THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

Interesting Papers Read and Discussed at Yesterday Afternoon's Session.

The Teachers' Institute session was resumed at the High school yesterday afternoon, when four interesting and very valuable papers were read. These came under the head of subjects not in the curriculum and were listened to with close attention and were highly commended.

During the afternoon session, four instructive and valuable papers were read. These were classed under the general head of subjects not in the curriculum and were listened to with close attention and were highly commended.

Miss Bartlett stated what has been done and is being done throughout the Dominion looking towards the establishment of domestic science in the schools. A short but interesting discussion followed. W. H. Parlee, of the Victoria school, while admitting the importance of domestic science and manual training, took the ground that there are now so many subjects on the curriculum the teacher is embarrassed to find time for them all.

An interesting paper by Miss M. A. Nannery was on Articulture. The writer made a strong plea for the teaching of the proper pronunciation of words with the distinct articulation of each syllable. This she said calls for much attention and patient effort from both teacher and pupil, but she believed that the pleasure which comes to both from the sense of accomplishment will counterbalance this.

It is necessary, she pointed out, to teach the child to read as naturally as it speaks and to shun the monotone of the class room. Erroneous forms of speech should also be corrected as far as possible and the powers of observation trained. In conclusion, Miss Nannery described her own experience with her class in teaching correct reading and speaking.

The second paper was by Miss M. I. Morrow, Physical Training. This she contended to be as necessary in the school curriculum as mental or moral training. Physical drill relieved the tired brain and body from the tension of mental tasks and gave fresh vigor for renewal of the work. It was a valuable aid to the teacher because after it pupils were less disorderly and had more powers of concentration to bestow on the lesson.

Correct habits of standing, sitting and walking should be insisted on not only once a day, but all day and all the year and every year. Only in this way she contended, could wholesome attitudes be assumed by the effort become unconscious habits. The concluding part of Miss Morrow's paper dealt with the mode of teaching physical drill in the school room.

Miss A. B. McLeod then presented a paper on Moral Training. It was quite evident in this case, as indeed in all the others, that much care and attentive thought had been expended in the treatment of the subject. She fully recognized the difficult and complex problem presented by the teaching of morals and manners in the school room. For the ultimate results the individual must be looked to as it depended more on the cultivation of will power than anything else. The teacher was powerless to do anything more than point the way and in order to do this must set an example that could be safely followed.

Great tact and sympathy were, she concluded, also required in dealing with children oversteering in a manner. It was the last paper, on Rewards and Punishments, by Miss J. Scott, followed naturally on Miss Morrow's paper. Rewards and punishments, Miss Scott pointed out, were not merely devices to be believed in, they were schoolmasters to bring us to the truth. Rewards were the avoidable consequence of right doing as punishment was the unavoidable one of wrongdoing. In the school room the chief difficulty lay not in the paucity of rewards but in bestowing them so that no harm should be done to the pupil by over-claiming. The same was true, in a different way, of punishment.

The president also made a few remarks along the same lines, alleging that when those in authority wished it they could foist any kind of school rule upon the poor teacher and pupil had to bear it.

Mr. Carter desired the speakers to leave generalities and confine any subject on the curriculum which could be dispensed with but on suggestion of Mr. Parlee further discussion was postponed till Friday afternoon.

Henry Town, chairman of the audit committee, reported during the afternoon that the accounts of the institute had been examined and found correct.

The Golf Club was yesterday afternoon the scene of a brilliant and largely attended reception, in honor of Miss Thomson, the Canadian golf champion, who by her excellent game has brought the local club to the very front rank in Dominion golf circles.

The house which was gallantly decorated with rosan-berries and evergreens was filled with enthusiastic admirers of the champion.

The guests were received by Mr. George McAvity and Mrs. George F. Smith, the presidents of the club and the lady in charge of the reception.

A particularly pleasing feature of the afternoon was the presentation to Miss Thomson, by Mrs. George F. Smith, of a beautiful bouquet of red roses. In making the presentation, Mrs. Smith welcomed the champion on her return home and expressed the pleasure of the club members at her success on Upper Canadian links.

