MRS. WELLS PROVES NEED OF POLICE WOMEN IN CITIES

Tells of Her Work in the West and of the Opportunities It Presents to Help Women and Girls Along the Right Road—Industrial Revolution One Point

Instead of being seven feet tall, with the aspect of a grenadier and the strength of an Amazon, the pioneer police woman is a comely little body who looks as if she would be more at home at a mothers' meeting than playing the part of a "Bobbie" in the fight with the wickedness of a great city. Although she has made many arrests, she does not grab the culprit by the scruff of the neck and lead him or her to the lockup by main strength and stupidity. She has developed a very courteous method of doing police work. When she wants to make an arrest, she simply calls around to the victim's residence, and leaves her card or at any rate the card of the police magistrate in the shape of a summons. It is not so long ago that the coast cities of California boasted an amount of wickedness sufficient to satisfy anybody looking for trouble, but according to Mrs. Wells, the police women and the suffragettes have swept most of the ancient iniquity into the sea. What she had to say about her glorious State of California indicates that a moral revolution of some size has taken place in the erstwhile wild and woolly west. Mrs. Wells has developed a new conception of the purpose of a police department. Instead of being a mere machine for the detection and punishment of law breakers, the police force in her view should be a great preventive agency, a sort of fairy god mother to the wayward and erring.

SPARKLING EYES AND RUBY LIPS

The Birthright of Every Girl With Rich, Red Blood.

The sad eye that goes with bloodlessness is a sure sign of misery and weakness. Anemic—that is bloodless—girls and women have dull heavy eyes with dark lines underneath. The eyelids are pulled down, look pale and bloodshot inside. This is not all. Anemia works havoc all through the system. Girls grow painfully weak and irritable; they are breathless and incapable of much exertion, while older women who are anemic complain of being "never really well."

There is only one way to brighter, better health for pale, pinning girls and women. That way is to invigorate the body with new blood—the rich, healthy blood that imparts strength, cleanses the system of all eyes and red lips of perfect health. Thousands of girls and women know that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People make this new, rich red blood, and so restore health and strength more surely than any other medicine known.

There would not be an anemic woman or girl in the land if those suffering from this condition were to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. That is why so many recommend these pills to their suffering sisters. Mrs. R. B. Keith, Stevens Settlement, N.B., says:—"At the age of 18 my daughter Sadie began to complain of constant headaches, and did not have her usual good appetite. I went to a doctor and got some medicine, but it did not help her, and finally she had to discontinue going to school. She seemed to be growing weaker every day and wanted to lie down all the time, and would continually complain of being tired. The doctor gave her another bottle of medicine, but with no better results. There was not a bit of color in her face or lips, and she began to lose weight. I was going into a decline. A friend who was into see her said, 'If she was my child I would try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.' I decided I would take the advice. In a couple of weeks we could see a difference, as her eyes looked brighter, and she would try to eat a little when she began the pills she could not dress herself alone, but little by little her strength came back until she could go for a walk. She continued the use of the pills several months with the result that she was again strong and active. This was over two years ago, and she has been strong, healthy girl ever since, was again strong and active. This is for purposes and find them a good family medicine."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers, or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The industrial revolution, she said, had caused a tremendous change in the social relations and conditions of the people. Fifty years ago the women and children were in the home, and the public consisted wholly of men. Under the old conditions a large part of the world's work was carried on in the home and women and children had enough work to do to keep them out of mischief. The industrial arts carried on in the home afforded an opportunity for the training which develops character. But now much of the work formerly done by women in the home is done elsewhere, and women and children are obliged to labor outside the home, have become a part of the public. So long as the public was composed of men it was right that the police force should be composed entirely of men. But the new conditions presented new problems and new requirements, and the police woman had become necessary to meet the situation in a proper way.

Mrs. Wells said the police force constituted the army of peace. When she became interested in police work she was amazed at the low salaries paid to policemen. The average policeman was a much bluffer man than he was supposed to be, and his wages were generally disproportionate to his qualifications and duties. She pleaded for a better recognition of the importance of the police. In all extremes of weather they are patrolling the streets in order that the citizen might be secure, but generally the citizen never thought of the police unless he wanted to make a complaint.

