Mexican Prisoner Revelation of Patch May Win His Liberty

Drug is One of Most Potent and Dangerous in India

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—Twenty acres, growing wild in an old dump alongside the Sunnystac Yards in Long Island City, was found to be a variety of hashish, one of the most potent and dangerous drugs of India. The discovery was made by Commissioner of Corrections Frederick A. Wallis, and resulted from the arrest as week ago of Andres Huerta, a young Mexican sallor, who was sentenced to an indeterminate term in the penitentiary for having satchel full of the weed in his possession.

Huerta, facing a twe-years' term in prison, guided Commissioner Wallis to the spot near the rallroad yards. Mr. Wallis was amazed to see a drug field as large as six city blocks, just across the river from the heart of Manhattan. He was amazed, too, when Huerta told of the way in which he had found the weeds there. The Mexican had been looking for employment in one of the factories in the neighborhood. As he walked across the swamps near the tracks he noticed a weed similar to the drug which is imported from the East and grown in Western Mexico and in the Southwestern United States. Not thinking it was against the law, he took some to his room in the Seamen's Church Institute and smoked it.

Storekeepers in the neighborhood of the rallroad yards said that Mexicans and Spanlards have been seen frequently pleking the weeds from the field, and stuffing them into paper bags, to take home. The habit among addicts, they said, was to rub the weed in their hands until it is reduced to a pulp. Then it is dried and smoked in the form of cigarettes.

Carleton Simon, in charge of the Narcotic Squad, was interested, but not greatly surprised to learn of the Long Island City drug field. The American variety of the drug, cannabis america, is not uncommon in this part of the country, and grows from hemp seed, Dr. Simon said. There is a large hemp factory near the Sunnyside Yards, which would seem to explain such a large tract of the hashish, he explained only a few days ago Dr. Simon picked a stalk in Bowling Green.

Lands Discovered by Expedition

British United Press.
PARIS, Nov. 19—Polar lands which may be discovered by the proposed French expedition to cross the top of the world from Europe to the United States by motor-sledge and airplane will remain the prize of any power that care to calim it, for France will not call it her own, it was said at the Ministry of Education Wednesday. The French navy will supply the planes, the crew and the fuel for the polar expedition, and the Ministry of Education will advance the necessary funds, but the organizers explain that the mission will be purely scientific.

ST. MARY'S W. A. HAD SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Mrs. W. J. Alexander is Elected Head of Body-Branch Complimented

The Senior W. A. of St. Mary's church reviewed the most successful year in its history when its annual year in its history when its annual meeting was held yesterday afternoon with Mrs. W. J. Alexander, president, in the chair. The meeting was held in the W. A. rooms and was opened with devotions led by Rev. R. Taylor McKim, the rector. Mr. McKim complimented the branch on the year's fine record. The loss of a faithful worker in the death of Mrs. J. N. Rogers, was referred to with deep regret. The reports showed that all pledges had been met; an outfit for an Indian boy had been made and the branch had done Christmas work among the poor.
