things are widely and effentially different ; and if we millake one for the other, the confequence may be fatal.

4

S

K

-1

5

0

y

1-

n

h.,

re

bt

ło

zs

en

to

ad

lly

n-

ag'

ne

er,

h

Tal.

he

le

le

Ac

ê-:

in.

0-

ıp

id.

05/

n, e--

35

1¢ -

It has been fully thewn, that a rebellion of the colonies can have no reasonable prospect of fucceeding; and that it must prove the destruction of all that are concerned in it. But fuppoling that it were likely to fucceed, it is of the utmost importance to confider, what we should gain by it; which would be, after the defolation of our country, and the facrifice of thoufands of lives, an exemption from the authority of the British Parliament, and fubjection to the authority of an American republic. A bleffed exchange this! cipecially if we take into the account the character of our future masters. The principal conductors of the rebellion, would naturally have the principal authority in the republic; and these are men, whose tyrannical usurpation would be more oppressive, than the fcorpion power of the most despotic Prince in Europe. There would be no peace in the colonies, till we all fubmitted to the republican zealots and bigots of New-England; whole tender mercies, when they had power in their hands, have been ever cruel. towards all that prefumed to differ from them in matters either of religion or government.

As foon therefore, as people of this flamp come to be in poffeffion of an established authority, which would be the case should the rebellion fucceed, the dire effects of their perfecuting, and intolerant spirit will be difmally felt by all that shall have courage to diffent; particularly, the members of the Church of England, the Friends or people called Quakers, the Baptifts, those that belong to the German and Dutch Churches, and themoderate and candid part of the Presbyterians themselves. A11. these classes of people then, by promoting the present scheme for an independent government, are abfurdly acting against their. own interest and honour, and contributing to prepare yokes fortheir own necks.

Omy infatuated Countrymen! My deluded Fellow-Subjects, and Fellow-Christians! Open your eyes, I entreat you ; awake from your dreams, and regard your own fafety !

As to you, who are members of the Church of England; it is amazing, that any of you should be fo blind to your own interefts, and fuch apoftates from common fense, as to countenance and co-operate with a plan of procceedings, which, if it succeeds, will at once distress and disgrace you. You are endeavouring to provide arms for your enemies, and to put power into the hands of those who will use it against you. You are fetting up a fort of people for your masters, whose principles you defpife, and who were always fond of fubduing by the iron

rod