Upon this passage of Holy Scripture the following valuable comment has been made:—

"Protestants do not recognize the distinction with which we are so familiar between mortal and venial sins, neither do they believe in the existence of any place of temporary probation where these smaller daily transgressions may be punished, and yet the doers of them be eventually "saved;" and under these circumstances, the language of St. Paul in this place becomes a real difficulty to them. . . . To a Catholic, on the other hand, it conveys precisely the same doctrine which he has been always taught from his infancy, it harmonizes with all that he has ever heard and learned and believed about a purgation by fire after death, whereby satisfaction is made to God for sins not sufficiently explated during life."

By prayers, by almsdeeds, by Masses offered, we can greatly assist these suffering souls to pay their debt to our offended God. Let us, then, do all that lies in our power to aid our beloved dead.—Sacred Heart Review.

A Deserved Honor

Rev. Father Valentin, whose duties are principally at St. Joseph's Hospital, this city, was on Thursday last made the recipient of a valuable present and an illuminated address by the nursing staff. In the address reference was made in a touching manner to the great kindness and untiring energy of Father Valentin in ministering to their spiritual and temporal wants. This makes the fifth occasion on which the Rev. Father has been similarly honored. He thanked the great the second of t fifth occasion on which the Rev. Father has been similarly honored. He thanked the young ladies in a neat and appropriate speech. The happy evening was brought to a close by a choice musical entertainment. It is needless to say that the Reverend Mother and the Sisters of St. Joseph appreciated most highly this honor paid to their beloved chaplain.
