

MOCK TRIAL IS HELD AT ROTARY LUNCHEON

Victims Found "Not Guilty" At Bar of Justice.

"Not guilty," was the verdict at the conclusion of the "trial" of certain members of the London Rotary Club, who were charged at a special session of the club, held in the Tecumseh House today, with having been parties to a corrupt and vicious conspiracy, concocted in this city and carried out in Saginaw, Michigan, to bring into contempt, in the eyes of the American people, the Rotary Club in London, through the medium of two of their fellow members, who were altogether innocent of the frame-up, these members being Bill Yendall, the president of the club and Sergeant-at-Arms Christianson.

Rotarian T. H. Purdom, K. C. acted as judge, and Rotarian Jared Vining as crown prosecutor. Rotarian J. B. McKillop, who was to have acted for the defense, being unavoidably absent.

Evidence was heard at considerable length, the principal witnesses being the two "victims," already mentioned, and Rotarians Malcolm Davis, Billy Marston and Clarence May, and at the conclusion the judge found the defendants "not guilty."

His honor based his decision on the fact that "a silent witness" in the shape of a bottle on which evidence was produced, being unavailably absent, no running was found to be only partly, and, furthermore, that all it contained was ginger ale.

An attempt to put the whole story of the wine of the American Association Press was also unfortunately frustrated. The "trial" created unbounded merriment despite the serious nature of the indictment, and the proceedings terminated with a flourish.
