ESTABLISHED 1834. THE Committee having reason to believe, that in building new Ships, a practice prevails in some Outports and in the Colonies which is incon-sistent with the Rules of this Society, and that in-stead of the rabbet of the keel being properly wrought to receive the garboard strakes, it too fre-quently happens that the upper part of the rabbet is formed by rising wood or plank piece fitted over the keel, and consequently that there is scarcely any inner or back rabbet in the keel, a practice considered to be exceedingly objectionable.
