Miramichi Advance.

CHATHAM, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1878.

The McCarthy Mystery.

PATRICK J. SWENNY, Deputy Sheriff of Shediac, was the first witness called on Tuesday morning.

He described the body on the shore and when removed to his lumber shed at Shediac. He also gave an account of the stone, etc., found and being in his charge, also a number of hairs and a piece of manilla found on the stone, but which he had got mislaid.

Witness and another man stood at the second telegraph pole from the station platform one night and could not see any light in the Waverley bar-room, but on approaching to the house they found there was actually a light there.

MRS. ELIZABETH ATKINSON, (wife of the farmer) was the next witness. She remembered the 12th October, 1877, because it was the day the threshing was finished. The men came in late, had a cup of tea and went to bed, leaving myself and Madara Cole (my grandfathers) up.

The wind blew towards the S. W. A candle burned on the kitchen table. The kitchen was two back and two front windows; blinds were down. I heard a noise like a wagon coming down the lane. I told Madara: "there comes Sephan now (Sephan was her son who was in Boston-touche) take the light and see." Madara looked and said, "Grandmother there is no one here." As soon as she went to the door there was no noise at all afterwards.

The sound did not last more than a minute if it was that. The gate at the barn was up and down all the fall. I went through it that day and it was down.

Cross-examined—The sound was like a wagon running on the road and thought it came right to the door. I did not go to bed till about two hours after the farmer (Mr. Atkinson) went.

P. M. GUNN, Memramook, testified to having the stone clothes, etc., in his charge during the trial (taken out of the box in his presence) and no person was allowed to tamper with them. Witness with Dr. Scott observed the spots of lime on the stone the next day after the box was open.

ANTOINETTE WHITE, the oyster man from Batouche, was then called and said: Last October I put seven barrels of oysters on the packed for Shediac and thence by rail to Amherst Monday night. I drove to Shediac in the wagon that is on exhibition here at court. I sold two barrels at Shediac and then drove the wagon in Osborne's barn, and put my horse in Ned Smith's pasture.

There was another wagon there and my wagon was right behind it. I then went and stopped all night at Damien White's. On returning to Osborne's I found my wagon out of doors, Harry said he put it out to put some horse and wagon in the barn. Philip White and I then drove home; stopping at Dyrart's at 9 or 10 o'clock. Mr. Dyrart was away. Philip left me at Cocagne bridge. I had used the wagon for hauling wood and beef. I had another visit to the Waverley and Harry said "Mother here is that man that left his wagon here that time. I went to Amherst that time, leaving my horse at Osborne's. I came back next morning and went home. I told Harry I heard McCarthy had been found in their cellar, and he said it was not so. John Ward had been in my wagon.

THOMAS E. MOORE, station agent at Amherst was then recalled and a fearful confusion of legal points and railway bills ensued. Nothing of importance was arrived at.

On Wednesday, 4th inst., MR. WOOD deposed that he saw Harry Osborne in Shediac between the 1st and 11th October, 1877, with an overcoat and rubber round it on one foot and some other kind of shoe on the other foot.

Cross-examined—I cannot swear to any other part of his clothing. JAMES FLUKES, conductor on the I. C. R. gave evidence as to bringing Antoine White on his train from Amherst to Painesco one Saturday last.

MADORA COLE testified to being with her grandmothers, Mrs. Farmer Atkinson, at the farmer's, and heard the noise of the wagon on the night of the 12th October.

Cross-examined—I thought the noise was behind the barn. The dogs were shut up in the entry.

FRANK GOVONS testified to finding the stone produced in court in the Meadow on the east side of the channel. His father's house occupied the ground now occupied by the Waverley and it had three fire places. After the house was removed he saw the stones lying round the Waverley and in the Waverley House wall.

MRS. ELIZABETH MCCARTHY, widow of deceased, was the next witness. She related the names of her family; their ages, her husband's business and disappearance on Oct. 12th, 1877. She saw him that day on a boat at Point du Chenais. Never saw him since till she saw him dead. (Witness wept very much and spoke low.) He had taken in over the bar as much as $80 in one day.

Court adjourned at 2 o'clock. Mrs. McCarthy continued her direct testimony. Just before my husband went away in the train that day he gave me $5 from a roll as large as my hand (below wrist). Made inquiries for him, but found no information. I went to Shediac about the 24th, as I had heard he left his horse at the Weldon House. Mr. Weldon refused to let her have the horse. She went to Osborne's and John spoke about seeing her on the train and she said she was in his mind (he was sick) or romancing, and she said she saw me on the train and thought it strange that I did not speak to him. I said he did not see me on the train because I was not there. Eliza said my husband was there (at the Waverley) that night and she had some talk with him. She said Mr. Chip Smith was there with him again, but she did not see him. Eliza said she talked with him about a girl in Monct
