THE WAR NEWS

The end of another week finds conditions practically unchanged on the west ern battle front, the Germans still ham mering at the Russians in the east with out gaining any important victories, Italy's army and navy entering 'giorously into the war, and the Allies continuing their slow forward movement at the Dardanelles. There is some feeling in England that the German submarine warfare may become more troublesome and destructive, but trade is still going on practically without interruption. Germany's answer to the United States is expected today. The week has brought no news of important victories, Bulgaria or Greece. These three nations still remain neutral. But if the week has brought no news of important victories by the Allies it has certainly has brought no news of important vic-tories by the Allies it has certainly brought none to encourage Germany and Austria. Their power is being worn steadily down. Now Italy will help to Jenkius has ceased to complain, but, one evening his troubles as a straphanger in the street cars got so bad that he felt bound to expostulate.

"Excuse me, sir," he said to the man sitting by him, "but would you mind moving your suitcase? I really can hardly find room to stand."

"Move my suitcase!" gasped the tranger, "Those, sir, are my feet!"

"Is that so?' 'said Jenkins, "Then, we have, would nile them one above.

NOW FOR YOUR SUMMER HOME!

After May 1 we get enquiries about second-hand stoves for summer cottages. Our experience has been that an old stove that has been thrown out after years of use, is not very satisfactory for anyone. It won't bake, and will smoke, and it would be an inconvenience to your pleasure.

We have new stoves at $12.75, $18.00, $21.00 that will give you satisfaction, that won't take up much room, and will help you to enjoy your summer home.

The large audience which attended the concert given by The Ladies' Orchestral Club in Centenary on Thursday night were given an artistic treat seldom if ever surpassed in St. John, This was the first appearance of an organization of which the city has long stood in needan orchestra whose aim is to produce only the best music. From the first number it was apparent that they had received the most skilful training and much praise is due their conductor, William C. Bowden, in bringing together and training such an excellent band of instrumentalists.

Toronto, May 29—H. Gordon Mackenzie of 31 Walmer road, has received a telegram from Ottawa stating that his eldest son, Gordon Alexander Gordon-Mackenzie, had been killed in action on April 23. Lieut. Gordon-Mackenzie enlisted in Victoria, on the 31st Battalion, but was transferred in England to the 16th Battalion Canadian Highlanders. He was thirty-two years of age. A younger brother, Lieut. C. Gordon-Mackenzie, was killed in action last October.

The assisting artists were Mrs. S. Kent Scovil, pianist, and Miss Louise Knight, soprano. Mrs. Scovil first played a well contrasted group of short pieces and later the very difficult Marche Militare of Schubert-Tansig in which her magnificent technique and musicianship were very much in evidence. Miss Knight sang delightfully a group of modern songs and to a very skilful orchestral accompaniment the beautiful Air de Lia from Debussy's Prodigal Son, in which the dramatic qualities of her beautiful voice were never heard to better advantage.
