Might have saved $18.500

LADY desired to transfer the proceeds of a policy of life insurance from one bank to another in the city of New York. The Insurance amounted to $18,500-and was probably the product of many years of self-denial on the part of both husband and wife.

This money was lost "somewhere" between the two banks. It is a great pity that the amount was not transferred by cheque, but the beneficiary preferred the cash, and it was lost.

Had the Insurance been paid to her in monthly instalments in place of a lump sum there would have been no possibility of disaster, and the unfortunate lady would have saved $18,500. We issue policies payable by monthly instalments throughout life, 240 being absolutely guaranteed.

The same loss might have been incurred in the case of an ill-advised investment. Many fraudulent schemes are offered to life insurance beneficiaries. Why risk the money when our system of payment by monthly cheques guarantees the enjoyment of every dollar of the benefit.
