
HEROINES OF CANADIAN HISTORY

when the call came to them to sacrifice their loved ones, and what was esteemed of less value by them, their own lives, for the country they loved so well.

THE LOYALISTS

BY SARAH ANN CURZON.

O ye who with your blood and sweat
Watered the furrows of this land,
See where upon a nation's brow,
In honor's front, ye proudly stand!

Who for her pride abused your own,
And gladly on her altar laid
All bounty of the older world,
All memories that your glory made,

And to her service bowed your strength,
Took labor for your shield and crest,
See where upon a nation's brow
Her diadem you proudly rest!