In regard to the pioneer work of police women the lecturer said it was rather trying, more especially as being an experiment they had to bear the full light of public attention. The women had to learn their work without much assistance.

MRS. WELLS.

How Police Women Work.

In an up-to-date city plain clothes policemen always worked in pairs, and even the uniformed patrolmen worked in pairs in some sections. But the police woman had to work out her own salvation alone. In the first year or two work at Los Angeles Mrs. Wells said she had charged amusement houses. She operated in ordinary clothes, and went into moving picture houses and took the names and addresses of children unattended by their parents, and prosecuted the proprietors. A community is criminally negligent, she said, if it allows dark picture houses, as there was a principle of lighting which could be employed without interfering with the pictures. She pointed out that Los Angeles had reduced the number of saloons, so that it only had about 200, where cities of similar size had 1,400 or even 2,000. The city also had abolished the segregated district, thanks to the fact that it had a council composed of men who had supported the movement to give women votes.

The Social Evil.

In regard to the social evil the speaker said that men policemen jeopardized their reputation in trying to deal with the girl problem, but that women could do preventive work on behalf of young girls that it was impossible for men to undertake. In Los Angeles they had a curfew law, but when a policeman took a young girl home whom he found on the street after hours, he was frequently told by the parents of the girl to mind his business, and often complaints were made against him with a view to taking away his job. A police woman could take a girl home and give her parents a talking to.

The speaker told a number of pathetic stories of how she had been able to save young girls and married women from taking a false step. She had been surprised at the extent the economic question entered into the social evil. At the same time the lack of the old home life, the failure of parents to encourage the instinct of workmanship as was done when so many industrial processes were carried on in the home, and allowed their children to develop habits of idleness, were important factors in many of the present day evils.

The speaker said all parents should teach their children the great facts of social hygiene, and try to provide for something to take the place of those bulwarks which had been removed by the changes which had taken place in the conditions of life. The children should be kept busy, playgrounds and vocational schools should be established. One of the duties of a police woman was to attend to enquiries for missing relatives. In Los Angeles many pathetic letters were received from all parts of the world asking the police for assistance in locating relatives.

Pensions.

Mrs. Wells approved the idea of pensions for mothers, more stringent marriage regulations and laws designed to make it difficult for a man to desert his wife and family. The number of deserted wives is appalling. In connection with the idea of pensions for widows, she said an eminent authority had told her that a great proportion of the husbands who deserted their wives had been brought up in orphan asylums, and consequently had no appreciation of home life. Men need not be afraid that the appearance of women on the police force menaced their positions. The business of the police women was to take up new lines of work. She had the loyal co-operation of the policemen of Los Angeles. They very fathers of families, did not like to see a boy or girl go wrong, and when they saw a boy or girl starting on the wrong road they told her about it, and she went to the boy or girl and tried to help them.

At the conclusion of the lecture Mrs. Wells answered a number of questions addressed to her by the audience. In reply to Mrs. Pike, she said that that women had the vote in California was a great aid in all social reform work. Mayor Frink presided at the meeting and on the platform were Mrs. T. H. Bullock, Mrs. David McLean, Judge Ritchie and T. H. Bullock.

WRONG SUIT CASE CAUSES MUCH TROUBLE

Mixed on Street Car Yesterday Afternoon Untangled Through Efforts of Standard Reporter.

There was a mix-up on a street car late yesterday afternoon that caused considerable trouble. The car took on board at the I. C. R. depot a number of passengers, among whom was a lady from Nova Scotia, and another from Norway. The latter was coming out to join her loving husband, whom she had not seen for a couple of years.

They boarded the street car bound for the North End, so did the lady from Nova Scotia and their dress suit cases were piled up in the vestibule of the car. When the car arrived at Sherbrooke street, the Norwegian with his wife got off to go to the cosy boarding house, where he had made arrangements for his stay. They were thinking too much of each other and not enough of the Norwegian grip, the conductor was in a hurry to get clear of passengers and make up time and he accordingly threw the first grip that came to him and which was accepted by the Norwegian, who had a smile about his mouth as he cracked a plate.

The man from Norway, but now a New Brunswicker, was too happy at the fact of having his dear wife with him to take any stock of what the conductor passed to him.

