Nature's Poison Gas.

The seaside air does us good because of the ozone in it. Ozone purifies our lungs. We need it to put us back into "working order." In other words, we require an attack of poison gas to make us fit for pure ozone is a gas of deadly poison. But it doesn't injure us because of the fact that there is never very much of it in the air.

Some persons cannot stand the sea air at all. It is too "strong" for them, and they are on the sicklist during their stay at the seaside. This is because they cannot stand the ozone.

Ozone is concentrated oxygen. You get a whiff of ozone after a thunderstorm owing to the electric discharges through the oxygen of the air. Sea air is richer in ozone than is country air, for ozone is generated largely by the vibration of the waves.

Seaside air has just sufficient ozone gently to irritate the lungs. This quickens the flow of the blood. Thus the poisons in the ozone are really tonics.

CAPT. KIDD WAS NO PIRATE. Boston, (Associated Press)—Sons and story are wrong. Captain Kidd was not a pirate and his fabled treasure does not exist. Privateer he was, but of good repute. His hanging as a pirate and murderer on Execution Dock at London in 1701 was to satisfy the political exigencies of the time.

These are the findings of John H. Edmonds, state archivist for Massachusetts, as announced in a lecture at the Old South Meeting house. Archivist Edmonds was discussing "Lord Bellomont and the Pirates."

Bellomont, he said, was appointed governor of New England in 1695 with a special mission to suppress piracy.

"Before leaving England," Mr. Edmonds contended, "he agreed with Captain William Kidd, a privateer of good repute from New York, to proceed against pirates in a ship called the Adventure Galley, on a 'no-capture-no-pay' basis. The adventures included Captain Kidd, Robert Livingston, Lord Chancellor Somers, the Earl of Orford, (First Lord of the Admiralty) the Earl of Romney and the Duke of Shrewsbury (Secretaries of State). Bellomont and the straw men, to whom the king's grant of treasure was later made, did not contribute a cent."

"On September 6, 1696, with a 'crazy' vessel and a crazier crew Captain Kidd proceeded on his mission," the archivist said. He picked up several pirates including "a Moorish ship of 200 tons and a Bengal merchantman of 500 tons, both having French passes and being lawful prizes."

He came to New York and then to Boston "through the trickery of Bellomont, who promised him safe conduct. With the remnant of his crew he was arrested, sent to England, tried for murder and piracy, convicted and hung on Execution Dock, Friday, May 23, 1701, to satisfy the political exigencies of the times. It was either Lord Bellomont, the Lord Chancellor, the First Lord of the Admiralty, the Secretaries of State or Captain Kidd, and under this circumstance he had no chance. Collusion and perjury are plainly evident in his trial; the French passes which would have cleared him of the piracy charge, though produced in Parliament, were suppressed in the Admiralty Court. The least said about Bellomont's action in the matter the better. He fooled Kidd, he fooled his council, and worst of it is, he allowed it in his letters to the Lords of Trade."

"The Captain Kidd of to-day is a composite pirate made up of all who frequented our shores from 1637 to 1837. Propaganda of the worst kind blackened the reputation of a man of whom a recognized French authority says: 'It may be well doubted whether any man in equally trying circumstances has ever been truer to his trust.'"

"And yet the great American public persists in calling Captain Kidd a pirate and in searching for his treasure, which does not exist."

A Strong-room of Kings

The most jealously guarded apartment in England is that known as the Chapel of the Pyx.

The vault is only accessible through double doors, opened by no fewer than six keys; and permission to enter requires the signature of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Financial Secretary to the Treasury and the Comptroller of the Exchequer.

Once the Treasury of the Kings of England, this immensely strong underground chamber was used up till the year 1904 for the safe keeping of the gold and silver standards used every five years by the Mint authorities.

Towards the close of that year, however, these standards were transferred, together with other valuables, to the Royal Mint on Tower Hill, and the vault now holds little or nothing to tempt an enterprising burglar.

Just Folks
Life is not strife for gold
Nor medalled fame,
Its years in joys are told—
The hearth fire's flame,
The roses nodding in the sun,
The children's happy feet,
Some little duty done,
A pleasant rest.

The notes the lover sends,
Old memories,
Neighbors and sunny skies,
And little trips to make,
Tears when a loved one dies
And hearts that ache.

Life is a sum of things,
Laughter and cherry days,
Hope which the morning brings,
The future's rosy ways,
Faith when the clouds are gray,
Grief when the shadow's fall;
So we must go our way
Knowing them all.

Life is no narrow span
Plunged twist a goal,
It is a mighty plan
Shaping the soul;
All that the heart can see,
All that the heart can feel,
All that can ever be,
Turns on life's wheel.

Household Notes.

To test cantaloupes for ripeness, press the end firmly with fingers, and if it yields easily the melon is usually ripe.

Small pieces of melon pulp are excellent marinated in French dressing and served on crisp salad. Serve very cold.

If water is left on vegetables after they are cooked, they will become soggy and unpalatable. Drain them immediately.

The rind of the cucumber may be used in summer beverages. It gives an unusual flavor and in a tall glass is very attractive.

If mayonnaise curdles, put a drop of ice-cold water in a very cold bowl and beat the mixture slowly till little by little.

Pastry puffs are delicious filled with vanilla ice cream and served with sauce of fresh strawberries and whipped cream.

If your cake frosting is too hard, hold nuts and raisins, put a little of it, beat it, dip each raisin in it and stick on the cake.

B. I. S. WEEKLY OUTING. Every Thursday during summer, commencing July 7th, special train leaves St. John's at 7.30 p.m., returning leaves Donovan's at 11.30 p.m. Tickets including train fare and dancing 75 cents each. Refreshments extra at Donovan's.—July 13, 1921.
