that night
pale fright
allow three stories high little baby, with no one nigh
A stranger saw him, and stopped to stare:
A crowd soon gathered to watch him there:
A gleam! a flutter! in airy flight
Came past the window a butterfly bright!
From fields of clover and perfumed air,
Way hither in such, what longest got there?
The baby saw it, and eagerly
Reached out to catch it with glowing glee.
With fat, pink fingers, reached out—and fell!
The awful horror no tongue can tell!
Poor little baby, so sweet and bright!
Pale faces quivered, and lips grew white:
Weak women fainted; strong men grew weak.
Up rose one woman's heart, piercing shriek:
Hurrah for the saving! Upon the fly
It caught the youngster and tossed him high.
The bonnie prodigious made baby cooed:
He caught his breath, air, and sent up a shout.
All blessed the saving that had no flaw:
But a madder baby you never saw!

AN INTERESTING STORY FROM THE FRENCH.

In the woods forming what is called forest of Ardenne, about a mile small village called Solent, there leads from a high road to a pied by charcoal burners, a
ed. It was a gloomy for about an hour.
