Mismanagement Made Fort Dufferin Practice Unpleasant.

No Provision For Officers-Charlottetown Men Complain of Haste and Bad Equipment.

The Prince Edward Island men, who have been in camp at Fort Dufferin for the past three days, are not altogether satisfied with the way things went. They believe that under more favorable conditions their score for shooting would have been higher, and that whatever may have been below the standard in their work was wholly due to conditions at camp.

NOTES.

Mr. Gourley has given notice of an amendment to strike out the words "not specifically routed therefore by shipper" in the Grand Trunk Pacific contract. This will mean the Grand Trunk Pacific contract. This will mean the Grand Trunk Pacific will be forced to carry all freight through Canadian ports.

Lieut. Vroom, the Nova Scotia fruit inspector, who was a member of the Bisley team, is now returning to Canada by the steamer Tunisian. After the shooting was over he spent a few days studying the condition of the fruit trade in the chief British markets, and will be able to take up his work in Nova Scotia with a better understanding of the requirements of dealers and consumers in the old country.

Mr. Rider, formerly member for Stanstead, is mentioned as a likely successor to the late Senator Cochrane.

It is said that the Alaska tribunal may hold some sessions in Paris or the Hague if the case is not completed before next October, which is regarded as a disagreeable month in London, whereas at either of the two places named the weather is delightful.

The militia department publishes notice that application for Fenian raid and Red River medals have not been terminated after January first next.

Major E. H. Hills, special engineer deputy assistant adjutant of the war office, has been appointed to examine military surveys in Canada with a view to having them made strictly up to date. He will be here within a month, when his work will commence.

The British war office has paid a high compilment to three Canadian officers by inviting Col. Otter of Toronto, Colonel Drury of Kingston and Col. Evans of Winnipeg to attend the autumn manoeuvres in England.

ratorsable conditions their score for shooting would have been helpset, and that whatever may have been below the standard in their work was wholly due to conditions at camp.

Yesterday forenoon the two Charlottetown companies were rushed through both the instructional and competitive shooting. The weather was abominable and in the mist and rain it was impossible for them to do their best work, especially when so much haste was required of them. More than this, the guns played out and even the mastor gunner seemed unable to locate the trouble. The twelve pounders missed fire more frequently than they went off. the firing pins were broken, and nunerous other little drawbacks prevented good work. The Charlottetown men felt that with a fine day and guns which would act as suns are supposed to act, they could nave made a much better showing.

Arrangements for camp at Fort Dufferia this year were made with such lack of thought and in such a hurry that many officers were disgusted with the whole thing. Instructions were not received until a couple of days before the first detachment of men arrived, and the information sent here regarding the camp was so meagre that those interested were in a state of uncertainty as to what was to be done.

No provision was made this year for officers. As a consequence the captains, lleutenants and visiting officers were compelled to walk from Fort Dufferin to the city three times every day for their meals. They managed to drive back from the ferry floats, but yery seldom could get busses to bring them to the city. Last year there was an officers' meas at the camp, but this time those in command were left to shift for themselves.

The camp broke up today, when the two Charlottetown companies marched in and took the eleven o'clock train for home. The Quebec detachment left on the Maritime Express and will go irlo camp at the Island of Orleans. The leads of the head. The blow stunned him for a mire the proper in the companies of the head. The preliminary examination of Frederick W. Goodspeed, charged with assaulting Charles F. Marr, of the Boys' Industrial Home, with intent to kill him, was begun before Magistrate Ritchle in police court this forenoon. Scott E. Morrill appeared for the prisoner.

Goodspeed shows every evidence of good feeding and healthy surroundings. He is fat and rosy, and, as usual, perfectly cool and collected. The court room, as might have been expected, was crowded and when the youtful prisoner appeared there was a great rush to get a sight of him.

never had any trouble with Goodspeed until this last racket. The prisoner always appeared to be a good boy. Marr's head is still sore from the effects of the blow.

The piece of iron was a part of the bedstead in Goodspeed's room. It was produced in court, was of three-eighths iron and about two feet long.

Mr. Morrill had no questions to ask on cross-examination.

Goodspeed was told to stand up, and upon the regular formula being repeated to him, answered "I got nothin' to say, your honor," then, sitting down, turned to wink at a friend behind the rail.

He was formally committed for trial at the next session of the circuit court to be holden by Judge Landry on the first Tuesday in September, or Sept. 1. County court meets on the fourth Tuesday of the present month, but this court has no jurisdiction in such a case.

case.

During the proceedings in the police court this forenoon the difference between Goodspeed's conduct and that of Vilmot Kempton, charged with stealing, who sat beside him on the bench, was most marked. Kempton was extremely nervous, his hands were continually moving, his eyes roaming about the courtroom, and he was shifting about all the time. In marked contrast, Goodspeed, who is charged with a much more serious crime, was perfectly at ease, and was deeply interested in the evidence being taken in Kempton's case, while seemingly careless of his own.

speech, which will be delivered tomorrow.

Col. Hughes, in a speech pregnant with statistics, urged that the Grand Trunk Pacific could not affect freight rates in competition with the water route.

Mr. Russell followed, and declared that the contract which the government proposed was an ideal one. He wanted an all-Canadian route, and he did not care what its origin was. He devoted much time to demonstrating that the clause which provides for the purchase of the company's supplies in Canada covered all the ground necessary. He then urged that under the provisions of the contract Canadian ports would get all the freight. Mr. Russell laid it down that 200 or 500 miles were a negligible quality in a transcontinental railway.

Mr. Lancaster asked why the Intercolonial should not be used in this case.

A CURE FOR LOCKJAW.

Common Salt Solution Injected in Victim's Veins Produces Wonderful Results.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—A cure for lockjaw, it is said, has at last been discovered. It has been tested and proved.
The discoverer of cure is Dr. Samuel A.
Matthews, professor of pharsamacology in the University of Chicago. In brief, Dr. Matthews's treatment of the dreaded disease consists of an introvenius injection of salt solution. The treatment has just been tried for the first time on George Newman, an 11-year-old boy.
The patient had an acute attack of the disease and was in the last stages when Dr. Matthews was asked to try his discovery; as a result the boy is able to sit up. Physicians pronounce the cure a wonderful one, and say that Prof. Matthews has made a discovery which will revolutionize the entire practice of medicine in cases of acute poisoning.

BRAVE RESCUE BY NORTH END BOY

His Pluck Saves Little Girl From Drowning.

Eleven Year Old Frank Tufts Dives off Rankine's Wharf and Saves Little Jennie McHarg.

Frank Tufts, the eleven-year-old son of Capt. Tufts, of North End, with a rare display of youthful coolness and pluck rescued from a watery grave at Rankine's wharf yesterday afternoon, between the hours of five and six, little Jennie McHarg, the six-year-old daughter of Geo. S. McHarg, the Portland street grocer.

The little girl in company with a playmate had strayed to the foot of Acadia street, and ventured on the logs lying in the water close to Rankine's wharf. While running she tripped and fell into the water. Her companion in fright ran away and the unfortunate child in the water would have drowned had not her cries reached the ears of Frank Tufts not far distant. He dashed down the whater toward where the little girl was struggling in the water and without stopping to remove any of his clothing he dove off the wharf, a distance of ten feet, and swimming to the drowning child seized her and helped her to a place of safety. Fortunately he was a good swimmer. His action was none too timely as the little girl, exhausted with struggling, must have soon sunk. Save for a bad fright she is none the worse for her wetting.

murder on Fort Howe. The cause of the excitement was the sight of a man reported to the police, who, after questioning both parties, were assured that the discharge of the weapon was an
