

London Advertiser

TWO EDITIONS DAILY . . . WEEKLY

Daily, One Year.....$3 00
 Daily, Six Months.....$1 75
 Daily, Three Months.....$1 00
 Daily, One Month.....$1 25

The London Advertiser will be delivered to any residence or place of business in London without extra charge. Published at Advertiser New Building, 191-193 Dundas street.

Daily, One Year, by mail.....$1 50
 The Western Advertiser, published every Wednesday. Subscription price, 75 cents per year.
 Sample Copies of Daily and Weekly sent Free.

TELEPHONE CALLS.
 Business Office.....107
 Editorial Department.....134
 Job Department.....175
 A complete Job Printing Plant. New Type and New Presses.
 LONDON ADVERTISER CO. (Limited).

London, Wednesday, April 1.

No Gerrymander.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday brought down the redistribution bill, minus the details, which are to be arranged by a committee of the House chosen from both parties. The Premier's announcement comes as a surprise, as it was generally supposed the Government had fixed the boundaries of the constituencies unalterably. Instead of that, it has followed the British practice, unprecedented in Canada, of consulting the Opposition. This is heaping coals of fire on the head of the Conservative party with a vengeance. The leader of the Opposition was startled into confessing that the measure were the appearance of fairness, though he qualified this by saying that in the end the fairness might not be so real as suggested. It was open to the Government to ignore the Opposition, as its predecessors had done, but it has shown an almost quixotic desire to be just and to avoid the semblance of abusing its power to take an unfair party advantage. The redistribution is forced upon the administration by the census returns. The population of the Province of Quebec being 1,648,898, and its representation being limited under all circumstances to 65 members, it follows that the representation of the Province of Quebec in the House of Commons is in the proportion of 25,367 for one member. By the terms of Confederation Quebec supplies the unit of representation for the Dominion. A simple calculation in arithmetic shows that Ontario, with a population of 2,182,947, will have 36 members, a loss of six since the last census. Prince Edward's representation is reduced from 5 to 4, Nova Scotia from 20 to 18, and New Brunswick from 14 to 13. Manitoba's rapid increase in population has given it 10 members instead of 7, and British Columbia gets 7 instead of 6. The Northwest Territories are not bound by the same law and will be given 10 members, an increase of 6, in anticipation of an extraordinary growth of population before the next census.

In apportioning this representation among the Provinces Parliament has no discretion. It is the servant of the constitution. The Maritime Provinces have objected to the reduction of their representation, but the only alternative is the violation of the federal compact. As the Premier pointed out, the power of Parliament in the redistribution is confined to the creation of the constituencies. This power was used in 1882 to inflict a great wrong on the Liberal party in Ontario, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier can be pardoned if he invited a comparison between that measure and the one now before the House. The latter aims to undo an evil, not to commit one. The guiding principle will be the preservation of county boundaries, for which the Liberal party has always contended. The municipal representation will be the basis of the parliamentary representation. In keeping to county lines the unit of representation cannot be exactly followed, but it was not strictly regarded under the gerrymander act of 1882. There are some counties which cannot have more than one member, some are entitled to two or three, and a few are too small for even one. In the latter case counties will have to be united, but municipalities will not be wrenched from their old associations as before. It has been calculated that the delimitation of constituencies by county boundaries can be affected without departing from the unit of representation to any greater degree than at present. In fixing the township boundaries which divide two or more ridings in the same county, there would be opportunities to score a party advantage, but the Government has resisted the temptation. Sir Wilfrid Laurier pointed out that in the last redistribution in England in 1884, Mr. Gladstone invited the leader of the Opposition, Lord Salisbury, to meet with him and discuss the details. In 1892 the Liberal party in the Canadian House of Commons proposed the same methods, but was voted down. The Liberal party in power intends to abide by the principle it laid down in Opposition and allow the readjustment of the constituencies to be made by a special committee consisting of four Liberals and three Conservatives.

Every Liberal should welcome a measure which, if it deprives the Government of a chance to handicap its opponents, shows a regard for principle and sets a precedent which no future administration will dare to depart from.

The Legislature.

