

CIDA 6

Food aid: Canadian food aid serves both humanitarian and developmental objectives. It is provided to meet emergency situations, and serves as a development tool, contributing to the progress of developing countries and improving the nutritional status of their people. Inquiries: Ottawa/Hull (819) 997-5006 (Public Inquiries Centre).

CIDA 7

International organizations: Through its multilateral aid program, Canada, together with other donor countries, supports the work of international development organizations. CIDA contributes to the United Nations agencies, to financial institutions such as the regional development banks and to other organizations involved in development and research. Inquiries: Ottawa/Hull (819) 997-5006 (Public Inquiries Centre).

CIDA 8

International humanitarian assistance: To alleviate suffering caused by natural or man-made disasters, CIDA supports international institutions and non-governmental organizations that provide efficient and effective delivery of assistance. As well, the program supports disaster preparedness activities of international organizations. Inquiries: Ottawa/Hull (819) 997-5006 (Public Inquiries Centre).

CIDA 9

Participation of Canadian business in government-to-government assistance program: CIDA establishes and develops working relationships with Canadian industry and calls on its expertise and products to implement development projects. Inquiries: Ottawa/Hull (819) 997-7775 (Consultant and Industrial Relations Division) or 997-5006 (Public Inquiries Centre).

Contact

Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA)

Place du Centre
200 Promenade du Portage
Hull, Québec
(Mail: Ottawa, Ontario K1A 0G4)

Information: Ottawa/Hull (819) 997-5006 (Public Inquiries Centre) 997-5456 (Reception).