Example Better Than Precept. Mother—Why, Bobby, you are very late from Sunday-school; did you come directly from the church?

Bob (with conscious rectitude)—No, ma; the teacher told us that cleanliness was next to godliness; so, after Sunday-school was out, some of the boys went in swimming.—New York Sun.

SOME MEN OF THE TIME.

CERTAIN PROMINENT CITIZENS DESCRIBE THEMSELVES.

The Trials and Triumphs of Some of Our Leading Lawyers, Undertakers and Others—The Esteem in Which They Say They Are Held by an Appreciative World.

One of the great difficulties which the impartial historian has to encounter is the lack of reliable data in regard to the great men of the past.

No man's neighbor knows as much about him as he knows about himself. Acting on this idea, the Historical Publishing Company of Canada has issued a most valuable addition to the biographical literature of the nineteenth century.

Mayor Thorne, of course, heads the list, with a portrait. His worship is, however, rather retiring in his nature, and has permitted only a brief sketch of himself.

Next in point of importance come the lawyers. These useful and hard-working citizens are handicapped, as a rule, by an unwritten law, which makes it unprofessional for them to advertise their business.

Prominent in the list is Mr. Charles L. Richards, who describes himself as "one of the most popular and best known members of the legal profession in New Brunswick."

Mr. Richards is not alone in being popular and highly esteemed. "There is no one better known or more respected at the bar of New Brunswick than is Mr. A. A. Stockton, D. C. L., L. L. D., M. P. P."

Mr. Ezekiel McLeod, Q. C., LL. B., claims that his firm is also one of the most prominent and best known. He devotes some space to a sketch of his political career, and emulates Mr. Richards in stating that "in both professional and political life, Mr. McLeod is held in the highest estimation in all circles."

William Bedell Wallace is "amongst those who have had a long and varied experience in the law and who stand high in professional circles." He informs the public that "he possesses a sound and practical knowledge of his profession, energy in its practice and very excellent natural abilities."

He is also an alderman of Portland and thinks that he has been "discharging his duties in that position to the satisfaction of his fellow citizens and with credit to himself."

"Prominent among the members of the learned profession of the law practising in St. John is Mr. Richard F. Quigley, LL. B., B. C. L." Mr. Quigley says that "possessing high ability and energy, he has established a good connection and first-class reputation."

Mr. Willet details at some length the various positions he holds in church, state and society, and explains his high standing by the following lucid sentence: "On account of the interest he takes in all institutions with which he is connected; being a hard worker that can be ascribed as a reason for the honors that have been conferred on him by his fellow members."

Several other lawyers appear in the list. It was of course impossible to include all the members of the profession, and only a sufficient number have been given to show the stranger of today and the historian of the future the men who are to the front in the year 1888.

It will sustain life for weeks by injection alone and has saved many a child from diphtheria and unable to swallow even liquids.

Has Saved Many Lives. Dr. H. A. RUNDLETT, the well known medical authority, writes: "I desire to thank the J. P. Bush Manufacturing Co., for the great benefit derived from the use of Bovinine in my practice in children's diseases."

Mr. C. E. Brackett, of the St. John Dye works, has a sketch of himself, just before the sketches of the lawyers. Not far from this is a pretty bit of pathos, in the autobiography of M. N. Powers, the undertaker.

Mr. Powers begins his sketch by an essay on what the model undertaker should be. "The peculiar calling," as he terms it, "requires a temperament and disposition possessed by few."

The biography of Mr. Powers is a prose poem in itself.

So much has been said of the professions that a review of the biographies of the other classes must be left for a future issue.

When the bi-centennial of St. John is celebrated the local historian will find much curious and valuable information in the pages of Our Dominion.

Herein, we may venture to say, lies the very point and secret of Madame Janauschek's triumph. She has modified the theatre-goers of a former generation, and, without marring the model, has recast it to meet the approval of the theatre-goers of today.
