

VICTIMS OF ALCOHOL. The Identity Existing Between Insanity and Chronic Inebriety.

Americans. I touched the rusty old sword, and almost unconaciously Mr. D.vis drifted into talking of the heroes of the Merican war, of Bowle, and Houston, and Crocket. "Henry Clay once told me." said Er. Davis, with a smile, "of his first meeting with Bowle. It was in the early days, and Clay was traveling in a stage-coach where the only other passengers were a protty girl, a big rough-looking countryman, and a limp, little figure in a preat coat. I with the consciousness of his own perfect pivsique Clay said he was congruinting himself on not being the limp, little figure bundled up in the corner, when he became conscious that the protty girl was beging the rough coun-trymunct to smoke, as it made her ill. and Chronic Insbridty. What is called the jurisprudence of in-bricty is a new department of medico-legal science that offers material for entertain-ing speculation, and develops a new and interesting phase of the much-discussed liquor question. Dr. T. D. Crothers, editor of the Journal of Inebriety, has attempted to establish an identify between insanity and alcoholism of sufficiently close char-acter to warrant a radical departure from existing judicial methods in the treatment of criminals whose lawlessness is mani-fested under the influence of liquor. Enough dispotation over such criminals has co-marked rescales. pretty girl was begging the rough trym is not to smoke, as it made he The follow replied with a savage cath he had paid his fare and would smoke he d — d pleased. The insanity of the victim of drink must be assumed, and the burden of proof is on the prosecution to prove that the prisoner is same, the natural and proper as-sumption being in the opposite direction. Given facts reasonably accurate, the plain statement that a furnkard is a lunatic is its est if evidence of the kind that lawyers call statement that a drankard is a limitic is it-soil evidence of the kind that lawyres call prima facio. Nevertheics, the sontiment fosted in contradiction of this idea, and one notable instance where an alleged insbriate was hanged was died by Dr. Crothers to il-lastraie the impression, erroneous he salamed, that a criminal under alcoholic in-facence is cognizant of and responsible for his madeeds.

In December of the same year Te was tried and sentenced to be hanged a year later, April 6, 1880. The Legislature was appealed to to commute his sontone to life imprisonment. The Judi-ciary Committee made an exhaustive ec-sministion of all exidence and new testimo-ny offsred, and reported in favor of commu-tation. Both houses of the Legislature voted to sustain the report, and commu-ties of public sentiment caused the Governor to veto the action of the Legisla-ture, and as influenced the members of one holy that they failed to sustain their former yob.
