Maguire's tavern being the only place visited by the police in search of pikes, it is feared that these weapons have been removed from the other houses where the authorities were informed they could be found. Had a simultaneous descent been made upon the other suspected buildings it is thought the police might have secured several thousand pikes; but having been unfortunately too slow in their movemenths, information of their designs was rapidly carried off to the residences of others who are known to be equally guilty with Maguire. Other important arrests will doubtless be made this porning as the authorities are energetically operating in the right direction for effectually breaking up and forever destroying the influence in Toronto of this villainous

Terrible Condition of the Poor in New York.

The New York Times says : - The matter of improved dwellings for the labouring clas ses and the poor is attracting an attention which, it is to be hoped, will result in good. The manner in which many of the inhabi tants of the city live is revolting and seems incredible. The Citizen, in a recent num ber, says that a medical gentleman, connected with the association, visited a tenement house forty feet front, in which 134 families were living. Is it right to say living? Should it not be written that 134 families were dying beneath the roof? Can the children in this crowded house stand any chance of their lives? Another party tells of visiting a room about twelve feet square, with a bed-room attached, in which he saw thirteen individuals, all breathing the same impure and unwholesome air, while the stench from the accumulated filth in the vard below was intolerable. The family residing in the "spartments" (?) consisted of a widow with a daughter over 19 years old, and three sons, aged respectively sixteen, fourteen and eight years, and all occupying the same bed on the floor. The widow took in lodgers, and in one corner of the same in lodgers, and in one corner of the same in lodgers, and in one corner of the same in lodgers. floor lay two sisters, who paid two shillings per night for their bed, such as it was, and in another corner lay the niece of the widper night for their bed, such as it was, and ow, a married woman, while the dark room was occupied by a man, his wife, and three children. Beneath these apartments was a damp cellar, "with ground for the fleor," where about a dozen "boarders," men and women, lay like pigs in a sty, and the family who boarded them consisted of five individuals are supported by the second the support of th children. NEW ZEALAND .- The forest land is pecu liarly rich, the best proof of which is the immense vegetation which it constantly supports. In spring and summer, autumn and winter, there is no visible change in the woods; they are as beautiful in the depth of winter (which is is exceedingly mild) as in the heighth of summer. The leaf that falls is immediately replaced by another—the withered branch is supplied by the more vigorous, and there is a constant succession of luxurious vegetation.
