

JANUARY.

Receipts.—The lessons of adversity are often the most benignant when they seem the most severe. The depression of vanity sometimes ennobles the feeling. The mind which does not wholly sink under misfortune, rises above it more lofty than before, and is strengthened by affliction.—[Chenevix.

Remember, that he is indeed the wisest and the happiest man who, by constant attention of thought, discovers the greatest opportunity of doing good, and with ardent and animated resolution, breaks through every opposition, that he may improve these opportunities.—[Doddridge.

The diseases of the body may be looked upon as so many outlets through which the soul finds its way to eternity.—[Dr. Chalmers.

A gossip is the refuse of humanity—he is the crow of mankind, feeding upon the carion that the purer and prouder bird loathes and avoids; he is the scavenger of society, raking together nothing but dirt.—[Grimstone.
