railed the corn market today, but not until prices had gone to the lowest level of the season to date. The finish was nervous, 3-8c to 7-8c above last night. Wheat closed with a gain of a shade, oats 1-2c to 3-4c up and provisions at 5c to 25c advance.

Heaviest trading centred in corn. A huge line supposed to have been held huge line supposed to have been held by eastern speculators who bought during the drought last summer was thrown into the pit this morning and precipitated lively short selling on the part of floor traders over-confident that the bear side would remain in complete control. It was at this juncture, however, that the news arrived from Buenos Ayres that the Argentine corn crop was late two weeks or more owing to frost.

The five fundamental provisions of administration in the anti-trust bill, as framed by the sub-committee of the house of congress judiciary commission, which will be introduced next week, will follow ideas of the president as outlined in conference with members of the house committee. The chief provisions of bill, which later, may be whipped into one composite measure, are as follows:

The theory that guilt is personal, and that trust magnates shall be submitted to fine and imprisonment, will be written into Sherman law. The bill will contain drastic provisions prohibiting price fixths in restraint of trade. The bill will require that no restraint of trade shall be deemed reasonable. There also will be a definition of what constitutes a restraint of trade.

Interlocking directorates between banks, railroads and industrial corporations will be absolutely prohibited. The law will be made especially drastic concerning the directorate of banks and railroads, and no banker will be permitted to be a railroad director, and no railroad director will be allowed to be a director of a bank allowed to be a director of a bank The "interlocking directorates" provision will go further, and will pro-yide that a director of an industrial concern cannot be a director in a competing industrial concern. Railroads will be divorced from con-trol or ownership of manufacturing and other establishments, whose out-put is a commodity transported by the non carrier. These provisions leave intact the These provisions leave intact the Sherman law as it now stands, and are supplementary thereto.

The house committee is said to be opposed to idea of creation of an industrial trade commission to fix prices of manufactured articles, but believes situation may be relieved by breaking up monopolles in other ways.

The Multitudes Made Happy

Marvelous Distribution of

Conducted by The

TORONTO WORLD

If this country of ours should ever again be plunged into war---and we hope we can always say "if"? -but IF it should---then how the war songs in "Heart Songs" would be sung and sung again!

You couldn't make a war song in time of peace--not one of the war songs in "Heart Songs" was made that way. Each one had its birth in times of battle---inspired by thrilling days and anxious nights. Each song has its historic memory---its hallowed tradition." What a fascinating story might be woven about each one!

If war times ever should come again---how "Heart Songs" would find a place in every camp---in every home in the land!

It is because "Heart Songs" was made by 20,000 people---most of whom lived in War Times---that its war songs are so complete--that its other nine classes of songs reach out and grasp every phase of human life.

You couldn't make this book in the first place--- and you couldn't make it again. It is an evolution--it just haw to grow!