On their arrival at the boarding house there was much excitement, for they had the wrong suit case, and worse than all it was locked and they could not see what was in it. The husband and wife to Prince William street and meeting a reporter explained their troubles and asked for assistance. It was given him. He wished to recover his wife's suit case and exchange it for the one that he obtained. Late last night the Standard was enabled to locate the party, who owns the case carried away by the Norwegian, and this afternoon, or perhaps this morning, the tangle will be straightened out.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

The fact that Doan's Kidney Pills are the original Kidney Pills has not prevented the placing of other preparations in pill form upon the market under the name Kidney Pills. It is necessary, therefore, that all wishing to secure the curative effects which have made Doan's Kidney Pills so popular everywhere, should see that the trade mark, the Maple Leaf, appears on the wrapper. AT THREE BOY IS SEASONED SMOKER

JOHN LIPPKKE, JR., THREE YEARS OLD AND HIS FATHER.

Physicians are puzzled over the case of John Lippke, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lippke, of Waterbury, Conn., who at three years old smokes daily three cigars. The child, according to his parents, has been smoking since he was a year old, and all attempts to break him of the habit have failed. The physicians declare they have never heard of a parallel case. Consumption of more than one thousand cigars a year is not his only accomplishment, for in addition this infant relishes a pipe and cigarettes.

UNION CHECKERS SAY AGREEMENT IS BROKEN

Held Meeting Last Evening but Refuse to Give Out Statement—Work is Proceeding.

The steamer Cassandra of the Donaldson Line and the steamer Montreal of the C.P.R. Line are the only two steamers at the Sand Point docks, and while freight was being taken on board and discharged, the Union checkers were not at work yesterday.

The whole trouble appears to have arisen from the placing at work of a checker whom the members of the union claimed was not in good standing. With the checkers striking it caused some inconvenience but the work has not been delayed.

Last night the work was going along well enough at Sand Point and at the same time there was a meeting of the Checker's Union held in their rooms on Charlotte street. After the meeting the checkers refused to discuss their intentions, but they claimed that the agreement that no non-union men or men in bad standing should be employed had been violated by the C.P.R. They further claim that Mr. Groat's action in telling the man to go to work was contrary to the agreement.

Members of the union also stated that when other lines were notified that a non-union man was working, they put him off immediately. The union men said last night that non-union men were working in the place of those who have struck and that this is in accordance with the agreement, and that they, the union men, did not take the initiative in the matter.

When the union checkers quit work the warehouse soon filled with cargo causing a congestion, but others were placed at work and from reports received from Sand Point last evening the work was going along fairly well.

DOMINION COAL CO. ASKS EXTENSION OF THE WHARF LEASE

Have Several Steamers Coming Here Next Week to Supply the Winter Port Boats.

Last evening Mayor Frink received a telegram from the manager of the Dominion Coal Company at Montreal, asking that the city grant the company an extension of the lease of the wharf where the west side coal pocket is located until December 15. The telegram stated that the company had a number of steamers arriving at St. John next week with coal, and if they could not discharge at the west side their whole business here would be demoralized, and they would be unable to meet the demand for bunker coal of steamers coming to St. John.

Mr. Dick, the Montreal manager, will come to St. John on the ninth of December to see what arrangements can be made for continuing business on the west side. The application of the company for permission to use the wharf till December 15 will probably be laid before the commissioners today.

Beauty of the Skin

Cleanliness the Essential—Cheap Soaps and Powders to be Avoided

Cheap, inferior soaps and pore-clogging powders are the greatest enemies to the health and beauty of the skin. Skin powders are in reality only white dirt. They absorb the perspiration and form a sort of paste, which seals up the pores and positively stops the natural eliminating action of the skin.

To have a beautiful skin, you should use only the best of soap, and when roughness or irritation of the skin arises the application of Dr. Chase's Ointment will soon restore the natural smoothness and beauty of the skin.

The almost magical effect this ointment has in the cure of eczema, salt rheum, blackheads, pimples and all forms of itching skin eruptions is the wonder of all who use it. It acts as a food for the skin, and is consequently a beautifier of most remarkable effectiveness.

Dr. Chase's Ointment cleans out the pores of the skin and increases the natural activity of the skin as an eliminating agent. If you would have a clear, healthy, beautiful skin, Dr. Chase's Ointment will help you to realize your wish as nothing else can. 60 cents a box, all dealers.