The Legislature yesterday adjourned for three weeks, to await the outcome of the Gamey-Stratton investigation. The Premier took the ground that the Government should not conduct legislation until they were proved worthy of the confidence of the country. It would be inconvenient also for ministers and members to give proper attention to business while the investigation was in progress. Mr. Whitney opposed the adjournment, and professed to see in it an attempt to muzzle the House, which should be "ready for any contingency that might come up in the taking of evidence." The Premier's course seems the reasonable one. The members will be absorbed by the proceedings before the commission, and they would be in no mood for the painstaking transaction of public business. The argument advanced by Mr. Whitney for remaining in session is the strongest argument given from day to day before the commission would be variously interpreted by members of the House, and would be continually dragged into the debates to darken counsel. The House will reassemble three weeks hence, with the facts as disclosed by the commission fully before it, and it will then be in a position to judge whether the Government is worthy to carry on the affairs of the Province or not.

Laurier will win a few seats by his redistribution bill without losing public respect.

The member for East York is still hounding Sir Oliver Mowat for the crime of old age.

The map of Ontario for Dominion purposes will look less like a crazy quilt when Parliament gets through with it.

Western Canada will have 28 seats in the House of Commons after the next general election. A united west could hold the balance of power.

Under the new redistribution bill the little portions of Lambton and Huron that have strayed into West and North Middlesex may go back home.

The London Times is now in daily receipt of Marconiograms from America. Some day this country may rise to the high plane of wireless politics.

Although assured by the other members of the family of nations that he is going to the dogs, John Bull's foreign trade and revenue last year were the greatest on record. With his usual stubbornness he doesn't know when he's beaten.

There is no denying the fact that money is becoming increasingly tight in Canada and the United States. The slump in stocks is directly attributable to it, and many enterprises are being crippled for lack of bank accommodation. The money in this country is fully employed and there is very little margin for an expansion of the note circulation. In financial circles there is some uneasiness. Can it be that the country will suffer from too much prosperity?

A considerable number of Canadians who joined the South African Constabulary have returned home disgusted with their treatment by British officers. The latter may not be wholly to blame, but differences of temperament, training and social outlook cannot be reconciled by the talisman of a common flag. This is one of the dangers of imperialism in the sense of organic union—that closer contact may develop friction.

Schemes for the federation of the Empire, military, political or commercial, may not strengthen the sentiment which is the only tie that can bind. The less organization, the better, perhaps. The present system has worked well, and the extension of colonial autonomy would appear to be the safest plan.

News Notes.

(Edwin L. Sablin, in April St. Nicholas.)
 We're pleased to state that Mr. Wren and wife are back, and at the Eaves.
 The Robins occupy again their summer home at Maple Leaves.
 The Gardens Restaurant reports a fresh supply of goldfish.
 The Elms—that favorite of resorts—has bought to rent of easy terms.
 We learn that Mrs. Early Bee is still quite lame with frosted wings.
 Ye Editor thanks Cherry Tree for sundry floral offerings.
 Down Clatsworth a waterspout has been a source of active floods.
 We hear of rumored comings out of "some of Springfield's" choicest birds.
 In case you run across Green Lawn, don't wonder why he looks so queer. 'Tis only that he's undergone His first short hair-cut of the year.

Jr. Reasonable.

[Life.]
 Monument Man—What shall I put on my husband's tombstone, madam?
 Distracted Widow—Oh, say that he was my husband, and that he is happy now.

Sir Hector Macdonald.

[Gertrude M. Truman, Hamilton.]
 It was felt in the howling winds that it crossed the wild mountains;
 It was heard in the air—that doleful requiem,
 The dirge of Glenoe, with its groaning and wailing,
 'Twas to mingle with tears that in secret eyes now gleam.

Weep o'er thy idol, it is shattered and broken;
 Bring us the fragments, it is all we crave;
 We seek not the laurel, we dispense with the honors—
 Give us but his cold clay to lay in the grave.

No one shall ever know how deeply we're wounded;
 The scars shall be hidden with caution and care,
 And ends shall be met when the skirmish is over
 By men who can reason, fight, do, die or dare.
 Vestigia nulla Retrosunt.

Latest Song in Mount Morris.

[Mount Morris Index.]
 Joe Mayer and wife now sing that popular song, "She's My Annie, My Joe," on their new piano, purchased of C. F. Zoller. It is a fine one.

Laurier's Coals of Fire.

