With these strains of hard, wiry, thorough ly acclimated natural trotters to gross with imported specimens of the more artificially developed fashionable families, Mr. Wiscr cannot fail in the long run to do better than those who, year after year, continue inbreeding for the sake of fashionable pedigrees. Animals of the strains already mentioned are all natural trotters, and some of them have been very speedy, and it would indeed be surprising if they would not cross well with fashionable imported sires.

In the lot of running horses started the speedy little filly Lady D'Arcy is especially worthy of notice, but the coming to the front of one good Province-bred in two years does not speak vershighly for the success of our breeders of running horses.
