 CITY HALL NOTES. $

* The city council will likely have an interesting session on Monday night. The motion to abolish the reform in the tax collector's office and revert to the older and more expensive system will cause a lively debate. There is also the perennial hospital question, and some other controversial matters that promise a midnight seance.

Inspector Sanders has returned from a trip to Dresden, Wallaceburg, Chatham and Appin. He visited several little wards of the Children's Aid fociety and found them in good fosterhomes.

The London General Electric Light Company say they cannot offer the city better terms than 23 cents per light per night. The council is prrespond-ing with other cities so as to scertain the cost of lighting under municipal ownership. The doctors of the city are invited to attend the hospital committee meeting on Saturday night and to express their views. The architects who have hospital plans, are also asked to be pres-

His Mr. Varley has been preaching the gospel his whole life. Over 40 years ago, when but 17 years old, he began the work in the streets of Old London, and was a loved worker of the late Charles Spurgeon, frequently speaking to metropolitan audiences. His work, however, has been specially that of a world-wide evangelist, and he has traveled over the greater part of the world several times. Twenty-three years ago he visited London, and his services at the old Queen's Avenue Methodist Church are still remembered by many. Of those who took part in the services at that time Mr. Varley recalls in particular the assistance of the late Mr. John M. Denton and the late Dr. John Scott, then pastor of St. Andrew's Church. Since then the evangelist has preached the gospel in Micronesia, Malacca Straits Settlements, New Zealand. India and the United States. During the last eight years his work has been mostly in Australia, his home being in Mel-

Yesterday he swallowed about two ounces of chloroform liniment, to poison himself. Dr. English was called and administered emetics.