[Springfield Republican.]
 Premier Laurier's remarks on the Alaskan boundary judges selected by

try. It would be inconvenient also for ministers and members to give proper attention to business while the investigation was in progress. Mr. Whitney opposed the adjournment, and professed to see in it an attempt to muzzle the House, which should be "ready for any contingency that might come up in the taking of evidence." The Premier's course seems the reasonable one. The members will be absorbed by the proceedings before the commission, and they would be in no mood for the painstaking transaction of public business. The argument advanced by Mr. Whitney for remaining in session is the strongest argument given from day to day before the commission would be variously interpreted by members of the House, and would be continually dragged into the debates to darken counsel. The House will reassemble three weeks hence, with the facts as disclosed by the commission fully before it, and it will then be in a position to judge whether the Government is worthy to carry on the affairs of the Province or not.

A Woman's Forté.

[Detroit Free Press.]
 She—This book says there are 20,000 moles in an elephant's trunk.
 He—Then it must have been packed by a woman.

A Regular Mine.

[Life.]
 First M. D.—What a lot of things have been found in the verminiform appendix!
 Second M. D.—And look at the money that has been taken out of it!

A Valuable Hog.

[Toronto Star.]
 This country owes a great deal of its prosperity to the Canadian hog, which, reduced to bacon, is in much demand abroad. The trade amounts up into millions and is rapidly increasing.
 But now the native hog appears in a new role. Isaac Gunnell, of Kaladar, killed a pig last week and found in its throat a $200 gold nugget. People are saying today that where a pig can find such a nugget, a man with some experience in gold prospecting should be able to find a mine, and many busy hands are at work hunting the records to see where Kaladar is. Some persons are recalling the fact that one of the richest finds of gold made in Australia was brought about through a stone being picked up as a missile and thrown at a steep.
 The stone was so heavy for its size, and proved to be so odd a stone, that the man carried it home and found it to be a valuable gold nugget, and so the stone located more of the precious metal.
 It may be taken for granted that the ground over which the Kaladar pig pursued its way will be thoroughly searched by people from far and near.

TRANSPORTATION COMMISSIONERS

Sir Wm. Van Horne, Mr. Bert-ram and Mr. Kennedy.

MEN OF GREAT EXPERIENCE

It is Reported That Mr. J. X. Per-rault and Mr. Bell Will Be Secretaries.

Ottawa, April 1.—Hon. Raymond Prefontaine's announcement that Sir William Van Horne, Montreal, Mr. John Peterman, Toronto, and Mr. Harold Kennedy, Quebec, would constitute the transportation commission is confirmed. Sir William Van Horne is, of course, a man of wide experience and sound practical knowledge. He is entitled to rank as one of the foremost authorities in Canada upon railway and transportation matters. In his public utterances he has taken the stand that there is a great need of improvement in our facilities for handling trade, and has referred particularly to the imperative necessity of "enlarging the spout" of our transportation routes. This is regarded as an epigrammatic way of stating that greater terminal facilities are needed at Montreal or Quebec.
 Peterman will represent the lake marine and shipping interests on the commission. His ultimate knowledge of the needs of our lake commerce and of the remedies to be applied will simply be invaluable. As a practical business man, he will be of great service. Mr. Harold Kennedy, of Quebec, is a young man of 35, who, however, has large business interests in that city. He has been specially identified with the Atlantic steamship business, and is regarded as an authority on ocean marine. He was appointed a member of the Quebec Harbor Commission in 1896, and is one of the younger men who have been endeavoring most assiduously to build up Quebec.
 According to report, Mr. J. X. Per-rault, of Montreal, and Mr. Bell, of Winnipeg, will be secretaries of the commission.

Disorders in Spain.

Madrid, April 1.—The Catalan party at Barcelona has issued a menacing manifesto against the Government, which has produced an extraordinary sensation. The manifesto is signed by Valencia, where the chief of police has been dismissed.
 The man who started to run a race in chains and fetters would be visibly handicapped. No one would expect him to succeed. The man who runs the race of life when his digestive and nutritive organs are diseased is equally handicapped. In the one case his strength is over-weighted, in the other it is under-weighted. Success demands above all else a sound stomach.
 Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. When this is done food is perfectly digested, and the body receives strength in the only way in which strength can be given—by the nutrition derived from digested and assimilated food.

