Satisfactory Prices

For....

Butter.

Cannot be obtained at all seasons of the year unless you use a good butter color. (Of course, in a few individual cases white butter may be preferred.) Such being the case, why not get the best? which is

PARKE'S
COLOR.

Here is a practical test to judge for yourselves: Take one drop of PARKE'S BUTTER COLOR to one ounce of lard or white butter, mix it thoroughly, and you will have a stronger, a more permanent and a more natural tint than if you use one drop of any other butter color on the market.

It imparts no taste nor smell and does not spot the butter. It costs no more than the inferior kinds sold.

AARON MAIN, Pleasant Grove Creamery, says: I have used your Butter Color for three years and found it in every way satisfactory.

A. J. WAGG, O. A. College, says: I have tried Parke's Butter Color and found it a first-class color.

H. H. DEAN, Professor of Dairy Husbandry, says: I beg to inform you that we have tested a sample of the Butter Color sent us by your firm and we found it in every way satisfactory. It is equal in strength and durability to any that we have tried.

Price 13 and 20 cents a Bottle, or to Creameries by the quart or gallon.
