A LEAGUE OF RELIGIONS

To the Editor of The Times:—

Sir:—Some time ago I read your article entitled: "A League of Religions."

Your call for a larger measure of brotherly love among Christians and an attempt at a better mutual understanding among peoples of all religions is surely one of the things that gives civilization a gleam of hope. How many will have ears to hear and eyes to see?

The Christian problem is the most interesting to me. The religious ideas of men have created a Christianity that is a big display, an argument and an obligation. I believe in the Christianity of Christ—the religion that has no whims or superfluous doctrine.

I can plainly see that it is only the foolish that say in their hearts "There is no God," and nothing would make me feel more timid in the sight of my Lord than to think that I had to adhere to any of the religious ideas of men, claimed to be created by divine inspiration or otherwise to win my way to heaven. While on the sea of life I shall remember the words, "O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt?" (Continued on page 12, fourth column.)

The Agonies of Hades

Aren't supposed to be worse than a bad corn. For years the standard remedy has been Putnam's Corn Extractor. It painlessly removes the worst corn in 24 hours; try Putnam's Extractor, 25c. at all dealers.
