine camp are to be found. zone of enrichment usually spreads 40 feet each side of the contact. This is just a rough estimate, for in many cases extremely high-grade has been found with the contact hundred of feet away—at the Bellellen, for instance—and in both Keewatin and districe—work has proceeded without stop during from years on the Pittsburg Lorrain (Curry); today thirty men are couplyed more than any previous ramber. Your correspondent was shown ore of an exceeding richness and several plates and large leaves of silver.

Bellellen is the most active-looking proposition in camp. Here a syndicate of well-known Haileybury and other northern men has had 15 to 20 men, under the efficient captaincy of Mr. S. Carroll, working for a year. Results, especially of the last month, have been appreciably good. A 34-ton sinjment was made a fortnight ago of ore averaging 700 or 800 ounces to the tcn. It was got from a shaft between the 200 and 100-foot levels. A week or more ago another fine ore body was hit; first at the 270-foot depth in a winze, this in a drift at the 300-foot level. In the winze values were encouraging. In the drift the ore where first caught was 2000 come stuff. Drifting in this vein had London, Oct. 6 .- The following are
