

Domestic happiness, thou only bliss
Of Paradise that hast survived the fall;
Thou art the nurse of virtue, in thine arms
She smiles, appearing, as in truth she is,
Heaven-born, and destined to the skies again.
Thou art not, where false pleasure is adored,
That reeling goddess with the zoneless waist
And wandering eyes, still leaning on the arm
Of novelty—her fickle, frail support.

New Discovery in the Preparation of Flax.—A French paper states, that an inhabitant of Chateau Thierry has discovered a mode of giving to prepared hemp and flax the fineness, softness, and whiteness of cotton, by impregnating these substances with oil, and then exposing them, during fifteen or twenty days, to the action of frost, between two layers of snow. By this means all the inconvenience of the ordinary and tedious process of steeping them in stagnant water will be avoided.

Two whiskered dandies with hair enough under their chins to make a grenadier's cap, went to the British Institution. On reading the inscription over the door, "No dogs admitted," the foremost turned to his friend, and wittily observed, "You must go back, Fred, you see they don't admit you." "Oh don't be frightened, gentlemen," said the door keeper, "you may both come in," adding as he quietly pocketed their cash, "the regulation does not extend to puppies."