The prize I would like to give your "Golden Medical Discovery" card after in words or describe with pen," writes James B. Ambrose, Esq., of 124 1/2 Milford Street, Boston, Mass. "I was taken with a bad cold, and I was told to write to you and you sent me a question blank to fill out, and I did so, and you then advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took three bottles and I felt so good that I stopped being cured. I have no symptoms of gastric trouble or indigestion now."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good."
 Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, sent free on receipt of stamps to cover expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

President Roosevelt was unexceptionable, and, above all, diplomatic. He thought, that at least the British judges should be "impartial jurists of repute," and "the best to be found in the empire." Somehow this reminds you of the old saying about coals of fire.

President Roosevelt was unexceptionable, and, above all, diplomatic. He thought, that at least the British judges should be "impartial jurists of repute," and "the best to be found in the empire." Somehow this reminds you of the old saying about coals of fire.

President Roosevelt was unexceptionable, and, above all, diplomatic. He thought, that at least the British judges should be "impartial jurists of repute," and "the best to be found in the empire." Somehow this reminds you of the old saying about coals of fire.

Quinine as a Cure for Colds

A Dangerous Habit Which Does Incalculable Harm to the Nerves and Poisons the System—Symptoms of Quinine Poisoning.

"Don't take it," is the advice of a noted physician who has seen the ill-effects of the quinine habit. "Incalculable harm is done to the nervous system in this way. Ringing in the ears, specks before the eyes, headaches, dizziness, furred tongue, tendency to biliousness, irritability, sleeplessness—these are the symptoms of quinine poisoning. So many people are afflicted in this way that doctors have given this form of poisoning a specific name—cinchonism."

It pays, after all, to stand by the remedies of proven merit, and not to danger life and health by using poisonous drugs that are bound to harm the system. Though powerful in action, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is compounded from ingredients which have no harmful after effects, and can be used with absolute safety, both by children and persons in most delicate health.

The reputation which Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has made for itself as a cure for asthma, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and all coughs, colds and throat and lung troubles places it in the very front rank. As a matter of fact the sales of this preparation are more than triple that of any similar preparation. The reason for this is attributed to the fact that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is far more far-reaching in effects, and cures the ailment itself as well as the symptoms. As there are many imitations of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, insist on the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase on the bottle you buy; 25 cents a bottle. Family size—three times as much—50 cents. At all druggists, or Edmansons, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC MEASURE

Features of the Bill Before the House.

MEN OF GREAT EXPERIENCE

Will Be Capitalized for Seventy Five Million—Ask Navigation Powers.

Ottawa, April 1.—The Grand Trunk Pacific bill was introduced yesterday afternoon by Mr. Logan, in the absence of Mr. Leighton McCarthy, who was named as its sponsor, and received its first reading. The bill provided that the capital stock shall be $75,000,000, divided in whole or in part into shares of $100 each, or $20 sterling, as determined by the bylaws of the company. The bill was advanced in favor of the resolution, or one solitary grievance under which the Irish suffered. He was opposed to giving Ireland any more power than she had already. It would have been better for Canada if she had never had federal union, but greater powers for the provinces, he said. It was no credit to Canada to have a Canadian elected for Galway at the present juncture.
 Mr. Wright (South Renfrew) supported the resolution.
 Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the timeliness of the resolution must have engaged the attention of Mr. Costigan. He himself believed that the solution of the Irish question would be a boon to Canada and Australia and all other parts of the empire. Canada in 1882 had been told, in reply to a home rule resolution, that she would be better employed in dealing with matters over which she had jurisdiction. But times had moved, and now Canada could offer opinions on imperial and domestic concerns. In 1900 a resolution was passed endorsing the British policy in South Africa in seeking to secure the rights of the Uitlanders in South Africa. That motion was approved of and gratefully accepted by the British Government. Surely Canada might with greater propriety adopt a resolution dealing with the only disturbed part of the British Empire, whose disaffection was due to the lack of self-government. What had made Canada a loyal would make Ireland loyal. At the bottom of the trouble was distrust by the British people of the results of the resolution, however, that some of the Irish leaders had acted wisely. If there was any way to make men loyal it was to give them liberty and to trust them. There should not be a limited policy on this question. He would tell the British Government if he were a member of the Imperial Parliament that while they had done much and made many sacrifices in Ireland by a piecemeal method, you must go further, you must appeal to the heart of a highly imaginative and impulsive people. He declared in his heart that if this question was to be solved it was by giving this people the liberty we have in Canada, with a provincial parliament on College Green, and then, instead of being a thorn in the flesh, Ireland would be a power and a strength to England. (Cheers.)
 Mr. R. L. Borden thought the occasion for the introduction of this subject was not the happiest, and that the terms in which it was couched might have been better chosen. While he desired to see a measure of relief for Ireland, the resolution was not suited to the occasion. He quoted the last item of the resolution, contending that it was not pertinent. The resolution looked to the bringing in of a resolution, already brought into the British House. He thought Mr. Charlton's speech very well worthy of consideration. He doubted if in the past the redress of any Irish grievance had been greatly aided by the interference of the Canadian House of Commons. Mr. Borden said the Northwest Territories were demanding, and had been for two years, precisely the same measure of home rule which they were advocating for Ireland. He thought they might spend better time in considering their claims than those of Ireland. A great measure had been introduced, and they all joined in hoping with their fellow-subjects across the Atlantic, that the measure would pass and would accomplish all that was looked for from it. Sir Wilfrid had said he believed Ireland would be loyal. He said Ireland had been and is loyal. He believed the present attitude of the British Government was due to the personal influence of our Most Gracious Sovereign. The feeling of that influence, he believed, then the tie between Ireland and the empire, would make Ireland not only loyal, but the most loyal portion of the empire. In the hope that this may strengthen in another column the hands of those who had brought forth this measure he intended to vote for the resolution. (Cheers.)

