THE WALLACE CASE IN POLICE COURT

Witnesses Tell of Attempts to Pass Raised Check

But Merchants to Whom He Applied Did Not Take Kindly to the Scheme—Chief Clerk Also on Stand.

In the police court this morning four drunks were disposed of.

Chas. Shannon, one of the drunks, who claimed St. Andrews as his home, later asserted that he arrived on the Boston express yesterday from Maine. Efforts will be made to deport him via the C. P. R.

The case of Frank Wallace, who endeavored to pass a raised check was dealt with.

Walter Beattie, of the firm of Beattie and Johnston, Main St., was the first witness. On Wednesday morning, he said, between 9 and 9:30 o'clock I showed the prisoner some clothing and after looking at several suits he settled upon a $15 suit and selected a $15 rain coat. He stated he would take the goods if I would cash a check for him. Upon my asking to see it he handed the check to me. I asked the prisoner if he was a traveller as I had seen the mention of a raised check in the morning papers. He answered that he was, and acknowledged that he had been the victim of the raised check transaction on the train. He then opened his coat and showed a police badge, saying that anyone wearing this badge could not be mixed up in any scrape like that. He requested to see a copy of the paper and after reading it said that such reports as this placed strangers coming into town at a disadvantage.

He then cut the account of the affair out of the paper and put it in his pocket. Leaving the store he said he would get the check cashed and would come back and get the clothes he selected.

I next saw him with Deputy Chief Jenkins and Detective Killen. In answer to Deputy Jenkins, Mr. Beattie stated he was notified about a raised check by Oak Hall.

Edwin Bonnell of Oak Hall gave evidence of the prisoner entering that store Tuesday morning and selecting a brown suit at $38. He asked if I would cash a check for him. Upon his handing me the check I told him that it would be necessary for me to refer it to the office. I took the check to Mr. Smith, our cashier, who saw that it had been tampered with and that it had been imprinted with and cashed the check. I refused to cash it, as it had the appearance of being tampered with. I noticed the letters "W" and also the "9" after the amount.

STEAMERS WATCHED FOR SUSPECTED MURDERER

American Wanted in Connection With Latest Trunk Mystery is Still Missing.

LYNN, Mass., July 23—Sull without another clue to the whereabouts of the missing Vanah Nabaladian, the Armenian who is wanted in connection with the trunk mystery revealed yesterday and with no additional light thrown on the death of Miss Montjian, whose body was found in the trunk, Chief of Police Burke continued today to hold to the theory that the murder was committed in the room in which the trunk was discovered, although no one could be found who had heard the report of the shot which caused Montjian's death.

The steamship companies, especially the Trans-Atlantic lines, have been furnished with a detailed description of Nabaladian and in stations have been ordered to detain him if found.

Nabaladian's remark in this city shortly before his disappearance, that he was going to Turkey led the police to believe today that he may be on board a steamship bound for that country.

hearing that a woman "was yelling blue murder near Duke St.," he went to the Currey home. He gained entrance to the room in which the tragedy was being enacted, through a window.

The officer then related the conversation as given under direct examination. Officer Jelyea also went into the room with Perry.

Perry asked Mrs. Curry what was going on. Mrs. Curry had a bruise on her head and said her husband had pushed her against a book case. Witness asked Mrs. Curry if she wanted to give her husband in charge. She replied: "My God, He is the father of my little children."

Perry then went into another room and found Miss Tapley, a nurse. Miss Tapley would give no information about the matter. Perry then returned to the room where the parties were and again asked Mrs. Curry if she wanted to have Curry arrested. She replied in the negative.

The officers then left the house by the front door. In the hall Dr. Curry told them everything was alright.

Girl Gone From London Institution for Ten Days

LONDON, Ont., July 22—Julia Cane, the young Biddulph woman for whom the asylum authorities have been searching for ten days, was found early this morning in the cellar of J. Clancy's house on Victoria street. Mr. Clancy was awakened by his collar dog, which had been barking for over an hour, and he got up and went out to see what was the matter. He found the dog standing in the doorway leading to the cellar, and opening the door he saw the young woman sitting on the collar steps. She is in a serious condition, having been exposed to the damp night, and being very scantily clad during the ten days that she has been at large. It is not known where she obtained food during the days she has been roaming the country.

The Lusitania mails are due at noon tomorrow from New York.

A meeting of the appeals committee will held yesterday afternoon in City Hall.

Tells of Its Successful Operation in the Capital—Thinks St. John Would Benefit by Its Adoption

LIQUOR "AS REQUIRED"

TORONTO, July 22—Some startling facts showing the freedom with which liquor is sold in a local option town under doctors' orders were told in the County Court yesterday, when George Collard, a Saultville druggist, was fined $100 and costs by Magistrate Dills for selling liquor in contravention of the license act.

The liquor, a small flask of whiskey, was produced in court, and two Freeville officers told of obtaining it on July 12 from an old man named John Graham, whom they had seen purchasing it.

In his defence, Mr. Collard said he had sold the liquor to a man named John Mayer, who told him he wanted it for "old Mr. Graham," who was applying liquor to Graham and to people who said they wanted it for Mr. Graham for two years past. He had been doing this on a verbal instruction from Dr. Walter A. Sangster of Saultville, to give Graham liquor "as required."

Dr. Sangster, who was called by the defence, admitted that he did not know that he had never given the defendant a written order or prescription for the liquor. One written prescription for liquor, issued by the witness' brother, Dr. A. Sangster, was produced. It read: "Give the bearer what liquor he requires." A. Sangster, M. D.

Collard, when questioned about his sales to other people, admitted he had been doing a good trade in liquor.

REGULUS REACHES PORT WITH BOW SMASHED IN

Collided With Iceberg on Way to St. John's—Jettisoned Deck Cargo But Had Narrow Escape From Sinking

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 22—With her bows completely smashed in as the result of a collision with an iceberg off Cape Race this morning, the freight steamer Regulus arrived here tonight after a narrow escape from foundering. The Regulus had on a heavy cargo, including a deckload of boilers and machines. As the ship settled by the head, officers and crew worked with desperate energy to jettison the deckload as well as a hundred tons of coal. This eased the steamer sufficiently for her to make this port. It was the worst iceberg wreck seen here in many years.

The Regulus left Philadelphia July 2 for St. John's (Nfld.) at which place she arrived on the 8th. Her destination upon leaving St. John's is not known.