The second presentation was made by George McAvity who expressed the gratification of the club members that the Dominion championship should be held by a local organization. In concluding Mr. McAvity presented Miss Thomson with a very handsome silver purse-bag. Others who spoke were James U. Thomas and Miss Helen Sydney Smith who spoke on behalf of the lady members of the club.

Miss Thomson, who wore the laurels of many victories in the form of numerous beautiful medals, replied in a few well chosen words.

Among the many present were Senator and Mrs. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy, Mrs. James Dwyer, Mrs. Gustave P. E. Barker, Mrs. Lee R. Harrison, Mrs. George West Jones, Mrs. Andrew Jack, Mrs. Keltie Jones, Mrs. J. Douglas Hazen, Mrs. Silas Alward, Mrs. Harold Cowan Schofield, Miss Helen Sydney Smith, Dr. Margaret Parks, Miss Barker, Miss Elsie McLean, Miss Miss Harrison, the Misses Travers, W. H. Thorne, Sheriff Ritchie, James U. Thomas, George McAvity, J. G. Harrison, Alfred Porter, J. Twining Hart, John Knight (Montreal) and others.

Mrs. C. E. L. Jarvis was hostess at a very enjoyable reception on Thursday last, in honor of Sir William and Lady Bowring. The floral decorations in which crimson prevailed possessed mainly of gladioluses and looked very bright and pretty.

A GREAT CAMPAIGN FOR LOCAL OPTION

A Vote Will Probably Be Taken in January in Eighty-Nine Ontario Municipalities.

(Toronto News.)
There will be a record local option campaign in Ontario this fall and winter, is the statement handed out at the office of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance.

"As to our opponents' plans we can say nothing," said the secretary of the Alliance, Rev. Ben H. Spence, to The News this morning, "but we are preparing for every contingency."

On the 11th inst., President Wanless informed The News, the York Township executive met to organize and inaugurate the campaign there. "Prospects look bright all over," he observed.

Mr. Spence made the following statement: "There are at present in the province 153 municipalities in which the law is operative, and there are 133 other municipalities in the province in which no licenses are granted for various reasons. During the past six years out of 150 chances to repeal Local Option By-laws by a simple majority vote, there has been only one successful, and that Scotland. One feature of this fall's campaigns is the large number of incorporated towns and villages in which a vote is being taken. Of the 89 places in which campaigns are in progress, 35 are incorporated towns or villages. There are at present 207 licenses granted in these 88 municipalities."

ALMOST $200,000 IN THREE YEARS

McMaster University Forging Ahead --- New Science Hall for Baptist College.

(Toronto News.)
McMaster University has entered upon a record-breaking academic year. Chancellor A. C. McKay, B.A., LL.D., who presided at the autumn convocation of the faculty and students held in the chapel last Friday evening, made the gratifying announcement.

After extending a welcome to the students the Chancellor alluded to the splendid prospects for the year. The student body, both in arts and theology, was the largest in the history of the college, and they were possessed of greater facilities for their work than before. Within the last three years there had been added to the University buildings and equipment which cost almost $200,000.

The occasion was, moreover, the opening of the new Science Hall, which has recently been erected at a cost of $33,000, and also the installation of two new professors, Dr. J. A. Gilmore, who takes the chair of practical theology, and Dr. J. B. Munroe, who takes the chair of chemistry, both of whom delivered short addresses.

Professor Gilmore, who was selected some time ago, but was prevented by illness from assuming his duties until the present, acknowledged the kindness which has been shown him since his appointment. He entered upon the work with courage and hopefulness, and promised to devote to it the best services he was capable of giving. Professor Gilmore graduated from Toronto in 1885, subsequently taking the course in theology in the Baptist College, Toronto, and receiving from McMaster the degree of bachelor of theology and bachelor of divinity.

He spent two years in Great Britain in postgraduate study, following which he entered upon successful ministerial work.