Mr. Sherratt and Mr. Reid followed the speaker's motion.
 Mr. Fitzpatrick, in an eloquent and impassioned speech, made an earnest appeal for the passage of the resolution.
 E. F. Clarke followed, strongly opposing the resolution.
 Mr. Ingram closed the debate at 6 o'clock. The division resulted in the passage of the resolution by 102 yeas to 41 nays—61 majority.
 Sir Frederick Borden will move his bill to amend the militia pension bill on Thursday next.

MADE HIM SIT UP

Wm. Doeg's Terrible Sufferings Permanently Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Sundridge, Ont., March 30.—Two years ago all Sundridge rang with the wonderful cure of William Doeg. For years he suffered ceaseless pain. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him and now strong and healthy he often recalls those days of agony and eulogizes the remedy that caused his cure.
 "The trouble commenced in my back," Mr. Doeg says, "and so intense was the pain that I could not lie down to take a rest, but had to sit night and day in a chair.
 "Doctors treated me for Rheumatism with no benefit and I was almost in despair when I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. I soon found they were doing me good and I kept on till I was entirely cured. And better than all, I have had no return of the trouble."

In Valparaiso all the conductors on trolley cars are women.
 Monkey Brand Soap cleans kitchen utensils, steel, iron and tinware, knives and forks, and all kinds of cutlery.

The fellow who complains that he never has a ghost of a show might consult a spiritualistic medium.
 "Sew-Sew" is the name of a ladies' club in Glasgow, Scotland.

To Cure Grip in 2 Days
 Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets
 on every box. 25c

Millinery Opening

AT KINGSMILL'S

Thursday, Friday, Saturday,
 April 2nd, 3rd, 4th.

OUR NEW WAREHOUSE
 GETTING INTO ORDER.

Sixty Packages European Goods Opened Out and Passed Into Stock.

