

YUKON JACK ATTACK #5.

The Walrus Bite.

Temper 1/2 ounce Tequila with orange juice over ice. Fire in 1 ounce Yukon Jack to give the Walrus its bite. And you thought Walruses didn't have teeth, (tusk, tusk, tusk). Inspired in the wild, midst the damnable cold, this, the black sheep of Canadian liquors, is Yukon Jack.

why President MacKay had not objected publicly to last year's inadequate funding recommendations by the Maritimes Provinces Higher Education Commission. Shaw replied that the President has preferred "not to swing out publicly" on the question of funding. MacKay uses personal one-on-one discussions with the education minister and other government officials, he said.

"I will not apologize for the President's dealings with the government," added Shaw.

"It's just terrible," said Steve. "Catastrophic," noted Pat shaking his head. "I feel like I'm living back in Toronto," wailed Greg. The reason for all this consternation was that the Gazette's intermural volleyball team had lost its first game of the season. What's worse, the loss had come at the hands of a team call the "Sociology Wildcats". "We have to do something" said Lori. "Perhaps a new coach," suggested Rick. "Good idea" said Cathy. "what's Vince Lombardi doing these days?" "He's dead" explained Llewellyn. "What about new uniforms?" asked Heather. "Great," yelled Gretchen. "Something along the lines of the Vancouver Canucks perhaps". "No no" said Chris setting up a blackboard, "what we need is quicker sets when attacking and more aggressive defense". "What the hell is he talking about" asked Maura? "I don't know," said Paul, "but there's sure a lot of cars over in the parking lot". Finally, the meeting broke down over whether to hire a Japanese coach or employ the Hungarian "quick kill" method of attacking. Ken suggested that the meeting would be more fruitful if we adjourned to the Greenwood. This was unanimously agreed upon and the Gazetters happily trooped out the door. "Things are bound to get better," said Bruce on his way out. "I don't know," said Mary-Lou reaching for the light switch, "next week we play Philosophy". "Oh-oh". Click.