ADMITTED—A LITTLE LATE.
 REMEMBER, ALL THE NEWER STYLES

Kingsmill's

A HOME RULE RESOLUTION IS DEBATED IN PARLIAMENT

(Continued from page 1.)
 It could be given to South Africa, why not to Ireland?
 Mr. Kemp opposed the resolution, and condemned the move as insincere. He charged the opponents of the resolution with insincerity.
 Mr. Hughes had failed to hear one argument advanced in favor of the resolution, or one solitary grievance under which the Irish suffered. He was opposed to giving Ireland any more power than she had already. It would have been better for Canada if she had never had federal union, but greater powers for the provinces, he said. It was no credit to Canada to have a Canadian elected for Galway at the present juncture.
 Mr. Wright (South Renfrew) supported the resolution.
 Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the timeliness of the resolution must have engaged the attention of Mr. Costigan. He himself believed that the solution of the Irish question would be a boon to Canada and Australia and all other parts of the empire. Canada in 1882 had been told, in reply to a home rule resolution, that she would be better employed in dealing with matters over which she had jurisdiction. But times had moved, and now Canada could offer opinions on imperial and domestic concerns. In 1900 a resolution was passed endorsing the British policy in South Africa in seeking to secure the rights of the Uitlanders in South Africa. That motion was approved of and gratefully accepted by the British Government. Surely Canada might with greater propriety adopt a resolution dealing with the only disturbed part of the British Empire, whose disaffection was due to the lack of self-government. What had made Canada a loyal would make Ireland loyal. At the bottom of the trouble was distrust by the British people of the results of the resolution, however, that some of the Irish leaders had acted wisely. If there was any way to make men loyal it was to give them liberty and to trust them. There should not be a limited policy on this question. He would tell the British Government if he were a member of the Imperial Parliament that while they had done much and made many sacrifices in Ireland by a piecemeal method, you must go further, you must appeal to the heart of a highly imaginative and impulsive people. He declared in his heart that if this question was to be solved it was by giving this people the liberty we have in Canada, with a provincial parliament on College Green, and then, instead of being a thorn in the flesh, Ireland would be a power and a strength to England. (Cheers.)
 Mr. R. L. Borden thought the occasion for the introduction of this subject was not the happiest, and that the terms in which it was couched might have been better chosen. While he desired to see a measure of relief for Ireland, the resolution was not suited to the occasion. He quoted the last item of the resolution, contending that it was not pertinent. The resolution looked to the bringing in of a resolution, already brought into the British House. He thought Mr. Charlton's speech very well worthy of consideration. He doubted if in the past the redress of any Irish grievance had been greatly aided by the interference of the Canadian House of Commons. Mr. Borden said the Northwest Territories were demanding, and had been for two years, precisely the same measure of home rule which they were advocating for Ireland. He thought they might spend better time in considering their claims than those of Ireland. A great measure had been introduced, and they all joined in hoping with their fellow-subjects across the Atlantic, that the measure would pass and would accomplish all that was looked for from it. Sir Wilfrid had said he believed Ireland would be loyal. He said Ireland had been and is loyal. He believed the present attitude of the British Government was due to the personal influence of our Most Gracious Sovereign. The feeling of that influence, he believed, then the tie between Ireland and the empire, would make Ireland not only loyal, but the most loyal portion of the empire. In the hope that this may strengthen in another column the hands of those who had brought forth this measure he intended to vote for the resolution. (Cheers.)

 Mr. Sherratt and Mr. Reid followed the speaker's motion.
 Mr. Fitzpatrick, in an eloquent and impassioned speech, made an earnest appeal for the passage of the resolution.
 E. F. Clarke followed, strongly opposing the resolution.
 Mr. Ingram closed the debate at 6 o'clock. The division resulted in the passage of the resolution by 102 yeas to 41 nays—61 majority.
 Sir Frederick Borden will move his bill to amend the militia pension bill on Thursday next.

When the collection plate is passed some people don't give up any more during Lent than at other times.

A COUGH, COLD OR SORE Throat requires immediate attention, as neglect oftentimes results in some incurable Lung Disease. BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES are a simple remedy, containing nothing injurious, and will give immediate relief.

The beauty about diplomacy is that it enables both sides to claim a victory.

Some Results of Impure Blood.
 A blotched, pimply, disfigured face, feeling of exhaustion, wracked nerves, headache and a dull brain. The proper cure is one Ferrozone Tablet after each meal. It purifies the blood, restores the complexion by making rich, pure blood. It restores the enfeebled brain and unstrung nerves to a healthy, vigorous condition. It invigorates all the physical and mental powers, and brings strength and ambition to the depressed. Refuse a substitute for Ferrozone—it's the best tonic, re-builder and invigorator known. Price, 50c, at druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The unexpected seldom happens to the people who are always looking for it.

TO PREVENT IS BETTER THAN TO REPAIR.—A little medicine in the shape of the wonderful pills which are known as Parnele's Vegetable Pills administered at the proper time and with the directions adhered to, often prevent a serious attack of sickness and save money which would go to the doctor. In all irregularities of the digestive organs they are an invaluable corrective, and by cleansing the blood they clear the skin of imperfections.

Parnele's Vegetable Pills
 on every box. 25c